NEW CITY GOVERNMENT

Old Officials Re-Elected at First Meeting of 1918 Aldermen

The inauguration of the city government of 1918 took place at three o'clock Tuesday afternoon at City Hall with about the smallest attendance of spectators for many years, less than one hundred persons being present.

Mayor Edwin O. Childs was inaugurated as mayor for a third term, being the third mayor to have that honor in the history of the city, Mayors J. Wesley Kimball and Henry E. Cobb being the others. The board of aldermen is the same as last year with three exceptions, Messrs. Wickliffe J. Spaulding of ward 4, Harry L. Cook of ward 5, and Philip Nichols of ward 7 being the new members.

The aldermen met at three o'clock, President Bernard Early of the 1917 board being chosen president pro tem, and a committee headed by Alderman Goodwin escorted Mayor Childs, Judge William F. Bacon of the Police Court, and Rev. Robert L. Rae of the North Church, to the chamber. The oath of office was administered to the Mayor by Judge Bacon, and by the mayor to the members-elect of the board of aldermen and of the school committee, who were present. The Mayor then delivered his inaugural address, which will be found in full on another page.

Alderman Early was elected president of the board and in expressing his thanks for that honor, urged the importance of attendance at committee meetings, and suggested more active work in matters of legislation at the State House.

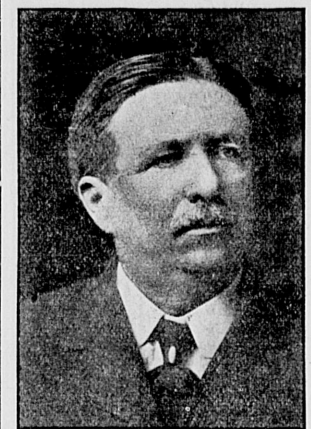

Alderman George M. Angier, who had been nominated for vice-president, declined that honor, and Alderman Henry I. Harriman was chosen to that office. This little episode was later explained when it was found that Alderman Angier had been appointed as chairman of the Finance committee, and Alderman Harriman, who had been chairman of the Public Works committee last year, had been transferred to the License committee. Francis Newhall was then elected city treasurer for the 13th year, and J. C. Brimblecom elected clerk of committees for the 21st year of service.

The board then adopted routine orders continuing the rules and orders of 1917, referring all unfinished business to appropriate committees, authorizing committees on Mayor's Address and Legislation, authorizing the printing of the Mayor's address, establishing office hours for City Hall, and authorizing temporary loans amounting to $1,580,000 during the year.

Alderman Goodwin opposed the usual order for ringing bells on February 22 as a waste of money during war time, but the board refused to follow him.

Orders were adopted for a new motor ambulance for the Health Department at a cost of $1100, for $1550 for payment of Pumping Station expenses, and $500 additional for Mothers' Aid during 1917.

ALDERMAN BERNARD EARLY
President of 1918 Board

Mayor Childs sent in the following appointments:
Lewis Coffin, Chairman of Assessors for 3 years, William W. Colton, Superintendent of Moth Suppression, W. B. Randlett as Forest Warden and Inspector of Petroleum, James King-

A GREAT SOCIAL SUCCESS

Grand Military Ball at State Armory, West Newton, on Saturday Night a Brilliant Affair

The Grand Military Ball on Saturday evening in the State Armory at West Newton, eclipsed all previous social events of the season and a notable gathering of members of Newton society enjoyed the festivities which were made more brilliant still by the presence of many distinguished military officers from Camp Devens and the Massachusetts State Guard.

This enjoyable affair which was a sort of "social and military get together," was arranged by the co-operation of the Headquarters Company of the 301st Field Artillery at Camp Devens, which is largely composed of Newton men, and Company A of the 11th Regiment of the Massachusetts State Guard which is made up entirely of Newton men. It was for the benefit of the Headquarters Company Fund of the 301st Regiment.

Preceding the dance many dinners were given which were a delightful beginning to the evening's festivities. The largest of these was given at the Brae Burn Country Club and was a very gay and interesting affair. The American and English Officers from Camp Devens were honored guests of Company A at this dinner and were conveyed in automobiles from the station at Waltham to Newton's popular Club, where an atmosphere of complete hospitality and home-like charm awaited them. The dinner which was under the direction of Captain Waldron H. Rand, Jr., of Newton Centre and other officers of the State Guard, was officially a feature of the evening's entertainment and the sumptuous repast was enjoyed by about sixty-five guests.

Among those at the dinner were Captain and Mrs. Waldron H. Rand, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. E. Ray Spear, Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Ayer, Mr. and Mrs. A. Dudley Dowd, Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Ayres, Sergeant and Mrs. George Walker, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Crumpton, Sergeant and Mrs. Augustus T. Beatty, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Hubbard, Mrs. Margaret Holcomb, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur W. Rayner, and Mr. and Mrs. Prescott Warren.

Among the young ladies present at the dinner were Miss Spear, Miss Dorothy Spear, Miss Warren, Miss Frances Warren, Miss Susan Fessenden, Miss Louise Fessenden, Miss Loomis, Miss Wilkins, Miss Virginia Delano, and Miss Marion Manson.

After the dinner the guests repaired to the State Armory where a large reception was held. In the receiving line were Honorable Edwin O. Childs, Mayor of Newton; Colonel Pfaff, Major John C. de Mille, Captain Pratt, and Captain Waldron H. Rand, Jr.

The ladies who received, included Mrs. Waldron H. Rand, Jr., Mrs. Harry L. Ayer, Mrs. George Walker, Mrs. James Gardner White, Mrs. Rand was gowned in black satin and net with jet trimmings; Mrs. Walker was in white satin and tulle with silver lace and garniture of pink and white flowers, and Mrs. Ayer wore black silver brocade. Mrs. White's gown was an effective combination of cream colored lace and cerise.

The drill hall at the Armory was decked out in patriotic splendor with time honored flags and banners and streamers of bunting for this elaborate function which was attended by a large and fashionable gathering numbering about 600, including military officers and ladies from surrounding towns where there are Home Guard Companies.

Long before the dancing commenced, desirable seats were chosen by the clientele who enjoy looking on and the dancing contingent awaited the first strains of the 301st Regimental band, which burst forth in rhythmic melody, and stimulated the dancers who glided over the waxen floor in an ever moving picture, which was both colorful and effective.

Because of the many military men being present in smart uniforms at the dance the good time was even more in evidence and to know where to begin making notes of the beautiful gowns worn by the matrons and the fluffy costumes of the girls, would be quite bewildering.

Among the distinguished guests were Colonel Applin who is head of the British Military Mission, and Captain Hodson, the British attaché, and Military Expert at Ayer, Lieutenant Clement, and Captain Turner, who were entertained at dinner before the dance by Lieut. Edward M. Richards and Mrs. Richards, at their home in West Newton.

The Military attaches from Camp Devens were Lieutenant Hewes, and Captain Turner, and other officers were Captain Brown, Captain Haffner, Captain Tracy, Lieutenant Shattuck, Lieutenant Sharon, Lieutenant Leary, Lieutenant Churchill, Lieutenant Mansfield, Lieutenant Blodgett, Lieutenant Hess, Lieutenant Ward, Lieutenant Murphy, Lieutenant Foote, Lieutenant Boardman, Lieutenant Walsh, Lieutenant Jencks, Lieutenant Kaufman, and Lieutenant Douglas.

Other Newton ladies who gave dinners and extended the hospitality of their homes to the officers over Sunday were Mrs. Dana L. Ripley, Mrs. Louis K. Liggett, Mrs. Arthur C. Badger, Mrs. James F. Sweeney, and Mrs. Bacon.

Lieutenant Richards of Company A, was chairman of the Committee on Arrangements; Lieut. Charles M. Ford was in charge of the Guard, and Mr. Harry L. Ayer was chairman of the group of ushers which included, Alderman Arthur W. Hollis, Alderman Henry I. Harriman, Mr. Herbert Pope, Mr. Fredk T. Walsh, Mr. Harry M. Stonemetz, and Mr. A. Dudley Dowd.

COASTING ACCIDENT

A serious coasting accident took place last Friday noon on Central street, Auburndale when a double runner collided with a telephone pole opposite 251 Central street. Thomas Forrester aged 15 years, of 208 Auburn street was injured about the face, and Fred Depew aged 15 years of Rowe terrace broke his leg, and both lads were taken to the Hospital. William Coulson of Grove street was also slightly injured and was taken home.

ONE SESSION SCHOOLS

At the meeting of the School Committee held on Tuesday evening, Jan. 1st, it was voted that all the elementary schools should, until further notice, run on a one session plan, from 8.30 to 12.30 o'clock. This does not affect the Kindergarten.

MISS FOLGER'S SUCCESS as a Photographer of children has resulted in her business being extended into all of the Newtons and the surrounding towns. Mothers have found it so satisfactory having their photographs and those of their children taken at home that the greater part of Miss Folger's photographing is now being done in the homes of her patrons. Mothers who are willing to take their children to the Studio however are finding the pictures at eight dollars a dozen very satisfactory. If you are not able to talk with Miss Folger over the telephone, drop her a post-card and she will communicate with you promptly.

GIVEN LEAVE OF ABSENCE

Central Church Takes Action on Resignation of Rev. A. J. Muste

Central Congregational Church of Newtonville held a special meeting which filled their chapel to the doors last Friday evening to act upon the resignation of their pastor, Rev. A. J. Muste, which was presented to the church on December 9. The following report of the Standing Committee was presented.

Central Church is facing at the present time one of the most serious and trying situations which has ever been presented to it. An honest but radical difference of opinion as to our duty as Christians in relation to the great world crisis in which now our nation has become deeply and permanently involved, has arisen between pastor and people. Since the position which each has taken is based upon thoughtful and conscientious consideration of our obligations in the matter as followers of Jesus and a sincere interpretation of the message as it comes to us individually from God through his Holy Scriptures, it has been extremely difficult, nay even impossible, to find any common ground on which we could come together without sacrificing our honest convictions.

During his three years' pastorate with us, Mr. Muste has established himself deeply and firmly in the affections of the people. He has also proved himself, and approved himself as a man of unusual spirituality, of brilliant mind, and fervently and heroically Christian in his fearless presentation of the message as it has come to him from our Lord and Master. We honor, respect and love him.

On the other hand, the titanic struggle for democracy as against autocracy in which the whole civilized world is engaged, has had an ever-increasing appeal for us, citizens of the greatest republic in the world, and members of a religious denomination which was established right here in our own state at untold sacrifice by our Pilgrim forefathers, and whose cornerstone is liberty. During the first two and a half years of the war, we as a Christian people hoped that our nation might be the instrument by which a peaceful solution of the great problem could be brought about. Meanwhile we grew more and more horrified at the terrible things done in the war, and especially at the unholy spirit which seemed to prompt them. So, when last April, the President led this nation into participation in the great struggle, as he says, "to vindicate the principles of peace and justice against selfish and autocratic power," most of us had to give assent to the decision as a wise one, and, in common with the people all over the land, we responded loyally to the call of the nation, giving first of our most precious possessions, the young men in our homes, then of our money, and of various forms of service which call for the giving of time, energy and personal sacrifice, in larger and larger measure. The churches were called upon to assist the work of the nation through public prayer and in other general ways. The attitude which our pastor felt conscientiously obliged to assume toward some of these things tended to widen the breach already started as the world situation increased its grip upon our hearts, and the significance and value of these various matters loomed larger and larger to the minds of many of our people.

As a consequence, the situation this fall seemed to have become sufficiently serious to call for some action by your committee in whose hands you have placed for the time being certain responsibilities for the interests of the church as an organization.

Accordingly a series of conferences with the pastor was begun, at first by individuals among the officers. At the regular meeting of the Standing Committee in November Mr. Muste made a full and frank statement of his position with reference to the war and the reasons for his action in the matter. After he had retired from the meeting, the committee discussed his statement and the whole situation long and earnestly. As a result a vote of confidence in Mr. Muste's absolute sincerity in the matter was passed, and a committee of three, the Moderator, Clerk, and Mr. Davidson, was appointed to confer with the pastor and present to him the situation as it appeared to the committee.

The sub-committee met Mr. Muste the following evening, and its first proposition was to ask if there was not some common ground on which we could meet, and whether he would consider taking a six months' leave of absence to be used by him in some form of Red Cross or Y.M.C.A. work. His immediate reply was that he could not conscientiously do so. After a long and frank discussion he was given time to further consider the situation. One month from that date he

The Gospel of Economy and Service

Unity of action should be practiced and preached by consumer and merchant alike—the greatest unnecessary expense is that which is classed under head of "Free delivery." Many of the leading merchants have ceased delivering; others are making an extra charge; while many more are collecting five cents additional on purchases when deliveries are expected.

G. A. C. Knight will still continue to deliver, but respectfully requests the people of Newton and surrounding towns to inroll their full order in one, as our trucks will make but one delivery a day in any given locality. This is one way where all can help to check the tendency towards rising prices; the other way is to "Buy locally and talk it."

FRIDAY—SATURDAY—MONDAY

Fancy Baldwin Apples, 45c pk.

Economy—Plan for several meals in your meat purchase. Illustration—Hind Quarter Lamb, approximate weight 12 lbs. @ 20c lb. furnishes you with a Leg to Roast, 12 to 14 Chops, trimmings for a Stew. Same rule applies to Hind Quarter of Yearling Lamb @ 22c lb.

Wilson's Certified Oleomargarine and Nut Margarine. Oleo contains a proportion of animal fat, sterilized cream and pure butter; Nut Margarine same proportion of cream and butter, minus the animal fat—nut oil used instead. Include a pound in your order and know its goodness.

Pork Roast, 27c lb.; Fresh Shoulders, 25c lb.; Sweet Pickled Shoulders, 25c lb.; Best Short Rib Lamb Chops, 30c lb.; a good Sirlion Steak, 33c lb.; Vermont Turkeys, 40c lb.; Fresh Killed Chickens, 35c lb.

A suggestion: Our lines are busy Saturdays. Anticipate your order Friday, and appreciate the best of service—orders taken until 7 P. M. Friday evening.

By request of our employees and in the interest of labor in general this store closes every Wednesday at noon. If you approve of this movement endorse it by leaving your full order before noon of said day.

Your table should not be classed as an expense; watch the market; take advantage of good "buys"; come to market if you can; telephone if you must; in either case your orders will be carefully attended to.

If you know our clerks by name and you have a preference, the operator will call him.

Providing you are seeking a home market where your table needs will be cared for with a minimum of bother and a maximum of efficiency and satisfaction, call Mr. Hopkins or Billings.

FIFTH INAUGURAL ADDRESS OF MAYOR EDWIN O. CHILDS January 1, 1918

Gentlemen of the Board of Aldermen:

In the midst of the perplexities and confusion and uncertainties and strain of the greatest war of history, I wish each one of you and every man, woman and child in this city a happy and prosperous New Year.

To express such a wish at a time like this requires courage and faith—the two things most needed in the world today, and with which every true American should be abundantly supplied.

We must be optimists in spite of all which there is to discourage us. We must see the sunshine, beyond the clouds. Shadows are only cast when there is light behind.

We meet here this New Year's day as representatives of the people, chosen to administer the affairs of our city.

They ask for good government and they have a right to expect from us that for which they ask.

Most of us have been returned to our respective offices without opposition. We were unopposed at the last municipal election.

That does not necessarily mean that the people of Newton are fully satisfied with our services and with what we have accomplished in the past.

They ought not to be.

There is certainly opportunity for improvement in the administration of our municipal affairs notwithstanding the fact that the past year has been one of accomplishment and of progress.

Mindful of the mistakes and failures of the past, I ask you to join with me today in giving to all of our people the best sort of service, ever bearing in mind that the public welfare will be best promoted by constant watchfulness and fairness on our part in every transaction, and by getting an adequate return for every expenditure of public money.

It is customary upon an occasion like this to review the work of the year which has closed and to make suggestions for the coming one.

Inasmuch as most of you are quite as familiar as I am with the work of 1917 I shall not weary you, at this time, with a recital of its accomplishments.

To refresh your recollection and for the enlightenment of the newly-elected members of this Board I shall refer you to the annual reports of the several heads of departments. I have made the request that these reports be prepared promptly so as to be available for your use at the earliest possible moment.

A careful perusal of these documents as well as of my previous addresses will suggest to your minds needed improvements, some of which have already been recommended though not favorably reported by your predecessors.

I wish to express my appreciation, to the members of last year's Board of Aldermen, for their co-operation; also to the various Boards, the Heads of Departments, the Clerks in City Hall and to all the employees of the city for their very great assistance, and for the cheerfulness with which they have discharged their many trying and exacting duties.

Working together we have contributed largely toward making our city what she is today, an attractive city in which to live and a safe one in which to do business.

In spite of the great world war which is so depressing, we have much for which to be thankful.

Our municipality is on a sound financial basis.

Not only is our city on a sound financial basis, but we have also a proper method of accounting and auditing. Steps have been taken during the past year toward a better method of purchasing.

Payrolls have been honestly compiled and an endeavor has been made to have the least number of useful employees and have them work as nearly as possible to full time.

The labor problem is the big problem everywhere, but thus far the city of Newton has not been embarrassed.

The new sections to the reservoir were completed this fall and water as usual has been excellent, plentiful and provided at comparatively low cost.

The Fire Department has been motorized, our building code strengthened and life and property have been protected.

The health of the city was never better. In war times the health of a community is its biggest asset. Our local Health Board has kept a careful oversight of the sanitation and food of the community, of housing conditions, collection of garbage and disease.

The health and vital energy of our people is the important requisite today. The soldiers of the nation of the present and future must be vigorous and healthy. That means proper recreation and play for our youth, and right living conditions for all our people.

Playgrounds are a necessity today. Not long ago they were considered a luxury.

We must properly care for the youth of our city that they may become an asset to the city and not a public burden. That means that appropriations for the maintenance of schools and playgrounds ought not to be cut in wartime.

Juvenile crime has increased in many European cities and in some American cities since the war began. We must see to it that it does not increase in this city.

A higher standard of education than ever before is required today.

The times demand it.

And now for one or two suggestions.

Consider, if you will, the advisability of establishing building lines on some of our more important streets, and the acceptance of the Board of Survey Act.

Consider also the advisability of separating traffic on Commonwealth Avenue, reserving the south side for eastbound and the north side for westbound traffic.

If this is done traffic should be separated from Chestnut Hill Road in Brighton to Lake Street, thence continuing through to Weston Bridge. This might be accomplished with the co-operation of the city of Boston.

The whole drainage system in the city should be carefully studied that sufficient drainage may be provided for many of our older streets.

The drainage problem is the big problem which faces our city today, and it is the one problem which has been neglected in the past twenty years.

The work on South Meadow Brook should be continued and a little done each year until the work is completed down to Upper Falls. This will provide drainage for approximately fifteen hundred acres of land.

Commonwealth Avenue off Prince Street should receive immediate attention, and the most dangerous curve as well as the sharpest radius curve on the avenue improved.

The ordinance in regard to new streets calls for a gravel roadway. I suggest that it might be in the line of progress to require a better type of surface, and have the city pay the additional cost.

Steps have already been taken which will result in the uniformization of street signs and traffic signs, thanks to Alderman Blake's careful study of the situation.

The increasing number of automobiles puts travellers on our highways in greater danger. This situation necessitates more traffic officers.

There should be an additional officer in Nonantum Square on Saturday afternoons from 4 to 6 o'clock.

Traffic officers are needed at the junction of Commonwealth Avenue and Centre, Walnut, Washington and Lexington streets, especially in the summer time from early in the afternoon up to nine o'clock at night.

They are also needed in the vicinity of schoolhouses during certain times of the day.

Our police force should be large enough so that this work can be done without leaving important routes unprotected.

Police officers should have revolver practice, and such an innovation would be possible by making a temporary rifle range at comparatively small cost in the basement of the old church next door.

The city ordinances require that there shall be a captain in the Newton police force. There has been none since Captain Ryan retired several years ago.

I would suggest that we live up to the ordinance, and that the office of captain be filled. This means an additional salary and an appropriation for the same.

There are many new improvements which are needed which we ought to bear in mind and provide when the times warrant undertaking them.

In war times the cry is for economy, and a wise economy we ought as public servants to at all times practice.

Even if we cannot undertake them at the present time, we ought at least as far-sighted officials to keep the catalogue of public needs in mind.

Among others we might mention an incinerator, the enlargement of the Cook Street yards, the extension of Langley Road to Boylston Street, the widening of Centre Street, thus extending the widening made recently to Paul Street.

A new City Hall on the site provided through the generous gift of some of West Newton's public-spirited men, a new fire station at Auburndale, the reforestation of our water shed, an addition to the treasurer's office, and alterations in the old patrol stable, the erection of suitable buildings for the Forestry and Street departments at the Crafts Street yard, a new central office fire alarm system to replace our present automatic system, electric lights in schoolhouses, and the completion of the old Washington Street widening job, by taking Brackett's coal yard, thus abating a nuisance.

When the time is ripe for so great an undertaking steps should be taken toward interesting cities and towns, bordering on Charles River and surrounding Newton, in a proposition to unite on some plan to eliminate mosquitoes. This would cost money, but if accomplished would be worth all that it cost.

These matters we should ever have in mind. They lie along the future development of our city.

Considerable discussion is heard these days as to just what a municipality should do in time of war.

I think that we are all agreed that only necessary work should be done.

The difficulty will be in agreeing on just what is "necessary."

For my part, I believe that Newton should be kept on the same high plane as a municipality where she has always stood. The amount of municipal work ought in all probability to be somewhat reduced and yet no work should be suspended or permitted to go undone which is necessary for the well being of our city.

We must see to it that those functions which are essential to the health, comfort and well being of our people, and therefore the progress of our municipality, are not curtailed.

Even in the blackness of war we must get ready for the dawn of peace. We must believe where we cannot see.

Newton must be ready for war just as long as it shall last, but she must also be ready for peace when it comes, whether it be in five months or five years.

We must face our civic duties with faith and patriotism, with prudence and courage.

City Hall in 1918 will be no place for an obstructionist, a pessimist or a timid public servant.

We must attempt what should be attempted and get all the light possible as to just what we ought to do.

Public improvements must necessarily be somewhat restricted during the continuance of the war, and labor and materials necessary for war purposes should not be diverted to other uses, and yet improvements necessary for the public health and welfare should receive prompt attention.

I believe that one of the most important things for us to do is to see to it that our highways are properly maintained. Street construction and maintenance should not be neglected.

Several times I have called to your attention the condition of the streets in the Oak Hill district, more particularly Dedham street, the main thoroughfare from the south side of our city to Roxbury, Dedham and the South Shore.

Last March General Wood wrote to Governor McCall that Boston was well supplied with radial roads, but that there should be a good road around Boston, and that we were not supplied with any good concentric roads that connected up the radials.

Dedham Street would be of just this character connecting up the line between Dedham and Boston with the main highways running out through Framingham, Worcester and Springfield.

In my opinion this street should receive attention, and serious attention, and the Massachusetts Highway Commission shares this opinion with me.

Again I remind you of the conditions of the streets in the Oak Hill district, and the advisability of improving them as a war measure.

During the past year the city of Newton has lost by death five public officials, ex-Mayor Hermon E. Hibbard, Judge John C. Kennedy, Messrs. William F. Harbach, Seth C. Stevens, and Assistant Chief of the Fire Department George S. Holmes.

Mayor Hibbard's life will ever inspire the youth of this city who knew him. He achieved the greatest success through persistent effort in spite of obstacles which challenged the best that was in him from the very start.

Judge Kennedy's service on the bench of the Newton Police Court and as a Public Library trustee will long be remembered. He taught us all the value of common sense.

Mr. Harbach's interest in Newton affairs and the contribution which he made to her advancement will never be forgotten by those who served with him in the Board of Aldermen or on the Board of Health. He was a keen analyzer of men and measures. Few men have served the city longer. None have served her better.

Mr. Stevens had served as one of the registrars of voters since 1900, and always performed his duties as such well.

Chief Holmes for many years fought fires bravely and won. He fought the battle for health still more bravely, but lost.

The following city employees were retired on pensions during the year:

In the Police Department:

Lieut. William P. Soule.

Lieut. Robert S. Harrison.

Sergt. Thomas C. Clay.

Lieut. and Inspector Frank B. Fletcher.

Patrolmen Ambrose M. Fuller and Rufus Moulton.

In the Fire Department, Engineer Reuben Cummings.

In the Highway Department, Messrs. William F. Burke, James Mills, Owen Gallagher, John Mulcahy and John Looskin.

In the Forestry Department, John Deary.

They served the city with fidelity. The best years of their lives were given to promoting her interests.

Messrs. Frank E. Judkins, Noah F. Bosworth, Peter Flaherty and James Collins, all pensioners, have died; also Thomas Kiley, James Hannigan and Thomas Sweeney, employees of the Highway Department.

Mr. Kiley was one of the city's oldest and best employees, and Mr. Sweeney was the only young man in Newton whom I knew who always gave his full pay envelope to his mother.

On April 4, S. F. Chadbourne and Frank Barrows retired from the Fire Department, after nearly forty years of service as call men. They could not receive a pension, although they, with other call men, similarly retired, deserved one.

I cannot close my address without paying my tribute to the patriotic spirit of all of our people manifested so generously in this crisis in our world's history and at this time of great national peril.

Of Newton's war record we may all be proud.

Service and sacrifice have characterized the action of our people. All along the line from little Robert Toher over yonder on River Street, in the first grade of the Franklin School, who came into City Hall one morning and left ten cents "to help out the soldiers" who were going to Camp Devens, to the citizen who gave $25,000 to help the boys in the training camps, and then on to the boys who have made the supreme sacrifice and to their good mothers who gladly let them go—it has been one continuous panorama of patriotism and service.

Nor can we forget the Liberty Loan, the success of the drives for the Y.M.C.A., the Knights of Columbus and Community Recreation, all of which witnessed a generous outpouring of the wealth of this city to pay the bills of battle, to win the war and save character.

The work done by faithful men and noble women for Red Cross, Surgical Dressings, Special Aid, French, Belgian and Syrian Relief and other kindred organizations is a cause for rejoicing and indicates that the spirit at home is keeping pace with that in training camp, on the sea and in the trenches.

I wish to acknowledge the debt which the city owes to the members of the Committee on Public Safety, to the State Guard which replaces C Company, to the Constabulary, the Advisory and Exemption Boards, as well as the physicians who served the Exemption Board.

No one who has not been in close touch with these activities has any conception of the tremendous amount of work which these organizations have undertaken and done well.

The way in which older men responded promptly and cheerfully to the call for service, was, in my judgment, a big factor in leading younger men to clearly see their duty in the present crisis.

The work, too, which has been done by the school children and by the pupils and teachers in our High Schools along the line of food production and conservation has been an important contribution voluntarily made toward helping to win the war.

Mr. Alfred McDonald, who has had charge of school gardens and who is supervisor of nature study in our schools, has secured results which are bound to be lasting.

The story of the patriotic effort of all of our people during these trying times will be forever preserved and will be told just so long as time shall last.

Our lips shall tell it to our sons, And they again to theirs, That generations yet unborn May teach it to their heirs.

And now, Gentlemen of the Board, in taking up the duties of 1918, I assure you that I stand ready and willing to co-operate with you in every good work.

When any of you play politics, as aldermen sometimes do, and as a few Newton aldermen have done in the past, just count me out. At all other times I am with you heart and soul.

What we need is loyalty, courage and team-work. These will not only win the war, but they will make for good government in city, state and nation.

FORMER POLICE OFFICER SITES

Frank W. Larrievie of Newton has filed a petition in the Supreme Court at East Cambridge, asking that writ of habeas corpus be granted him, and that he be released from the custody of the Police Department. Larrievie was arrested on the charge of being a police officer, and was committed to the House of Correction. Larrievie says he was appointed February 29, 1908, and that on November 16, 1917, he received notice of his resignation. He says he has requested the Mayor and Chief of Police to reinstate him, but they have refused. He further says that no charges had been brought against him. The writ is returnable January 8.

COMPETITIVE EXAMINATION

Congressman William H. Carter of the 13th Congressional District announces he will hold a preliminary competitive examination for Annapolis and also for West Point, in Boston on January 9 at 9 A.M.

In order to give the young men of his district a chance to this appointment, he has secured the consent of the U.S. Civil Service Commission to conduct this preliminary examination at the office of the Civil Service Commission, New Custom House Tower, Boston.

The competitor in each examination who receives the highest mark will be named as principal, and the first, second and third alternates will be named from those receiving from the commission the next highest marking. Only those who are actual residents of the district will be allowed to compete in this examination, and there will be no exceptions to the rule.

Anyone desiring to take this examination should write Congressman Carter at once, giving his full name, his parents' name and his complete residential address, together with two references as to his character.

It will be possible for a candidate to take both examinations, providing he notifies the Commission on the morning of January 9, before the examination starts.

Congressman Carter declares that he deems this method in making his appointments to West Point and Annapolis at this time the fairest.

The honor of such an appointment is coveted by a great many young men and it has been thought but just and proper to throw it open to competition and let the best man win.

FIRE PREVENTION COMMISSIONER

The shortage of coal is resulting in a very great increase in the number of frozen water pipes, and the thawing of these water pipes is resulting in a large increase in the number of fire alarms and a consequent fire loss. Frozen water pipes should never be thawed by using a torch or an open flame, nor should the pipes be wrapped with oil-soaked rags and the rags ignited.

Water pipes which freeze are usually adjacent to walls or partitions where there is an ascending draft. A fire started at such a location spreads very rapidly throughout the building.

The only proper way to thaw a frozen water pipe that has been called to my attention is to wrap the section of the pipe that is frozen with cotton cloth and pour hot water upon it. The falling water can be taken care of by means of a pan or some absorbent cloths. If this method fails a licensed plumber should be engaged to assume the responsibility.

SHUBERT THEATRE.—The success of every play is what it gives to you.

Next week, beginning January 7, at the Shubert Theatre, you will get not only a constant big laugh, but many memory chuckles afterwards. You will carry away with you the best time you ever had, for George V. Hobart's latest success, "What's Your Husband Doing?" will be there. "What's Your Husband Doing?" is a rollicking three in three acts, one of which contains a New York cabaret with a jazz band. The play is of novel theme and unique treatment; its characters are true to life; its situations, each one funnier than the other; and its dialogue so rich in witty lines that it is a veritable treasury of newly coined expressions. You will want to see a divorce lawyer's office in the morning, a famous road house that evening, and a country police station the next morning. For your benefit, two law partners, quite in the noble pursuit of business, will get themselves into a series of scrapes that could not be funnier; their respective wives play them a close second; also their stenographer, with her "understand perfectly" and their clients are of varied type, from a cabaret hostess to a young couple, who, each unknown to the other, are consulting legal advice for a seemingly natural reason, but which leads to the most mirth-provoking entanglements.

MAJESTIC THEATRE.—New Englanders, who know the place so well, will welcome the opportunity to see scenes of the famous "Yellow House" of Kate Douglas Wiggin in Maine in the beloved author's newest work, "Mother Carey's Chickens," which comes to the Majestic Theatre, Monday, January 7, under the management of John Cort. The novel has been dramatized by the author and Rachel Crothers, and the novel has been closely followed in the dramatic version. "The Yellow House" made the open house of the village and the stage settings are those of the celebrated house of the novel. There is the famous painted room, the old brick oven, the barn and all the other features of historical interest. Mother Carey is one of those sweet, delightful characters that give unalloyed joy to the villagers, both young and old, seek comfort and solace under her protecting wings.

HALEY—FLANAGAN

The wedding of Mr. William C. Haley and Miss Margaret May Flanagan of Auburndale took place Sunday, December 30, 1917, at the residence of the bride's sister, Mrs. John R. Foristadt, 207 Commonwealth avenue, Auburndale, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Joseph M. Holland at 4 in the afternoon at the rectory of St. Bernard's Church, West Newton.

Miss Margaret Lawless of Newton Lower Falls, the bride's cousin, was bridesmaid, and Mr. William Cornell of Boston, a cousin of the bridegroom, was best man.

The bride was attractively attired in pearl-gray peau de soie and carried a large bouquet of Taft roses. The bridesmaid wore a gown of taupe satin and carried an arm bouquet of Killarney roses.

After the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Haley were assisted in receiving by the bride's mother, Mrs. Ellen Flanagan, and the Misses Harkins of Somerville, aunts of the groom.

The reception and dining-halls were very attractive with artistic Yuletide decorations of holly, evergreen and mistletoe, streamers of red and green, and the national colors.

The groom, who expects soon to enter the military service, is a Newton police officer, and is well known among the sporting fraternity in New England, being prominent in athletics and baseball.

Somerset Maugham, the popular English playwright. It was first acted in London in 1913, and was soon after brought to this country, where it was acted with no little success by Billie Burke. The production of "The Land of Promise" at the Copley Theatre will be its first representation in Boston by a repertory company. It will be acted by the entire ensemble of the Henry Jewett players under the personal direction of Mr. Jewett.

EDITORIAL

Three members of the board of aldermen and one member of the school committee retired from public service this week with the inauguration of our city government for 1918.

Dr. Guy M. Winslow of Auburndale entered the board of aldermen at the height of the Progressive movement with somewhat radical ideas, but his five years of service have made him a conservative, particularly in matters of finance and his work as chairman of the important committee on Finance has been characterized by sound business judgment, impartiality and clear thinking. Alderman Fred W. Cobb has represented ward 5 for four years and has been an intense partisan for his own district and indefatigable in his labors for his own constituents. Alderman Charles N. Fitts of Newton has served for two years without very much opportunity to use the splendid business ability which he possesses. His service in the board has been marked by unusual independence and good judgment.

Mr. Frederick W. Stone retires to private life after serving the city for six years in the board of aldermen and six years in the school committee. His has been good service, faithfully and conscientiously performed. Conservative in his opinions, cool and collected in every situation, Mr. Stone has been a large factor in keeping the appropriations within the means of the taxpayers of Newton, who owe him a hearty vote of thanks for his service in their behalf.

Mayor Childs delivered last Tuesday the best inaugural address of the five years he has held that office. He has done particularly well in outlining a catalogue of improvements which should be completed when normal conditions are restored, and in recommending that only necessary and routine matters be undertaken during the period of the war. Barring the unnecessary reference to possible "politics" by some members of the aldermen at the last of the address, it will rank as an eloquent and satisfactory municipal document.

Alderman Goodwin called attention at the meeting of the city government to the uselessness of ringing the bells on February 22d, but it is hard to make any one realize that precedents are not always safe to follow in war times, and this ancient and honorable custom will still be followed. Let us hope that Mr. Goodwin has made a start on the abolition of a senseless and annoying custom.

SCHOOL COMMITTEE ORGANIZES

The School Committee of 1918 met at the Technical High School building Tuesday evening and organized by the re-election of Mr. Albert M. Lyon of Newtonville as chairman and Miss Celia M. Chase as secretary. With the exception of the order in regard to sessions of the elementary schools, published elsewhere, only routine business was transacted.

TRAVEL TALK ON BELGIUM

Mr. Frederick Parsons of Waban will give a personally conducted travel talk on Belgium on Tuesday, Jan. 15, at 7.45 P. M. at 161 Harvard avenue, Allston, for the Allston and Brighton Branch of the Red Cross. The talk will be illustrated with 100 specially made and color painted slides. Twenty years of European residence and personal rambles in the Old Flemish cities enables Mr. Parsons to bring the Belgian cities and people with their wonderful old art and architecture vividly to sight and mind. There will be appropriate music by Sir Edward Elgar.

UNDER THE GILDED DOME

The Great and General Court has again assembled at the State House for its usual annual session which, on account of war conditions, will undoubtedly be shorter than usual. It convened on Wednesday, re-elected Speaker Cox in the House and President Wells in the Senate, and all of the other officials. With so much unanimity, it was possible for the presiding officers of each branch to make prompt appointment of committees. Senator MacPherson loses the chairmanship of Military Affairs, where he did such good work last year, and is given the chairmanship of Street Railways, which appears to be a most important committee this session on account of the financial condition of the street railways all over the state.

The following item from the South Framingham News gives a clear idea of the work before this committee. "It is conceded on Beacon Hill that the Committee on Street Railways will be the storm center of the year. The situation with respect to Massachusetts Street Railways is very critical and has been steadily growing worse. The great riding public, the investors in street railway securities, and the companies, for the most part, have pleaded for some relief. The legislature last year created a special commission which has made an exhaustive study, visiting the principal cities of the country, and all hands look to this year's legislature for relief. Between the great riding public and the millions invested Senator MacPherson has been chosen to work with his committee for some solution and his selection is a recognition of his courage and integrity.

Senator MacPherson was reluctant to leave the chairmanship of Military Affairs which, during the war, shares with Street Railways as the most important committee of the year. The Senator also retains his position as ranking man on the Judiciary committee, in normal times the most sought and leading committee of the legislature.

The new member from this city, Mr. Leland Powers, is given the chairmanship of Bills in Third Reading, and is also on the important committee on Taxation.

It is rumored that former representative Henry W. Jarvis is an active candidate for the office of Supervisor of Small Towns now held by former state auditor Frank H. Fox, whose only crime seems to be that he is an eloquent member of the Democratic party.

Representative J. Weston Allen loses the chairmanship of Public Service which he held last year and is given a place on the Street Railway Committee. Representative Thomas Weston Jr. is chairman of Constitutional Amendments, a committee that will be of little importance on account of the Constitutional Convention and is also retained as ranking man on Metropolitan Affairs.

Newton residents will be interested in the hearing given Wednesday afternoon by the Governors Council on the recent appointment of Prof. William Z. Ripley of Newton Centre as a member of the Minimum Wage Commission.

William P. Creamer, representing laundry owners, declared that 18 months ago, when Miss Mabel Gillespie was appointed, Gov. McCall promised that Prof. Arthur N. Holcombe would not be reappointed and that there would be no more "theorists" on the commission. Gov. McCall interrupted to say he had no recollection of making such a promise.

Alfred S. Lunt, counsel for an association of manufacturers, said the predominance of theorists on the commission has made it a positive menace to Massachusetts manufacturers.

He declared that "the professor theorists" on the commission have joined with the labor member (Miss Gillespie) in every radical action, and as a result child dreads the fire, manufacturers shudder at the prospect of having another theorist appointed.

Others who opposed confirmation were Ernest P. Bennett of the Royal Worcester Cordage Company, H. E. White of Taunton, George E. Close of the Close Confectionery Company, Donald H. Tulloch of the Metal Trades, Capt. William P. White of the Lowell Paper Tube Corporation, L. E. Daloz of Boston and Ethen S. Stevens of Webster.

Representative J. Weston Allen of Newton, Henry S. Dennison of Framingham, George M. Sherman of Boston and Thomas Leonard of the Wampanog Mills, Fall River, spoke in favor of confirmation.

Prof. Ripley was called upon to answer questions by the several members of the Council, but the first question, as to his seeking the position, was answered by Gov. McCall, who declared that he called Prof. Ripley on the telephone, offered him the place and first received a refusal, but that Ripley later agreed to accept.

Prof. Ripley said he believes in the principle of the minimum wage, else he would not accept the appointment. Asked whether he believed that "no wage is better than a low wage" for workers incapable of earning the established minimum, he replied that in his opinion it was better for society to bear the entire burden of supporting such workers and know it, rather than to bear a part of the burden and not realize it.

On Thursday morning the Council refused to confirm the appointment, by a vote of 7 to 2. Three of the Councilors gave out the following statement as to their reason for voting against the appointment.

"We are satisfied from the hearing yesterday that Prof. Ripley is a man fully qualified to perform the duties of his office, and that there is no evidence whatever that he is purely a theorist or in any way biased in the questions involved.

"We do believe, however, that in a commission of this kind made up of a representative of employers and a representative of employees where the duties are to a large extent the duties of a board of arbitration, the third man should not be one who is most strongly opposed and whose judgment is distrusted by either one side or the other.

"It appears that Prof. Ripley's confirmation is opposed by the large body of manufacturers of the State, and we do not believe that satisfactory or effective work can be done by the commission under these circumstances."

Last year many of our citizens unable to solve the various intricate problems involved in the income tax law sought professional service and assistance, frequently at considerable expense. The income tax department at the State House and the assessors and deputy assessors at the several district offices give all the information required. A representative of the department will be at City Hall, West Newton, on Thursday, January 10 and 17. If you find it impossible to get in touch with him at that time, application in person at the Cambridge or Lowell offices will procure for you all the information required to make out a complete and correct return.

NEW YEAR'S EVE DANCE

The New Year's Eve Dance on Monday evening in Newton Centre, under the auspices of The Mothers' Rest Circle of 1917, a club of young society girls, was essentially a young people's affair, and was an unqualified success.

Gay was the throng of guests and visitors who assembled in Bray Hall, where the smartest group of people joined forces and had a royal time. With the copious mingling of uniformed young men, some in the olive drab of one branch of service, and the blue of sailor boys, the scene was most effective.

Twenty-five young men of the E.O.C. N.A. from the Watertown Arsenal and a number of naval men were present as guests of the club.

The decorations were of a simple nature, and consisted of holiday greens and palms, and Spaulding's Orchestra was placed in the centre of the hall, surrounded with palms and evergreens and furnished delightful music for the program of dances.

In the receiving line were Mrs. Alfred E. Alvord, Mrs. Addison C. Burnham, Mrs. Albert M. Fowle, Mrs. Robert E. Anderson. The introduction committee on the floor included Mrs. E. Ray Spare and Mrs. Arthur C. Badger.

Just before midnight the grand march was formed by the members of the Circle and the men in uniform, and led by First Lieut. Aldrich Taylor of Grant avenue the brilliant procession, numbering more than two hundred, marched around the hall. As the clock tolled the hour of midnight, the Old Year, with its trials and tribulations, passed away without a struggle, and its death knell was sounded by twelve strokes of the drum. Each guest was provided with gay-colored streamers and the New Year was ushered in with a tumultuous greeting, the lively music of the orchestra adding to the enthusiasm, while showers of white confetti were scattered broadcast, giving the picturesque effect of an old-fashioned snowstorm.

The festivities continued until the "wee small hours," and then the entire company joined in singing our national air, "The Star Spangled Banner."

The young ladies, members of the Rest Circle, who served as ushers, were Miss Anita Butts, Miss Frances Stevens, Miss Isabel Eaton, Miss Priscilla Badger, Miss Doris Burbeck, Miss Katherine Wilkins, Miss Sylvia Burbeck and Miss Dorothy Weston.

The Newton Centre ladies who entertained military men at dinner before the dance included Mrs. William G. Burbeck of Grant avenue, Mrs. Arthur C. Badger of Dudley road, Mrs. E. Ray Spare of Montvale road, Mrs. George S. Smith of Grant avenue, Mrs. Charles E. Kelsey of Montvale road, Mrs. Arthur C. Walworth of Centre street, Mrs. Abner K. Pratt of Gibbs street, Mrs. James P. Sweeney of Ripley avenue, Mrs. William Z. Ripley of Braintree road, Mrs. Alfred E. Alvord of Dalton road, and Mrs. Frederick H. Butts of Sumner street.

SILVER WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Paterson of Highland street, Newtonville, were the recipients, last week, of a genuine and joyous surprise. They had, they thought, carefully concealed the fact that the day after Christmas would mark the completion of twenty-five years of their wedded life. Five sturdy sons, all still in the shelter of the home, bear living testimony to this most happy union.

In secret, conclude the boys decided to fittingly observe this important anniversary day. Happily, big brother Lester, whose pretty bride (nee Marjorie Gibb) is the only sister these lads have ever had, donated the use of his home which adjoins the Paterson home, and their new sister, Marjorie, quickly found herself chairman of an enthusiastic committee of arrangements.

Summoned by a pretext, father and mother Paterson unsuspectingly came upon the scene and were utterly astonished to find a large welcoming party of friends and relatives including many from Stoneham and Cambridge, all headed by the real conspirators—their sons Irving, Maxwell, Stuart, Ralph and Lester with his wife. The entire house was tastefully decorated, and following a bountiful turkey supper, the second surprise was sprung when sister Marjorie, who had presided charmingly as toastmaster, presented the happy couple with a beautiful silver tea service—a gift from their sons. Many other presents in useful and handsome silver were showered upon them, all testifying to the regard and esteem in which they are held.

Musical and other entertainment continued until a late hour. Mr. and Mrs. Paterson, senior, readily forgave the deception practiced by the committee of arrangements for it made their silver wedding day an occasion of unalloyed happiness, never to be forgotten.

and topic in the course of study. "The Physical Characteristics of South America" will be presented by Mrs. W. H. Mitchell.

There will be an open meeting of the Newton Centre Woman's Club on Wednesday evening, January 9 at 8 P.M., when Miss Eleanor M. Colleton, president of the Boston Italian Immigrant Society, will speak of Problems of Later-Day Immigration and their Solution. "The Acid Test of American Democracy." The public is most cordially invited to attend.

On Friday afternoon the West Newton Women's Educational Club will hold an open meeting. The program is in charge of the Art committee.

Local Happenings

Mrs. T. B. Scott was hostess to the Auburndale Review Club on Thursday, December 27. Since this meeting came Christmas week, it seemed very fitting that the program should in some way have connection with children.

Mrs. G. E. Martin told much of interest concerning the childhood of four of the great composers—Handel, Mozart, Beethoven and Haydn, after which 30 children sang two Christmas carols.

The subject assigned Miss E. C. Williams was "Poems of Childhood," and that of Mrs. E. J. Frost was "Children's Songs and Dances." Miss Williams read first an account of James Whitcomb Riley, especially in connection with his poems of charm for children and his letters written to and received from his youthful admirers, of whom he had thousands. Following this, Mrs. Frost planned and arranged to have the children themselves present their songs and dances. Some of Riley's poems were recited, songs were sung, folk songs and modern songs, and the minutes was danced in a most dignified manner by four children in costume.

Miss Williams then gave a short account of Robert Louis Stevenson, who grew from a delicate, lonely child to a delicate but never lonely man, and wrote among many charming things that nursery classic, "The Child's Garden of Verse." The children again appeared and in their most attractive way recited poems by Stevenson, sang solos and danced peasant dances in groups and singly, after which Mrs. Ruggles sang a Chinese song and a Dutch song. The late poet Miss Williams spoke of was Eugene Field, and he was over 30 years of age before he developed into a children's poet. The children again charmed the audience with recitations from Field, "The Gingham Dog and the Calico Cat," "Just Before Christmas," "The Usuals," etc. Eight children danced and sang "Little Bo-peep," several in red, white and blue danced, and last but by no means least, the 30 children in one beautiful group gave the salute to the flag and sang "God Bless Our Men."

The closed one of the most delightful programs to which the club has ever listened. On Saturday afternoon a few members of the Monday Club braved the cold and made the usual holiday trip to the Newton City Home. After music by Mrs. Shawway, Mrs. Frost, and Mrs. Robbins, and reading by Mrs. S. A. Thompson, supper was served by Mrs. Ritchie Stevens, and Mrs. Robbins, and gifts distributed by Mrs. J. W. Moore.

On Monday afternoon despite the cold the Christmas Eve Study Club held its meeting with Mrs. Howland of Vista avenue. Two topics were considered, "The Maid of Orleans, Joan d'Arc," by Miss Blanche Noyes and "Cartier and New France," as prepared by Mrs. Katelle, was read by Miss E. B. Smith, the president.

Mrs. Daniel Wing of Otis street opened her home on December 31st for the annual money-raising affair of the Newton Mothers' Club. This year it was a musicale in which the following artists took part: Mrs. Frederick Pratt, harpist; Miss Katharine Adams, vocal soloist; Mrs. J. Carter, accompanist; Mrs. Thomas Weston, Jr., violinist; and Mrs. William C. Hall, reader. A social hour with refreshments followed the program. A substantial sum was netted for the philanthropic work of the club.

The amount obtained for Armenian and Syrian relief from the meeting held at Mrs. Harriman's when Dr. Usher spoke, and arranged under the auspices of the Social Science Club, was $1840, this sum including a number of monthly pledges to be paid within the year.

The Newton Centre Woman's Club had a delightful Christmas meeting last week Thursday afternoon, when the daughters of members were the special guests. The program included songs by Mrs. Martha Atwood Baker, drama, and readings by Mrs. Frances Nevin. A social hour with simple refreshments followed.

Yesterday morning came the monthly lecture on Current Events by Mrs. William C. Crawford. Fifty dollars have been contributed to the Halifax Relief Fund. Instead of starting any separate Red Cross work the Club has voted to make Thursday Red Cross Day and go to the rooms for work each Thursday when there is no club meeting.

Mr. Ulysses Grant Wheeler, superintendent of the Newton schools, addressed the members of the Waban Woman's Club at the home of Mrs. Gifford LeClear, Monday, December 31.

Mr. Wheeler spoke of the need of preparedness in the schools, of meeting the acute industrial situation that is sure to come at the close of the war.

In the Newton schools fifty per cent. of the children are of foreign parentage and, consequently, are not receiving home training in the democratic ideals of our country. The child is coming to belong more and more to the state, and less to the parent. Therefore, it is necessary for the schools to undertake to train our foreign element as well as our own native children to meet the social conditions.

Mr. Wheeler also spoke of the great need for junior high schools, particularly in towns where the high school is at a distance from the various grammar schools.

The average child enters high school at a trying physical period. The additional tax upon him that is occasioned by leaving a smaller grammar school where the teachers have a more personal interest in him, and entering a large school, thronged with strange and older children, and where the tendency is to teach subjects rather than to teach children, could be greatly lessened by having junior high schools. Advantages could also be derived by teaching languages in the sixth or seventh grades, for it is very important to thoroughly learn French and Spanish in view of conditions after the war, as live languages to be spoken. That cannot be done under the existing method of teaching languages only in the high schools. The secretary of the club, Mrs. Fastnet M. Dutch, read the report of the dance given on December 15, to a few friends from Bumpkin Island and Commonwealth Pier. Nearly forty men were entertained over the weekend and by some of the Club members, and were given a dance and entertainment over Sunday in the homes, returning to their posts Monday morning. Several letters that have been received from the men testify to their great appreciation of the hospitality.

MUSICAL COMEDY

The Auburndale Woman's Club Scores Success at Its Guest Night

"The Three Chances," a musical comedy, arranged and produced by Mr. H. J. West, formed the entertainment for the Guest Night of the Auburndale Woman's Club on New Year's evening. A simple thread of story binding together popular songs of the day formed the basis of the comedy and as always the music was the chief feature of the production. The cast all had good voices which blended together admirably. Jack Burnham, a wealthy globe trotter, has decided to renounce a legacy of a million on condition he is married before midnight of his 25th birthday, rather than give up the freedom of bachelorhood. Frank Crosby, an old college chum, however, arranges the "three chances," and Jack immediately becomes interested, proposing in turn to the athletic girl who refuses because he is not up in golf, tennis, etc., to the frivolous girl, who declines because she is already too deeply enamored, and to the old-fashioned girl who accepts. They slip away, are married and return presumably too late to obtain the legacy, when it is discovered that the clock has been set ahead by Sam, the colored attendant, anxious to get home early. Thus all ends happily. The double quartet, as well as the solos, were effective, well rendered and much enjoyed. The Pony Ballet, four daughters of members, Maryway, Lane, Eleanor Bissell, Dorothy Paine, Dorothy Leonard, and Julia Middleton, added delightful and picturesque touches in their fancy dances and appropriate costumes. The new set of scenery made and put up by Mr. Edward Eber for the occasion, was greatly appreciated by the club, and made an attractive background for the elaborate costumes.

The cast was as follows: Sam, colored attendant, Lyman W. Gore; Jack Burnham, wealthy globe trotter, Lowell D. MacNutt; Frank Crosby, old college chum, Donald D. Williams; Mrs. Tom Hemmenway, Mrs. W. J. Spaulding; Mr. Tom Hemmenway, Mr. W. B. MacLane; Mrs. Nate Travers, Mrs. J. A. Furbish; Mr. Nate Travers, Mrs. W. J. Spaulding; Mrs. Ned Burlingame, Mrs. E. A. Noyes; Mrs. Ned Burlingame, E. A. Noyes; Miss Lucille Bainbridge, a frivolous girl, Edith Jacobs; Barbara Alden, an old-fashioned girl, Mrs. Lyman W. Gore; Peggy Wade, athletic girl, Miss Olive Bourne.

Mrs. L. D. MacNutt was the accompanist, and the dances were arranged and directed by Miss Ruth Allen. The committee in charge were indefatigable in their efforts and great credit is due the chairman, Mrs. Lyman W. Gore, who spared no pains in making the affair a great success. Dancing was enjoyed by members and guests after the performance. There was also an exhibition of war posters and a demonstration of surgical dressings given by Mrs. W. Godfrey, Mrs. H. E. Keever, and Mrs. B. W. Pepper. A matinee performance was also given that day and the production was repeated on Wednesday evening for the benefit of the surgical dressings work of the club. The amount realized will exceed $250.

PRAY-CARY

The wedding of Lieut. Thornton Calder Pray, Sig. R.C.A.S., the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wendell Pray of Kirkstall road, Newtonville, and Miss Virginia L. Cary, daughter of Mrs. E. Breckinridge Cary, of 256 West 78th street, New York, took place in the chantry of Grace Church, New York, on last week Thursday, and the officiating clergyman was Rev. Charles L. Slattery, D.D., rector of the parish. The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Joseph Cary. She had no maid of honor, or other attendants. Charles C. Griffith, Jr., served as best man, and there were no ushers. Following the ceremony there was a wedding breakfast at the Ritz-Carlton, at which were present only the members of the two families and the few who had witnessed the ceremony. Lieutenant Pray is stationed at Kelly Field, San Antonio, Tex., where he takes his bride for residence during his service there.

THE TOBACCO FUND

The officers of "Our Boys in France Tobacco Fund" have notified us that they have delivered over 350,000 kits of tobacco to the American Red Cross and on account of the scarcity of tobacco in France it was decided to give every American soldier a package at Christmas time. Mr. Ball, war correspondent of the Providence Journal, saw the actual packing of the kits in France at Red Cross headquarters, and there is no doubt but what the contributors will soon receive the post card acknowledgments from the soldier boys.

CHRISTMAS DANCE

Mrs. Swan Hartwell entertained at an informal Christmas dance on Friday evening, at her residence on Temple street, West Newton, in honor of her daughter, Miss Madeline Hartwell. The rooms opening on suite were effectively decorated for the affair in a color motif of red and green, with laurel wreaths, holly and dark red roses.

The new sun parlor made an ideal ballroom, and presented a festive appearance, with its Yuletide emblems, the effect being emphasized by a large Christmas tree, arranged in one corner, glittering with its brilliant illumination of various colors. Russell's Orchestra furnished excellent music for the dancing, and there were present about 125 members of the younger society set of Brookline, Chestnut Hill, Cambridge and West Newton. The ushers were Mr. Richard Greenwood, Mr. Robert Gross, Mr. Reginald Gray, Mr. Burnham Jones, Mr. Frederick Whiting, Mr. John Codman, and Mr. Roger Coolidge.

read his resignation to the church at the morning service, December 9. On the following Thursday, at its regular meeting, the Standing Committee had another conference with the pastor. About a week ago the proposition was made to the sub-committee to see whether Mr. Muste would accept a three-months' leave of absence on part salary to be used by him in investigations of the war situation along certain new lines, with the hope also that the church would be able to take action with perfect unanimity and harmony at that time. The sub-committee met the pastor on Sunday and again yesterday. They made their report to the Standing Committee last evening presenting a letter from Mr. Muste which reads as follows with reference to the new proposition:

"My conception of what is involved is somewhat in this wise. The church does not assume that my own views on peace and war have changed, nor does it wish to determine in detail what I shall do or not do during the three months in question. It is the understanding, however, that I shall largely devote myself to studying the question of the practical duty of the church and of Christian people in the present crisis, taking account of various lines of war and relief work that are being carried on, giving consideration to the view of Christian leaders who have taken a different stand from my own, etc. It is the understanding on the other hand, that I shall not engage extensively and prominently in pacifist work during this period."

"My conception of how the arrangement may work out is somewhat as follows. It is possible that I may soon be more firmly convinced than ever that it is my immediate duty to devote myself largely to peace work. In that case I should immediately notify the church of the fact and express the desire that the resignation be accepted. Or, it is possible that in three months I should stand just where I do now, in which case, I assume, the resignation will be acted upon, I expressing the desire that it be accepted. Or, it is possible that there may be some change in my own views, in all probability not as to the ultimate question of whether war can be justified from the Christian point of view, but possibly as to the practical question what churches and Christian people are to do once the nation is involved in such a war as we are now in. In that case, I assume that the church will be free at the end of three months to act as it may judge best on the resignation."

Inasmuch as all this discussion pro and con between pastor, committee and individuals, has been conducted with the utmost frankness, and yet characterized throughout by a sweet Christian spirit of brotherly love, not one harsh word being uttered or one bitter thought expressed, it seemed to the committee that it would be indeed the matter should end in any other manner or spirit."

Therefore, the committee with an attendance of 20 out of 24 members, voted unanimously to recommend that the resignation of the pastor be laid upon the table at this time, and that a three-months' leave of absence, beginning at once, be granted Mr. Muste, on part salary, under the conditions as expressed above.

The committee further recommends the adoption of the following resolutions:—

Whereas, Our nation has found it necessary to enter the great world struggle "for democracy, for the right of those who submit to authority to have a voice in their own government, for the rights and liberties of small nations, for a universal dominion of right by such a concert of free peoples as shall bring peace and safety to all nations and make the world itself at last free," and

Whereas, The success of this great move for universal peace and brotherhood among men seems to depend upon the power and the courage which the United States can contribute to the struggle, and

Whereas, The fundamental principle of our Christian faith is freedom and the brotherhood of man, and on that basis, we of this church have already given freely and generously of our choice young manhood, our money and our service. Therefore, be it

Resolved, That we, the Central Congregational Church of Newton do heartily pledge ourselves to support the nation in the pursuit of this noble purpose with our prayers, our resources and our service to the limit of our ability.

For the Committee,
W. C. BOYDEN, Clerk.

The resignation was laid upon the table and a three-months' leave of absence granted Mr. Muste by a vote of eight to one, and the resolutions were adopted by a rising vote with only two dissenting votes. A spirit of good will and harmony pervaded the meeting.

BURTON HOLMES' TRAVELOGUE

New Zealand has always been a land of mystery, romance and legend to nearly every American. Last summer Burton Holmes made a journey to New Zealand and Tasmania, and has brought back motion pictures and truthfully colored still views, so that his patrons may not only visit with him and see in motion the New Zealanders in their busy city streets and on their ranches and farms, but witness the sports and dances of the aboriginal Maoris in their native setting, climb with Mr. Holmes the mountain trails, love the lovely rivers, thread their canyons and fjords, and stand in awe in the presence of the geysers, mud-fountains and other natural phenomena of the island antipodes. Mr. Holmes will give "New Zealand and Tasmania" at Symphony Hall on next Friday evening and Saturday afternoon.

MR. WALKER DEAD

Mr. Samuel A. Walker, a resident of this city for nearly seventy years, died last Saturday after a few days' illness with pneumonia. Mr. Walker was born in Bellingham, Mass., on February 23, 1837.

He was a carpenter by trade and was for some years associated with his father in that business, and later was a booking agent for various theatrical enterprises. He served nine months in the Civil War, Co. B, of the 44th Mass. Regiment. Mr. Walker was a member of Charles Ward Post 62 G.A.R., and at its last meeting had been elected Post Commander for the ensuing year and was to have been installed in office last evening. He was prominent in the Masonic fraternity, being a member of Dalhousie Lodge of Newtonville and of Woonsocket Commandery, Knights Templar of Woonsocket, R. I. He was instrumental in the organization of Gethsemane Commandery, K. T., of this city, and was its first presiding Commander under the dispensation.

Mr. Walker leaves a widow and one daughter, Mrs. Edwin P. Palmer (Clara Woods Walker) of Somerville. Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at the Newton Cemetery chapel, where the burial ritual of the Masonic order was in charge of the officers of Dalhousie Lodge.

The ceremony took place at noon and was performed by Dr. Chalmers, the father of the bride.

The bride wore white Georgeanne crepe with beaded tunic, and her mother's wedding veil, and was accompanied by her three sisters, Virginia, Eleanor and Barbara Chalmers. The groom was attended by Philip and Donald Chalmers, brothers of the bride.

A wedding breakfast was served after the ceremony, and reception to about forty guests.

NEWS FROM CAMP GREENE

The following letter has just been received from Sergt. Benway who is in charge of the remnants of the old Company C of this city and now at Camp Greene, at Charlotte, N. C.
"The Thanksgiving dinner as far as I can see has been a success and since that time I have been very fortunate in becoming acquainted with Capt. Dupont and Lieut. Dael, officers of the French Army who are detailed here as instructors, and on the strength of my acquaintance I have had them to dinner with C Company on two different occasions, they giving talks on their experiences in trench warfare in which the men were very much interested.

Since writing you my cook, Arthur V. Tornrose, has been unfortunate enough to contract diphtheria and the result was that the seven men who were his tent mates have been quarantined and will be in the Detention Camp for three weeks, which is located in the cantonment about a mile from the company street. These men are being looked after as far as comforts go in the Detention camp and I am sure their Christmas will be one that anybody can brag about, and you can rest assured that I will do my best to tide them over until the day that they rejoin the company.

One of my corporals recently received a shaking up in a street car accident and was confined to the Base Hospital for three days, and he received attention and comforts which nobody else in the ward received. He was taken to the hospital about 11.30 P. M. and I visited him about 1.00 A. M. and then I visited him every day and fought with the nurses and doctors to get him back to the Company. He is now back in the company and very happy and appreciates that he is a member of Company C.

Where there are about twenty to thirty thousand troops here I feel very proud after I have been through the camp and come back to my own company and am very loud in praises of the courtesy and discipline which exist in C Company. Barring none I have the finest nucleus for a company there is in the cantonment, and as soon as we receive the men I will have a better company than the average, and one that the people of Newton will be proud of.

Reading that the Committee on Public Safety is very busy with men at Ayer and in France, and realizing that our numbers are few, even though nothing is done for the men here I wish to assure you that they will get as good as any other Company in this regiment, because what I have done in the past is a personal expense I consider nothing, as I realize that the health and comforts of the men depend upon me.

The men are becoming fairly well accustomed to the weather here. While it is called the "sunny south" we woke up the other morning to find six inches of snow on the ground and the thermometer registered 8 above, and during the past week since the snow-storm there has been no time that the thermometer outside of my tent has gone over the 20 above mark, but as I said the men are getting used to the weather and take pride in the cleanliness of their quarters and military appearance. As I stated before I have one of the best outfits in the cantonment.

Halifax Children Enjoy Books and Toys Sent Them Recently

Through the generosity and interest of the children in Newton a splendid box containing books, games and paper dolls for 250 or 300 children, went to Halifax, and was received in time for the Christmas celebration at the hospitals, homes, shelters and elsewhere, giving the kiddies a most happy day, according to reports. Below is an article cut from a Halifax paper, and as several of the articles mentioned are such as went in the Newton box, especially the "prettiest kimono imaginable," we may think of these children as our own charges. A letter from Miss Pearson, the convener of the toy committee, will tell you how much they appreciated your efforts in behalf of the little sufferers.

"Although Santa did not appear in person at the Children's Hospital yesterday afternoon he certainly was there in spirit, for thirty-two happier and jollier kiddies could not have been found anywhere. Brilliant with lights, silver tissue and all that goes to make a Christmas tree beautiful, stood the wonderful creation between the two long wards of the hospital, placed where every child could see it plainly and not miss a single detail. Every child's face was wreathed in smiles and from every cot came gurgles and cries of delight. One little baby was wearing the prettiest kimono imaginable, a special message to Santa bringing it to the hospital in a very special box."

My dear Miss Horsfall,
As convener of the committee which undertook to look after our injured and homeless children at Christmas, I want to extend to you and your friends our warmest thanks for the splendid lot of toys, books, etc., which we received from you through Judge Harris.

It may interest you to know that through the kindness of yourself and others we were able to make a real Christmas for over 1800 children. This does not represent by any means all that was done for the children, as a great many other friends were doing the same work, but our committee was the first to start, I think, and we made our business to co-operate with every one else doing the same work (and there might be no overlapping), and to take entire charge of the hospitals, shelters, etc., where there was no one else to do it. We also had the handling of all the toys, and the others got their supplies from us.

The tell us in the hospitals that not only did the kiddies have a happy Christmas, but it helped to lift the cloud of depression that was beginning to overpower our poor suffering "grown-ups."

So for all of us I'd like to say again a very hearty "thank you!" We'll never forget the wonderful way our little "cousins" have come to our aid in this our time of trial, and hope some day to be able to show our appreciation.

Very sincerely yours,
AGNES C. PEARSON.

HAYWARD-GANSE

A pretty home wedding was solemnized on New Year's eve, at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin W. Ganse, on Hunnewell avenue, Newton, when their daughter, Miss Mary Franklin Ganse was united in marriage to Mr. Emerson Hayward of Cohoes, N. Y.

Yuletide decorations made an attractive setting for the ceremony which was performed at 8 o'clock by the bride's uncle, Rev. Dr. H. C. Herrington of Cambridge.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and was charming in a wedding robe of white satin and georgette crepe, court train. Her bride veil was tulle and she carried a shower bouquet of bride roses and lilies of the valley.

She was attended by her sister, Miss Katharine Ganse as maid of honor, attractively attired in two shades of pale green over silver cloth and carried a huge basket of pale green filled with maiden hair fern and tied with bows of silver ribbon.

Mr. Hayward was assisted by his brother, Mr. James Hayward, as best man, and the ushers were Mr. Royal G. Whiting, brother-in-law of the bride of Auburndale, and Mr. William Sammons of Cohoes, N. Y.

After the ceremony a small reception was held at the bride and bridegroom were assisted in receiving by Mrs. Emerson, the bridegroom's grandmother, Mr. and Mrs. Ganse, the bride's parents, and Mr. and Mrs. Hayward, parents of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Emerson was gowned in black silk and lace with corsage of violets.

White satin and carried red roses, and the bride's mother wore her wedding gown of white silk and lace and also carried red roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Hayward will reside in Buffalo, N. Y.

NEWS FROM CAMP DEVENS

On Saturday of this week, January 5th, 1918, the Officers' Training Camp for the Northeastern Division will open at Camp Devens, Ayer, Mass. There will be in attendance at this school some seven to eight hundred students—all applicants for commissions as officers in the United States Army. A great deal of tension has been apparent amongst the men who prior to December 1st, 1917, made formal application for admission to the camp. Now that the list has been issued, there are a number of disappointed men and of course there are a number who are quite elated over the fact that they are going to have an opportunity to become officers.

There will be over 500 enlisted men out of the 24,000 enlisted men in the camp, in attendance at this school together with about 200 men from the various colleges throughout this district, the colleges which are allowed quotas being the colleges who have included in their curriculum a course of military training. Both enlisted men and the college men will occupy the same barracks and all the college men coming into camp for the purpose of training will receive the rank of first-class privates, which rating carries with it the pay of $33 per month. The enlisted men who have been fortunate enough to be selected for attendance at this school will go into the camp carrying the rating and pay they were receiving in the ranks. The course consists of about thirteen weeks of the most intensive training.

Each man in attendance at this school will wear a red, white and blue hat cord, which is the same designating feature as used at the Plattsburg Camps. The leather puttees will also become part of the uniform of the students at the camp. This Camp is one established for the purpose of training men for officers, to fill vacancies as they occur in the ranks and the men who successfully complete the course will not of necessity be commissioned as Lieutenants immediately. They will be given to wear, a designating medal which will indicate that they have qualified in the training camp and are eligible for commissions as officers. Recommendations in the amount of 10 per cent of the enlisted strength of the division were made, but only 1.7 per cent were selected to attend.

In order to make room for the Officers' Training Camp the 35th Company 9th Battalion, Depot Brigade, of which the balance of the second forty per cent of the Newton men remaining in camp were members, has been abolished and as a result the following transfers have been made as of January 2, 1918:

Corporal Percy S. Webster, 246 Waltham St., transferred from the 35th Company, 151st Depot Brigade, to the 5th Company, 151st Depot Brigade, at Camp Devens.
Sergeant John A. Bennett, 678 Boylston St., transferred from the 35th Company, 151st Depot Brigade, to the 15th Company, 151st Depot Brigade, at Camp Devens.

Corporal Joseph H. Goodman, 339 Lowell St., transferred from the 35th Company, 151st Depot Brigade, to the 6th Company, 151st Depot Brigade, at Camp Devens.
Corporal Alfred F. Mulvihill, 77 Harding St., transferred from the 35th Company, 151st Depot Brigade, to the 9th Company, 151st Depot Brigade, at Camp Devens.

Following is a list of the privates of the 35th Company, from Newton, who have been transferred to the 26th Company of the 151st Depot Brigade, Camp Devens:

Richard A. McNamara, 64 Gardner St. John J. Higgins, 40 Cemetery.
William H. Carey, 32 Washington.
Guiseppi Castagnino, 84 Border St.
George R. Meligs, 54 Carleton.
Edgar E. Libbey, 629 Commonwealth.
John H. Ross, 1251 Washington.

Vincent Zieniezuk, 14 Geyman St.
Paul A. Waters, 84 Clinton.
Herbert M. Warren, 41 Middlesex St.
Harold Warren, of 41 Middlesex street, a brother of Herbert M. Warren of the 35th Company, has been one of the fortunate members of the artillery to be selected to attend the Officers' Training Camp. In the organization of which Mr. Warren is a member.

Over a hundred applications were received for the school and it was necessary for each man to be passed on individually by a board of officers selected for the purpose. Only thirty-five men out of the organization were selected.

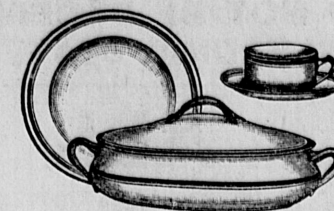

The only Newton man in the 35th Company of Infantry to have the good fortune to be selected for the camp was Corp. Alfred F. Mulvihill of 77 Harding street, West Newton. Before going to camp Corporal Mulvihill engaged in the practice of law with the Liberty Mutual Insurance Company of Devonshire street. Corporal Mulvihill was graduated with the degree of LL.B. from the Northeastern College of Law in June, 1916, and was admitted to the practice of the law on March 9, 1917. He left for Camp Devens with the second forty per cent from Newton and shortly after his arrival was delegated to act as secretary to Col. E. Croft, in charge of the operation of thirty-three schools in the Division. Except for the time spent in the School for Non-Commissioned Officers, Corporal Mulvihill has been engaged continuously in the office of the Colonel.

All over Camp the New Year was celebrated in various different ways. The camp was thrown open on New Year's Eve and visitors were allowed in the camp until midnight and had the pleasure of assisting the soldiers in ushering the new year in. The Christmas decorations were still intact until New Year's night when an order issued from Headquarters to have them all taken down. This was on account of the late fire in the Camp on New Year's night when the barracks of C Company of the New York Regiment were burned to the ground and many other barracks scooped. This fire, however, was caused by the overturning of an oil stove in the orderly room of the above barracks.

The Great Dane dog "Captain," the mascot of the 35th Company, Depot Brigade, which mascot had been presented to the Company by Miss Arnold, the musical comedy star, on behalf of Oliver Morosco, will be taken

RED CROSS MEMBERSHIP

No Let Up in the Work Notwithstanding the Success of the Xmas Drive

In time of war to stop fighting to rejoice over a victory is a mistake, sometimes a fatal one. The only use of a victory is to make it a step towards a conclusive one. The only way to win a war is to fight until there is no more need of fighting.

It is a pleasant thing to know that in the Christmas campaign for Red Cross members Newton went over the twelve thousand mark. But there are still in Newton thousands who ought to be members of the Red Cross. Neither in Newton nor in the country at large will the people be a unit working as one to win the war until every one wears the khaki, the blue or the Red Cross button. In the vernacular of the day, "it's up to Newton to get into the game all over." The ending of the Christmas Red Cross campaign did not end the time for joining the Red Cross. New members are still joining the Newton Branch of the Red Cross and every one who is not a member can join the Newton Branch by sending a dollar to Mr. George Royal Pulsifer, Treasurer of the Newton Branch of the Red Cross, Newtonville. A good way for new members of the Red Cross to take up Red Cross work is to go out and get more new members. As long as the war lasts the Red Cross will need members, workers and money.

There is no man or woman in Newton but is vitally affected by this war. There is no man or woman in Newton who cannot help to do something to win and shorten the war. The calls for service and for money are bound to be constant and insistent. Answering them will mean sacrifice and hardship, but the answer must be made and made cheerfully and willingly. The people must realize that those who go up and down making the calls are doing it for the good of all. If this war shall come to an end without our country being visited with the brutalities that the Huns have showered upon all those who have suffered beneath their merciless might, then all the sacrifices made in America will be a small price indeed to have paid to have escaped desolated, burned and looted cities and towns, starved and murdered men, women and children and dishonored women.

The Newton Branch of the Red Cross needs members, workers and money. It asks the people of Newton for them. It expects the people of Newton to give them.

In order that the people of Newton may know what is going on in the city in the way of war work there is appended a list of the villages and the war societies in them.

NEWTON CHRISTIAN FORUM

The January meeting of the Forum will be held in Eliot Chapel at 4 o'clock next Sunday afternoon. The speaker will be Lieut. Ermo Roselli, and his subject will be: "A Message from the Italian Front." Lieut. Roselli was a professor in the Adelphi College, Brooklyn, N. Y., before the war. He returned to Italy when war was declared and enlisted as a private in the Italian army, but was soon promoted and given a lieutenant's commission. He came to this country just before the great German drive and when a quiet winter on the Italian front had been expected. The truth about the Italian situation, military and economic, will be interesting to a large number of people. Opportunity to ask questions will be given. Everybody is invited to attend this meeting.

FOOD FACTS CENTRE

Established in Newton to Distribute Information on Food Matters

The Newton "Food Facts Centre" has been opened at 291 Washington street, by the Food Conservation Committee of the Woman's Council of National Defense, with the co-operation of the Special Aid Society, and the Social Science Club. It is open every day except Sunday, from 9 to 12 A.M. and 2 to 5 P.M.

The Food Facts Centre has for its purpose the propagation of the necessity for food conservation, and getting the Food Administration's message to the people. It opens with a demonstration and exhibit of wheat conservation, this being the most important staple needed by the Allies. Come in and see how many good things you can eat instead of wheat—things which have the same sort of food value as wheat, and also what delicious breads can be made of mixed flours. We have the recipes for these breads, which you may take and try in your own kitchen. Arrangements also have been made with a local bakery, which is now being run under such efficient management, to bake four liberty breads after our recipes, to wit: corn meal bread, rye bread, rolled oats bread, and raisin graham bread.

There is also an exhibit of a home-made fireless cooker, so simple that a child could make one. This is especially important at present, in view of the shortage of fuel.

Other exhibits will follow "wheat conservation." There will be shown from time to time "conservation of meats, sugar, fats," etc., or any other word on food that comes down from Washington. Get the habit of dropping in, and get ideas on what is needed in conservation. Also, if you have not signed the Hoover pledge cards, you will have here an opportunity to do so.

In connection with the work at the Food Facts Centre, monthly conferences will be held in the lecture room of the library, to which the public is cordially invited. These will be for mutual help and strictly informal. The first conference will be on Friday evening, January 11, at 8 o'clock, and will be on wheat conservation. Liberty breads will be shown, and Miss Margaret Howard, an expert on home economics, will be there to answer questions and make suggestions. If you have a good wheat-conserving recipe, bring it along, with a sample if you like, and let us copy it. We want the housewives and others to get together and tell any schemes they have for saving wheat.

It is "up to" us women of America to see that the fight is not lost because of food. The Allies have not enough—we must send it to them. Never before in history has a cause hung so largely on woman's effort. O. women, and this is no mere sentimental outburst, if we fail in this the American woman's name will be covered with ignominy! "The United States has not sufficient surplus to supply the needs of our Allies, and if we would meet the demand for our food, we must deny ourselves and send to them. If we would have them hold steadfast and sustain them until the American army arrives in force, we must send them food. If they can hold out (Continued on Page 8.)

NEWTON HOSPITAL NURSES' TRAINING ANNEX

The First of Its Kind in the United States

THE NEW ANNEX TO THE NEWTON HOSPITAL ON INSTITUTION AVENUE, NEWTON CENTRE

It takes a longer time to train a young woman to be a nurse than it does to train a young man to be a soldier.

In modern warfare there must be trained nurses as well as trained soldiers; behind the armies of the fighting men there must be other armies of doctors and nurses to care for the wounded and the sick. To train nurses there cannot be established great training camps such as have been organized to train our soldiers. Nurses to be trained must have actual hospital experience. This means that the hospitals of the country must find some way of turning themselves into individual Flatbushes, for at the habit of nurses to be demanded by the war may be trained.

The training of a nurse is intensive. Studying to be a nurse is not like studying to fit one's self for any other calling. An essential part of the training is to learn to live the life of a nurse. Those under training must live at hospitals, or near them; they cannot live anywhere and go to training schools at certain stated regular hours. Students must be drilled in hospital discipline, for the habit of prompt obedience to orders is as necessary on the part of a nurse as it is on the part of a soldier. They must become accustomed to long and irregular hours, to fatigue, and to the sights and the activities of the operating room. Training to be a nurse means training practically all of the time of every day for three years. Those who know say the training, in the great majority of cases, cannot be given in a shorter period of time.

It is all of these things that make the problem facing the hospitals a difficult one. It is not a question of enlisting enough recruits, but of finding means of training those who are ready to enlist. The hospital accommodations for nurses undergoing training are hardly more than sufficient for the number always under training to meet present normal needs. In the larger cities this is the case with many of the hospitals. In some instances hospitals have not sufficient accommodations to train the number of nurses needed to meet their own requirements.

One way of helping to meet the situation is to try to reduce the home demand for trained nurses. To do this the Red Cross is conducting all over the land classes in elementary hygiene and home care of the sick and in home dietetics. So far over thirty thousand women have completed Red Cross courses enabling them to provide for their own families, and for their neighbors, part of the services trained nurses would render. It is hoped many more thousands will take the courses and Red Cross branches anywhere will give information to any woman as to how and where one may join the classes.

Ten Thousand Nurses Needed Annually

But this Red Cross work, excellent and commendable as it is, is not enough. There must be more trained nurses and some way must be found for training them. Someone who knows says ten thousand nurses a year must be furnished by the United States in the years just ahead. This demand can be met for three or four years by drawing on the number already trained and on those now undergoing training, but, to fill the ranks that will be depleted by these calls, any more than the normal number of nurses trained must be trained for some years to come. Some plan must be devised by which each hospital, by adding some of its normal number under training, may help to make the aggregate number sufficient to meet the future calls. In New York the Bellevue is accepting students who live in its immediate vicinity and allowing them to live at home. The Presbyterian has established a two-year course to which it admits young women who are college graduates.

The Newton Hospital, as its part in helping solve the problem of increasing the number under training, has established a nurses' training annex, which is being watched with interest by the hospitals all over the country because it is the first unit of its kind in the United States. The annex has a home of its own at 73 Institution avenue, Newton Centre. It is within a stone's throw of the Newton Centre Red Cross house and, like the Red Cross house, it is a contribution of the Mellen Bray estate to the war needs of the country. It is under the control and the direction of the officers of the Newton Hospital and by train and walk is distant about one-quarter of an hour from the hospital. Already it has started over a score of young women on their way to fitting themselves as trained nurses.

The annex is under the supervision of Miss Elizabeth Yancey, a graduate of the Boston City Hospital Training School for Nurses, and the instruction is given by Miss Mary M. Riddle, the superintendent of the Newton Hospital, and other instructors from the hospital staff and also by instructors from the outside, the instructor in cooking, for instance, being a graduate of Miss Farmer's School of Cooking. The young women's day begins with rising at 5.45. Breakfast is at 6.45, dinner at 12.15, and supper at 6. All must be abed at 10.

There are no patients at the annex. The training at it is almost entirely in theoretical and practical domestic science, a most important part of a nurse's training. The young women are taught how to make beds, how to cook, how to do all that is necessary in carrying on the domestic side of a home. At the annex the young women do everything except the baking of bread and laundry work. These are done for them at the hospital. Outside of these two things, and taking care of the furnace and the occasional help of a day worker, all of the work at the annex is done by the students.

The Excellent Working Plan

The work is divided into two kinds—cooking and care of the table, and general housework, making beds, chamberwork, etc. The young women are divided into two groups. One week one group looks out for the cooking and the table, and the other for the housework, and the following week the cooking group of the first week does the housework and the first housework group takes its turn at cooking and tables. So it goes, turn and turn about, through the weeks of the course. The members of each group are numbered. The first week number one is the chief of her group; then, having had her turn she becomes the last number, and number two succeeds to the chieftainship. In time each young woman has her turn at all the varieties of work.

The practical application by the students of their lessons in planning meals and cooking them is shown by the menus for a week beginning with Friday.

THURSDAY

Supper—Candied sweet potatoes, ham loaf, rice pudding with chocolate sauce, hot muffins, tea, cocoa.

Incidentally it is interesting to know that the establishment of the annex, given over entirely to nurses-to-be and no patients, has enabled the hospital authorities to determine the cost of food for a nurse to be about $3.85 a week. Women who manage homes, their own, may gain some idea as to how their costs compare with those obtained by following the rules laid down by domestic science.

Newton Hospital's Good Example

The instruction given at the annex is the same as that outlined for the probationary, or preliminary, period in the regular hospital school. The members have no hospital practice for some weeks, then they begin by going to the hospital for a few hours each day, are finally admitted to the hospital at the end of their probation, and a new class is started at the annex to go through the same course. So far one class has completed its course at the annex and another one is now under training. If the needs of the Newton Hospital are not such as to call for the number trained affiliations are to be made with some of the larger hospitals so as to ensure a thorough training for all. The standards are to be maintained as at present in the hospital's regular school.

The establishment of the annex, and so increasing the number of students under its training, is not the only thing the Newton Hospital has done in the way of war preparedness. In common with many other hospitals, it has made ready for the care of soldiers and sailors. In addition to its regular one hundred and sixty-five beds it is ready and equipped to care for another hundred patients at short notice without disturbing its present routine. Part of its equipment for future needs was sent to Halifax where good use was made of it. It has also furnished many nurses in answer to Red Cross calls. Of the more than two hundred who have so far entered war service from Middlesex County, a county in which there are no large hospitals, more than a third of the number have been Newton trained.

What the Newton Hospital is doing gives one an idea of what all American hospitals, big and little, are doing to make ready for the demand, certain to be made upon them in the near future and to show that the plans for the care of our wounded and disabled are keeping at least abreast of our preparations to send our men to the front.

Testimonial meeting Wednesday 8 P. M. The public is cordially invited to attend the services and to use the Reading Room at 297 Walnut Street, Newtonville, which is open daily from 2 to 6 in the afternoon and on Tuesday and Saturday evenings from 7.30 until 9.

COPLEY THEATRE—The first revival of old English comedy will be made at the Copley Theatre next week, when the Henry Jewett players will present Sheridan's masterpiece, "The Rivals." It will be acted under Mr. Jewett's personal direction, with Mr. Wingfield as Bob Acres, Mr. Annerley as Sir Lucius O'Trigger, Mr. Permain as Sir Anthony Absolute, Mr. Craske as Captain Absolute, Mr. Mathews as David, Miss Roach as Lydia Langish, Miss Newcombe as Julia, and Miss Miller as Mrs. Malaprop. "The Rivals," which is now nearly one hundred and fifty years old, is as laughable today as it was when it was first enjoyed by the London playgoers of the eighteenth century.

NEWTON HIGH SCHOOL

This afternoon at 2.30 a dance will be given for the benefit of girls' athletics, field hockey especially. This is the only dance to be given during January.

The athletic committee has appointed Howland Lord manager of the football team for 1918.

Manager Hopkins of the baseball team is now preparing the 1918 schedule which will include 22 games. During the long Christmas vacation the track team has put in a lot of much-needed practice. Although there seems to be considerable good material there are only three of last year's veterans, Captain Nutting, Garity, and Brickhouse. Charles Hayes, the sprinter on last year's team, has joined the National Guard, and is now in South Carolina, waiting to go across.

The very cold weather of the last two weeks enabled the hockey team to get into fairly good shape for the important Medford game last Friday which was played to a tie, 0 to 0. Hughes, who said he would not play hockey this year, went into the game a few minutes, and will probably be in the line-up regularly now. Holmes, who played goal, has been marked.

Wednesday morning the three upper classes met in the assembly hall and Mr. Adams announced that Massachusetts Institute of Technology had offered to admit in February any boys who might be taking a post-graduate course or who, for any reason, had not entered in June, and let them finish the second half of the first year during the summer. They would then be ready to enter the sophomore year in the fall of 1918. A letter was read from the Amherst College Club of Newton offering a scholarship of $200 at Amherst for any Newton High boy who had the right qualities. Mr. Adams also announced that Spanish would be added to the curriculum at the Classical High School during 1918 and 1919. This would be open only to sophomores or those who intended to take at least two years of it.

Car tickets which were sold Monday and Friday after school in one of the rooms will now be sold on the same days, but at recess.

VOCATIONAL SCHOOL NOTES

Dr. Payson E. Smith, Commissioner of Education for Massachusetts, will address the Newton Vocational School Thursday afternoon, January 10, at 2.30, on "Some Present Day Educational Obligations."

The Junior Auxiliary Red Cross work has been resumed this week, and the same splendid spirit which prompted boys and girls to give up their afternoons to this work in the earlier part of the winter still prevails in all departments of the work.

Major Murray was warmly welcomed by teachers and pupils during his brief visit to the school.

The drive upon the Soldiers' Scrap Books is about to be made and contributions of volumes of Life, Judge, or the standard periodicals would be welcome.

Mr. Alton H. Hartford, formerly of the Duxbury High School, has accepted a position in the history department.

NEWTON BOY PROMOTED

The many friends of Mr. James E. Costigan, of Clinton street, Newton, will be pleased to hear of his promotion to the rank of sergeant. He is in Co. K, 35th Infantry, Camp Gordon, Atlanta, Ga.

Going to Ayer from Newton in the last forty per cent. of the drafted men, he was shortly transferred to Camp Gordon. He was stationed here but a week when he received a corporalship and now has been appointed sergeant of his company.

Mr. Costigan is well known in sport circles in and about Newton, especially in baseball and bowling. He played with the West Newton Catholic Club team for five seasons, and captained the 1916 championship team. He was also lead-off man for the Stalley team in the Motor Bowling league for four years, being on two championship teams, and always among the leaders of the league.

MR. FURBUSH DEAD

Mr. Alfred C. Furbush, of Davis avenue, West Newton, well known horseman and real estate operator, died suddenly Wednesday at Stowe, where he had gone only a week before for a stay in the interests of his health.

Mr. Furbush was born in Lebanon, Maine, in 1870. He was educated in the Rochester, N. H., schools, entering business life after his graduation, in the employ of his brother, Almon J. Furbush, at Brighton. He came to Newton in 1890 and worked in the store of another brother, Wesley J. Furbush, for a few years, then branching out for himself.

Establishing a livery and sales stable, he soon demonstrated the qualities of a successful business man, and soon had a stable of good horses of his own.

His strings included Ethel Direct, Monte Volo and Jay Kay. The latter finished third in the famous $50,000 Readville Derby.

He was best known to his friends, often piloted his racing horses himself, and he was a past master in the art of careful race preparation.

It was as a real estate operator, however, that Mr. Furbush achieved the successes he esteemed the most. First associated with Caleb S. Spencer, now of New York, he was instrumental in the development of the Smith estate, a large property on Watertown street, West Newton.

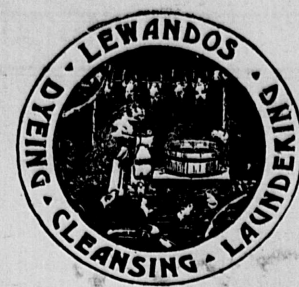

Later Mr. Furbush acquired a large portion of the Seth Davis estate, and began an extensive development plan, part of which he lived to see carried out.

Mr. Furbush had few interests outside of his business, his home and the horses he always loved. He was a director of the Metropolitan Driving Club.

Mr. Furbush is survived by a widow, Mrs. Adella G. Furbush; one son, Spencer S. aged seven years, and three brothers, Almon J. and Wilbur P. of Brighton and Wesley J. Furbush of West Newton.

Funeral services will be held this afternoon at his home, 66 Davis avenue, West Newton.

Some Things We Can Do

My desire is to see how much—not how little—we can give our customers for their money.

Don't interpret this as a fine burst of philanthropy. It isn't. It's plain, common sense business, because a satisfied customer is the best possible advertisement.

Every telephone becomes a part of the universal Bell System the moment it is installed. The service that may be afforded a subscriber, however, is largely dependent upon his knowledge of its varied possibilities. We can only suggest some of these, leaving to him the privilege of availing himself of them.

Does he know how to make an Emergency Fire Call or an Emergency Call for Physicians?

Does he know what we are glad to do in the way of emergency installations in cases of quarantined illness?

Does he know how to make Number Only Toll Calls as distinguished from other toll calls?

Does he know what we will do to help forward an urgent message relative to sickness or death?

Does he know we will try to get a message to a person whose full address is unknown to him?

Does he know what our Pay Station service can do in reaching non-subscribers by messenger?

If, perchance, the reader does not know of these possibilities, we wish he would call official 50. We may be able to make his telephone much more valuable to him, and perhaps without one cent of additional cost.

TRAINING FOR OFFICERS

The following letter was received from Camp Devens, too late for our issue last week, for which it was intended.

The following men from Newton now staying in Camp Devens have "made good" and have been rewarded by being selected by the Board of Officers convening for the purpose, for the Officers' Training Camp to be held in this Camp:

The men will report on Saturday, January 5th, 1918, but the actual work in the school will not commence until Monday, January 7th, 1918, and will continue until April 5th, 1918.

Sergt. Major John P. Tierney, Newton. Member of the Headquarters Company of the 301st Field Artillery. Sent from Newton with the First Forty Percent.

Sergt. Philip R. Morss, Chestnut Hill. Member of the Headquarters Company of the 301st Field Artillery. Sent from Newton with the First Forty Percent.

Sergt. George J. Kite, West Newton. Member of the Headquarters Company of the 301st Field Artillery. Sent from Newton with the First Forty Percent.

Sergt. Robert A. Whidden, West Newton. Member of the Headquarters Company of the 301st Field Artillery. Sent from Newton with the First Forty Percent.

Robert J. Holmes, Newton. A member of the 32nd Company, 9th Bn., 151st Depot Brigade.

Corporal Alfred F. Mulvihill, West Newton. Formerly a member of the 35th Company, 9th Bn., 151st Depot Brigade, but now a member of the 9th Company, 3rd Bn., same brigade. Sent from Newton with the Second Forty Percent.

Newton has a representation of six men which is a large number—for it should be remembered that our quota was about 140 men. There is but one Waltham man on the list, this man being Sergt. E. P. Frost of B. Battery, 301st Field Artillery. He was formerly prominent in Waltham High School Athletics.

Approximately 530 men were selected by the Board to attend this school and they were picked individually, solely on their own merits. Each man was rated by his Company Commander on recommendation sheets provided for the purpose. The various sub-headings on the recommendation sheets were Intelligence, Leadership, Physical Condition, Character, and General Value to the Army in the capacity of an officer. Each and every man from Newton ranked high in the above.

In this same camp there will be about 206 men from various colleges in the Northeastern Department.

The opening game in the School Hockey league was staged last Friday night at the Arena and proved a scoreless tie.

Newton High was in better physical condition and had the game gone another overtime period it would probably have beaten.

Medford scored a goal on a legitimate shot from near mid-rink by Donnellan, the Newton goal-tender failing to observe the puck on its arclike flight from the left side of the rink. Holmes picked the puck out of the net and the goal-tender raised his hand, but later decided that the disc did not go into the net, and the referee did not allow the goal, as he had been unable to follow the flight of the puck. Newton was more aggressive than Medford and threatened often, but the fine work of Frank Vye in the Medford cage prevented scoring.

Both teams evidently forgot their coaching, for the play was of an individual character throughout. However, it was the fastest exhibition ever shown by schoolboys in an opening league game, and augurs well for a good season of sport. Captain Eaton of Newton, playing rover, was the speediest skater on the ice, but his efforts were neutralized by the consistent checking of the rival leader, Furr of Medford. Donnellan, Medford rover, threatened to score on numerous occasions, but his shots were deflected by Garrity or Owen. Hughes appeared in the Newton line-up at right wing when the game was well under way, but he showed lack of practice. Davidson proved to be the best wingman and should develop into a star for Newton.

APPOINTED ARMY CHAPLAIN

Rev. G. Charles Gray, pastor of the Newton Methodist Church for the past four years, left last Friday afternoon for Camp Funston, Kansas, where he has received a commission as chaplain for the 353d Infantry of the National Guard. Rev. Mr. Gray has made many friends in this city during his short pastorate and there are many regrets that no opportunity was given to show the respect and esteem in which he is held.

War Time Saving and Economy

Mr. Hoover says, "If we do not economize in food-stuffs we stand a grave chance of losing the war. Our enemies are calculating that America will fail in this and that our allies will have to give in. EDITORIAL

The coal situation in this city seems to be better than the average throughout the state, but it should not be used as an argument or reason for not using the utmost economy in every matter of our daily lives depending on the use of coal. Let us not forget, for instance, that it takes coal to pump even such a cheap commodity as the city water, and every quart allowed to waste at the faucet is just so much loss in our coal supply.

The late Mitchell Wing was a typical good citizen. A successful business man, he yet took an active and intelligent interest in civic and church affairs, and never failed to respond to the many demands upon his time and his purse. He served the city well and faithfully in its city government and for many years as a trustee of Read and Eliot Memorial funds, and he will be greatly missed in the city's future life and work.

The war department has made no mistake in appointing the Rev. G. Charles Gray as an army chaplain. He has a genial personality that cannot fail to be an attraction for young men, and is old enough to have plenty of discretion and young enough to enter into the social activities and sports of the men. And last, but by no means least, he is a sincere and earnest Christian.

In increasing the daily wage of city laborers to $3.00 a day, Mayor Childs will have the approval of all who recognize the unusual conditions in which we are living. There is far more common sense in an action of this kind than in granting the demand for a Saturday half holiday throughout the year. The times demand more and wages, and not opportunities to loaf.

Congressman Carter again shows his political courage in voting against the majority of the Massachusetts congressmen in favor of submitting to the states the equal suffrage amendment to the Federal constitution.

The movement to utilize the splendid athletic facilities of the Newton Y. M. C. A. for the women of this city ought to have a large and enthusiastic support, and the news should be given the utmost publicity.

SKATING DIRECTOR

Owing to the fact that the schools are closed every afternoon, the Playground Commission has placed a woman director at Bullough's Pond. She will be there every fair afternoon when the skating is good and if the weather is not too severe. This director will look out for the interests of little children and girls, and see that they are properly taken care of. Skating is excellent at Bullough's Pond, and on the Stearns, West Newton, Cabot and Boyd playgrounds, all these places having been resurfaced. The skating at Crystal Lake is fair.

The income tax department at the State House is urging all taxpayers to file their returns early. This appeal is made in the interest of economy in the expense of administration. In these days of excessive public expenditures dollar conservation is just as essential and patriotic as any other form of conservation which individuals are called upon to make. File your return early and "do your bit."

HOSPITAL WORK IN PARIS

At the Thursday morning meeting of the Newton French Relief, Mme. Huard gave a very interesting talk describing the wonderful work she is doing in her hospital in Paris. She made her audience realize as they never have before what must be done for the suffering soldiers. She told of some very seriously wounded who have been in her hospital one and two years under constant treatment, so the help for these men should be constant, as it must be for those fighting in the trenches. People ought not to think one sweater apiece is enough for each soldier who is fighting a several years' war.

The French government allows 36 cents per day for each patient in Mme. Huard's hospital, and she is trying to make a hundred dollars a day while in America, to pay the running expenses of her hospital. A collection was taken at the close of the meeting, and $257 was given Mme. Huard for her hospital work. Mme. Huard's husband is an artist of some note, and a number of his pen and ink sketches were sold at the meeting. He was the first to introduce camouflage into the French army.

HARWOOD—HOLMES

A pretty home wedding, in spite of the storm, was that of Miss Marjorie Holmes, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen W. Holmes of Newton and Mr. Channing Ellis Harwood of Wilbur street, Newton, which took place last Monday evening at the residence of the bride's parents on Grasmere street.

The ceremony, which took place at 7:30 o'clock in the spacious hall, under a canopy of laurel and Easter lilies, was performed by Rev. Harry Lutz of the Channing Church, assisted by Rev. Dr. Charles W. Wendte of Newton.

The bride was gowned in cream satin draped with point and Duchesse lace and carried a shower bouquet of orchids and white sweet peas. Her sister, Miss Doris Holmes, was the maid of honor and was in pink and silver, and, with the bridesmaid, Miss Edith Fisher, wearing green and silver, carried baskets of sweet peas. The ribbons were held by little Edith Curtis and Mary Scofield.

The best man was Mr. Harold Eustis of Newark, N. J., and the guests were ushered by Messrs. Fred N. Peirce and C. Ernest Greenwood.

A reception for about two hundred friends followed the ceremony until ten o'clock, Mr. and Mrs. Harwood being assisted in the receiving line by Mr. and Mrs. Stephen W. Holmes and Mr. and Mrs. Frederic E. Harwood.

The house was decorated with Southern smilax, laurel, Easter lilies and pink roses, and the receiving party stood before a curtain of laurel and pink roses.

The groom is a graduate of Dartmouth, 1915, and is now engaged in government work at Middletown, Conn., and is awaiting orders to go to France.

NEW YEAR'S REUNION

The New Year's Reunion of the members of the parish of Trinity Church, Newton Centre, was held in connection with the annual parish meeting on Tuesday evening in the parish house.

The report of the treasurer, Mr. Charles B. Moore, was read amid considerable enthusiasm, because it showed that the receipts and the expenditures for the past year, both for parish expenses, and for Missionary and benevolences, were the largest in the history of the parish.

Reports of the activities of the various parish organizations were read by the officers, and showed that the year's work in each one, was the largest and most varied of any previous year.

Mrs. E. V. Alley, president of the Woman's Auxiliary read the report of that organization's activities; Mr. Bertram C. Bixby gave an interesting account of the year's history of the Men's Club. The Club has taken charge of the Sunday evening services with marked success in the interest and attendance at the services.

Mrs. J. E. Masters read the report of the Junior Auxiliary, and Mr. F. W. Denio, superintendent of the Sunday school, sent in a report of the year's work of the School.

Mrs. Charles E. Dennison read the report of the Altar Chapter.

Mr. Clarence H. Wilkins, the assistant treasurer, gave a report of the result of the Every Member Canvass for the expenses and benevolences for 1918.

The officers were re-elected as follows: Mr. Isaac F. North, senior warden; Mr. William H. Bundy, junior warden; Mr. Charles B. Moore, treasurer; Mr. Samuel B. Paul, clerk. The vestrymen are Mr. Robert Casson, Mr. Louis H. Fitch, Mr. William B. Neal, Mr. William G. Snow, Mr. Clarence H. Wilkins, Dr. D. Crosby Greene, Major John C. de Mille, and Mr. John F. Milner.

In spite of the bad condition of the weather there was an excellent attendance and refreshments were served at the close of the meeting.

WOMEN'S CLUBS

MISS GRACE M. BURT, Editor.

The war service of another Newton club is heard from this week, the Social Science Club. Even before war was declared the club took the initiative in forming the Newton Branch of the Special Aid Society, and the service of this organization is too well known to need further mention in this column. But as a club there has been given for Belgian children $174.55; for the French children, $51; for the Armenian and Syrian children, $100; to the War Camp Community Fund, $50, and the same amount to the Y. W. C. A. drive. It has also invested in four $100 Liberty Bonds. The members themselves are actively engaged in many forms of war service, too numerous to be mentioned. The contribution from the meeting at Mrs. Harriman's for the Armenian and Syrian Relief has been increased since announcement was made last week, so that at present it exceeds $1850. A small contribution was sent to the Halifax Relief Fund, and would have been larger had not the members contributed individually before the appeal was made.

Newton is considerably alive to the need for Food Conservation. But more and more has got to be done or we may be overwhelmed with remorse in the years to come, was the last word from Dean Sarah Louise Arnold, at the monthly conference at the State House on Monday. That Massachusetts saved in November over 3,000,000 pounds of meat and nearly a million pounds of flour, and some 300,000 pounds of sugar through its conservation measures of "meatless" and "wheatless" days must certainly be a satisfaction to those who have endeavored to carry out the requests of the Food Administrator. That we must keep right on is certain, since Mrs. Nathaniel Thayer brings from Washington the message that the surplus supply of wheat has been exhausted and that our armies can only be fed from what those at home save from the normal supply on hand, until the 1918 crop is harvested.

State Federation

A Literature conference is being held at Waltham this afternoon for the clubs of the sixth district. Library Extension work is one of the topics presented, including work with the blind.

Wednesday, January 16, is a busy day for Federation committees. At Springfield there will be a district conference on Art in Wartime. At Worcester there will be a conference of the seventh district, the morning session for presidents and secretaries, while the afternoon will be devoted to Home Economics.

On the same day at Lynn at 2 o'clock, the Civil Service Reform department announces a conference for the clubs of the fourth and fifth districts.

At the close of the meeting there will be a food sale of special interest, as attractive war foods will be featured. Prices reasonable.

Kitchen Soldiers, Attention!

Mrs. Gertrude Mathews Shelby, who addresses the Newtonian Woman's Guild on Tuesday afternoon, will also speak before the Social Science Club on Wednesday morning, her subject being "In Dutch Guiana." Guests may be invited.

Thursday, January 17, the Ladies' Home Circle meets at 2 o'clock in G. A. R. hall, Newtonville.

On January 19, the Newton Highlands Shakespeare Club will meet with Mrs. F. S. Keith.

Local Happenings

Miss Alberta J. Crombie was in charge of the quiz at the meeting of the Shakespeare Club of Newton Highlands last Saturday afternoon. The last two acts of King Henry IV, Part 2, were studied and many of the minor characters were contrasted. A food sale followed, from which some $100 was realized for the club's Liberty Bond. Mrs. H. W. Drew reported that the proceeds of the children's entertainment last month had netted $10 for the same object. A contribution was also made for the Halifax Relief fund.

Mrs. Fred R. Hayward of Centre street entertained the Newton Highlands C. L. S. C. on Monday afternoon. Mrs. Whitaker of Newton Centre gave a most interesting account of her ten months' residence in Germany before the war, presenting many entertaining facts about the people, their customs, and their attitude toward the present conflict.

An informal conference was conducted by the Home Economics department of the Newtonian Woman's Guild on Tuesday afternoon in charge of Mrs. E. P. Crave. Different members contributed their canning experiences, both successes and failures, why and wherefore. Much useful information was gained from this practical kind of meeting. Samples of various canned articles were shown.

The Woman's Club of Newton Highlands resumed its program Tuesday afternoon after the Christmas recess. Mrs. C. G. Wetherbee presided over the business meeting, after which "America" was sung. Rev. J. Edgar Park lectured upon "Irish Poetry." Speaking of Ireland and its sadness, the conditions past and present and their influence on its poetry. There is a mysterious artist, a poet who signs himself "A. D." An exquisite quotation from his "Sunset" was read, also "Dusk" and "The Three Councilors." We heard of Sir Roger Casement from a different point of view, and his "Lost Youth" was given; also "Sheep and Lambs," by Katherine Tynan. A poem, much copied and widely read by the soldiers and those in the service, Mr. Park read many other poems, and was much enjoyed by the attentive audience.

"The Physical Characteristics of South America" proved a most entertaining and enlightening subject as handled by Mrs. W. H. Mitchell at the meeting of the Social Science Club on Wednesday morning. The country was characterized as a land of romance and enterprise. Three decades or so ago dwellers in Europe were little concerned with what was going on there; today, every important event is echoed almost instantaneously. Its natural resources are almost boundless, there being scarcely an article from timber to gold, from the guava to the apple, which is not to be found. Its wonderful mountains were described, as also Lake Titicaca, the loftiest lake sheet of water in the world, being two miles above the level of the Pacific Ocean, and having 5000 square miles of surface. It never freezes and is navigable to steam craft. There are also the largest waterfalls of the world, a worthy rival of Niagara. Another superlative in the shape of the Amazon with its 4000 miles length, navigable for the largest ships almost to its very source, was noted. Each country was taken up separately, the products and general conditions being set forth. The boundless possibilities of the continent were forcibly presented, stimulating the imagination as to what may be expected from that part of the world when the war is over. Mrs. Mitchell closed her paper with a vivid description of the ceremonies attending the dedication of the monument to everlasting peace between Argentina and Chili, the Christ of the Andes.

"The Acid Test of American Democracy" was the subject of a lecture given before an open meeting of the Newton Centre Woman's Club in Bray Hall on Wednesday evening by Miss Eleanor Colleton of Boston, president of the Italian Immigrant Society. Under this topic were discussed some of the later-day problems of immigration and their solution, including industrial, social and educational ones. In the course of the discussion the speaker spoke with approbation of the new Board of Immigration and the work which it is doing.

There are two kinds of men in business—those who think and work and those who think they work.

FESTIVAL OF LIGHTS

Evening service at Trinity church, Newton Centre, January 13, will be marked by the annual celebration of the Festival of Lights. The church is darkened, bringing into prominence an illuminated star in the chancel. The choir enters, singing "We Three Kings of Orient Are"; and led by the Three Wise Men in costume. They come up the centre aisle guided by the star. Then some hymns are sung. There is a short service and address. After the benediction the Rector takes a light from a large candle on the altar, which symbolizes the Light of the World, and lights the tapers of the Wise Men; they in turn light the end choristers in the choir stalls, who pass the light along the stalls, each lighting his neighbor's taper. Then the wise men go down the centre aisle and light the tapers of the persons at the end of the pews who turn and light the tapers of their next neighbors, and so the light is passed along the pews.

Each person receives a taper, children as well as adults. Each receives the light and gives the light, an impressive and beautiful symbol of the process of receiving and imparting the Light of the Spirit. The custom comes down from the days when the church taught by symbol, illustration and dramatic representation, and impressed the great truths of the Gospel upon the people who didn't read. Come and bring the children. They will never forget the ceremony of the candle lighting in the darkened church, nor the significance of it, which is expressed in the ancient proverb: "See how far that candle casts its beams; so does a good deed shine in a naughty world." When everybody has a light, the choir marches around the church, carrying their tapers and singing an appropriate hymn. The people then carry their light out into the night, having put on their wraps before the candle-lighting began, and they strive to protect the flame from the wind, and each to carry the light as far into the darkness as he can. The impression on the minds of the children of the meaning of it all will never be lost. It begins at 7.15 and will last about an hour.

BOY SCOUT NEWS

A new honor has been conferred on the members of the Boy Scouts of America. President Wilson writes:—My dear Mr. Livingstone: I desire to entrust the Boy Scouts of America with a new and important commission to make them the government dispatch bearers in carrying to the homes of their community the pamphlets on the war prepared by the Committee on Public Information. The excellent services performed by the Boy Scouts in the past encourage me to believe that this new task will be cheerfully and faithfully discharged.

Sincerely yours,
WOODROW WILSON.

The Committee on Public Information is composed of the Secretary of War, the Secretary of the Navy, the Secretary of State and Mr. George Creel, who serves as chairman. A plan has been worked out with the approval of the executive board of the National Council by which the Boy Scouts are to serve as aids to the Committee on Public Information and as officially appointed dispatch bearers under the slogan "Every Scout to Boost America" in co-operating from time to time in the different forms of service which the committee may request.

The week of January 20 has been set aside as the time within which the Boy Scouts of America will perform the first service for the Committee on Public Information by making a house-to-house distribution of President Wilson's Flag Day address as given at Independence Hall, June 14, 1917.

From Somewhere in France the following message was cabled to W. S. Cowing, Scout Executive, Boy Scouts of America, Philadelphia, Pa., on December 3:

The Boy Scouts movement has my unqualified approval. Honest and faithful service in the Boy Scouts develops those many qualities that fit our boys for the more serious duties of citizens and soldiers.

JOHN J. PERSHING.
Officers and Scouts of the Eighth District are gratified at the receipt of the following appreciative letter, directed to Scout Commissioner James C. Irwin:

My dear Mr. Irwin:—Please accept for yourself, the Scoutmasters of the several Troops and the boys belonging thereto, our grateful thanks for their generous assistance, willingly given, in the distribution of placards in business houses of the city.

We feel strongly that your efforts contributed in no small degree to the results obtained in the Drive for Christmas Membership in the American Red Cross.

Very truly yours,
EDWIN G. CHILDS, Mayor,
F. W. REMICK,
Committee on Christmas Membership Drive for the American Red Cross.

CLASS FOR TRAINING BUZZER OPERATORS

A goodly number of men of draft age have signified their desire to avail themselves of the opportunity offered by the School Board.

The school authorities have found it desirable to postpone for a short time the starting of the class until more definite data can be secured on the classification of the men from the returned questionnaires. As soon as possible, notice will be sent to the men who have signified their desire to take the work, giving the date of opening the class.

LETTER OF THANKS

Under date of January 8, Lieut. Com. Bruce H. Ware, Jr., of the U. S. S. Agamemnon, has written to the ladies of Newton, as follows:—"I am writing to you all to thank you for the wonderful pains and interest you took in the Christmas of my men. I have not time to answer everybody individually. It would give me great pleasure to do so, but I trust you will all accept this letter as a small indication of the appreciation I feel."

After another trip through the zone, I shall surely arrange to come to Newton, and if I cannot myself come, a delegation of the men will come to thank you."

Wake up, you girls and women, Stir up both young and old. Our soldiers can't be winning While freezing in the cold. Use up your leisure hours! At something more worth while, Don't all stand back like cowards And dream of coming styles. Soldiers need warm clothing To keep the cold away, So buckle into knitting, Start now without delay. Help the boys to win this war, Show that you are no misers, If knitting for yourself you are, You're knitting for the Kaiser. By Laura J. Williams.

WOMEN'S CLUBS

Mrs. H. E. Williams entertained the Monday Club of Newton Highlands Monday evening. Mr. Joe Mitchell Chapple was the lecturer of the evening and Miss Newhall prepared it with a group of songs. The speaker delighted his audience by drawing them in imagination around a big driftwood fire and giving them his "Flash Lights of famous People." Reminiscences of McKinley, Roosevelt, John Hay, description of King Edward's Coronation and interviews with Bismarck and Pope Leo were intimate, humorous, pathetic.

The climax of his lecture might have been in the opening sketch when he outlined traveling for three weeks with an unknown prince, and twenty years later being electrified by a proclamation from Europe which identified his slender blue-eyed prince as King Albert of Belgium.

The Review Club of Auburndale were the guests of Mrs. R. L. Bridgman at the regular meeting Tuesday, January 8. Miss Margaret Haskell had the first paper of the morning in which she told of the many varieties of orchestral instruments and their development. She then spoke of some of the famous orchestras of America and gave many interesting facts concerning their conductors, the development of the Boston Symphony Orchestra with its different conductors from Henschel to Muck. Among conductors of other orchestras she mentioned Theodore Thomas, Patrick Gilmore, and the Damrosches.

Two orchestral numbers were given on the victrola, one of which was a Kreisler solo with orchestral accompaniment.

Mrs. Henry Hildreth then told of the romantic period in literature and music and named Weber as the creator of romantic music. Schumann, Chopin, and Liszt were all writers of such music.

Mrs. Nelson Freeman played two piano solos, a Chopin Mazurka and a Liszt Transcription.

Mrs. Helen Turner wrote of famous pianists, most of whom were composers as well. Prominent among these were Clementi, "the father of piano playing," Mozart who performed most remarkable feats in sight playing, improvisation, and transposition. Beethoven, who took lessons on thirty-five different instruments, and Mendelssohn, who was the only one that had a happy and comfortable childhood.

Chopin, the "Raphael of the piano," and Liszt, the "Paganini of the piano." Of all these and many others she gave interesting facts and incidents and this paper closed an instructive as well as an entertaining program.

The annual business meeting of the club will be held next week, Tuesday, at the home of Miss Harriette Hunt, 44 Woodbine street.

The Brighthelemstone Club met on Monday, 2 P. M., at the Club House, 541 Cambridge street, in spite of very inclement weather. Those who ventured out were well rewarded, as Mrs. Arthur Hardy Ropes of Wollaston spoke on "The Wonderland of America" and held the close attention of every one as pictures of the Yellowstone and Yosemite were thrown upon the screen. Mrs. Ropes told in a humorous vein of her experiences on a mule back in the Yosemite and the perilous ride in the stage coach in the Yellowstone around hair pin curves on narrow roads.

The club has recently sent a collection of records to Camp Devens.

On Wednesday afternoon and evening and Thursday evening a play by members of the club, "Miss Prim's Kindergarten," was given in the Club house, and the proceeds will go toward the mortgage on the Club house.

BRAE BURN CLUB

Many interesting events have featured the holiday season at Brae Burn, but out-door diversions hold the centre of the stage. The zero weather has kept the ponds in excellent condition for the Ice Carnivals which attracted hundreds of skaters as well as interested spectators to this famous Country Club which offers so many facilities for the enjoyment of life both indoors and out, and the management, always solicitous to the comfort of guests provides everything necessary to the enjoyment of these winter delights. They don't forget that with winter sports go comfortable living and on Carnival nights, dinners and suppers are served to members and their guests in the commodious dining hall.

Afternoon tea is served on Sundays from four until six-thirty in the Garden Tea room and the delightful musical programs rendered by Mrs. Albert Luke Walker, cello, Miss Adeline Packard, violin, Miss Alice McLaughlin, flute, and Miss Ethel Harding, piano, are special inducements for lovers of good music to be present, which accounts in a great measure for the series of Ice Carnivals on Friday evening was a most successful affair, and a merry company numbering about 200 availed themselves of the opportunity to enjoy the healthful sport.

No more charming picture can be imagined than Brae Burn pond on a moonlight night, nestled among the trees, with skaters gliding over the glassy surface, amid the ripple of laughter and clang of steel, to the accompanying melodies from the Cambridge City Band, which was in attendance Friday night and played alternately with the Hardy-gurdy stationed at the pond.

Adding to the picturesque effect were the huge bon fires which were lighted on the banks and cast their weird fantastic shadows thru the woodlands. Gorgeous illuminations by festoons of Japanese lanterns and incandescent lights were hung across the ponds, and gave a finishing touch to the festive scene.

Another of these delightful out door events will be held next week on Friday evening.

Mrs. Howard Emerson a house guest at Brae Burn, entertained at an Auction bridge last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Glover S. Hastings and Mr. and Mrs. Walton S. Redfield of West Newton are registered at the club for a few weeks.

NEW CLUB HOUSE

Waban Neighborhood Club Opens New Building With Reception

The opening of the Waban Neighborhood Club house last Saturday evening brought out representatives of nearly all the families in Waban, and much pleasure was evinced with the success of the group of men now forming the Board of Governors of the Club, who formerly made up the building committee and who have worked untiringly for years for the success of the project.

There has been delay in completion of the equipment because of war conditions and the bowling alleys will not be ready for a few weeks. Because of war conditions and shortage of fuel the members voted on Saturday night, not to keep the club open continuously for the present, but to open only for special events, such as club meetings, and the Waban Woman's Club met there on Monday afternoon, with a large attendance.

Saturday night, a reception was held at 8.30, and in the receiving line were President Donald M. Hill, vice-president Willis R. Fisher and Mrs. Fisher, treasurer Nelson H. Marvin and Mrs. Marvin, secretary Lawrence Allen and Mrs. Allen, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Andrews. Following the reception refreshments were served, and then dancing enjoyed to the music of an orchestra.

The building is of brick, one-story bungalow type, with basement, and stands on about $3,000 feet of land, fronting on Beacon street. Its dimensions are 63x85 feet, and its cost in the neighborhood of $30,000.

Through a vestibule and lobby, to the right of which is a reception room and to the left a ladies' room, one enters the assembly hall, 40x60 feet, seating 400 people, and containing a splendid stage with proscenium opening of 22 feet and a depth of 25 feet. The stage is a feature of the clubhouse, and is equipped with every appliance. On either side of the stage are anterooms.

The reception room and assembly hall show the touch of woman's hand, the Waban Woman's Club having appropriated several hundred dollars for decorations, the color scheme of the reception and ladies' rooms being blue. A well-appointed kitchen and pantry are at the left of the stage.

Leading off the assembly hall is a glazed porch overlooking the grounds on which much work has already been done toward the construction of tennis courts. This also opens to a wide piazza which surrounds the clubhouse on two sides. In the rear of the assembly hall is a handsome, wide fireplace. The ceiling of the hall has exposed beams and trusses.

The interior of the building is finished in selected figured cypress, gray stained. In the basement, the floor of which is cement, will be located the four bowling alleys, which will be of regulation length, lockers for the members and billiard tables.

Mr. Thomas James, the architect, was a resident of Waban for several years, and therefore familiar with the needs of the community. The results attained by him are a great satisfaction to the members, nearly all of whom hold club bonds and are much interested in conducting a successful family club. President Hill gave a short talk, Saturday evening, outlining some of the proposed activities of the club, and will have the support of the following committees and officers.

TENTH ANNIVERSARY

Highland Glee Club Gives Its 21st Concert

The 21st concert of the Highland Glee Club given in Bray Hall, Newton Centre last Tuesday evening, marked its 10th anniversary.

Local organizations of that character usually reach a maximum of strength in three or four years and then gradually die out from a falling off of public interest. The fact that the Glee Club after ten years finds itself supported by a list of 150 Associate Members and commands an audience of 1000 people at every concert is evidence of its vitality, which is merely a short name for the pleasure it gives to the community.

The Glee Club consists entirely of male voices, its active membership numbering about 50. Under the capable direction of Mr. Almon J. Fairbanks the work of the Club is favorably comparable with that of the Apollo Glee Club.

Without attempting to review the program, the gem of the evening was "A Song of the Main" by Hahn. This composer should be encouraged to further writing if he can duplicate the sample here noted. In this number as in all others the chorus was a unit, expressing every conception of its conductor with sensitive and well-controlled response. The obligato was gracefully sung by Mr. Fred S. Fairchild. Now friend Fairchild is well known to conceal in the depths of his elongated person sundry and numerous vocal tones which, when discovered and brought to light, afford pleasurable sensations. Of such was the obligato. It is sufficient to say that its rendering was poetic and full of sympathy with the romance of the words. The number was properly re-demanded.

The familiar "Soldiers' Farewell" by Kinkel, also re-demanded, gave opportunity for departure from tradition by assigning the third verse to a solo voice. The rendering of the sensitive words, doubtless so in these days of "Soldiers' paintings," was most artistically done by Mr. Geo. Faulkner.

It is not often that a composer succeeds in writing true humor into musical notation, and it is even more rare to extract that humor from the notes and get it across to the audience. It is true that the "Seissors Grinder" by Jungst would hardly be called a humorous song, but rather a poetic sketch which can be humorously interpreted. This was done most successfully by the Club. It was not the fun in the words, but the rollicking exuberance of the music itself which provoked the audience to laughter.

Mr. Fairbanks was fortunate in selecting Dai Buell for the soloist. Young as she is, having made her Boston debut only two years ago, Miss Buell is at the moment focusing the attention of the musical world perhaps more than any other artist of the piano. Her recital in Jordan Hall on the 11th drew one of the largest audiences of the season. The same program in Chicago and New York brought out unstinted commendations from the critics. She is distinguished by a peculiar appeal to her audience for which she relies on a strictly artistic presentation without resorting to any stage trickery. Miss Buell is a thorough mistress of the piano in all its moods, with a technique.

BEING CLASSIFIED

Local Exemption Board Hard at Work on Questionnaires

The Local Exemption Board is still hard at work on the classification of the Questionnaires which have been sent in and have, with some omissions passed upon over 1300. The Board has not yet had time to take action on the registrants who have failed to send their questionnaires in time, but drastic action will undoubtedly be taken at the proper moment.

Edward P. Burke of Lincoln street, Ward 5, has appealed his classification in Class 1 and the government advisor has appealed the placing in class 4 of Charles L. Rogers, Cook street, Ward 5, and Charles P. Edwards (class 3) of Maple terrace, Ward 1.

The District Board has refused to allow the appeals from Class 1 of Edward V. Coughlin and Frederick S. Young.

FACTORIES CLOSE

Five Day Order Throws 2,000 People Out of Work in Newton

Manufacturers in this city have complied with the drastic order of the Fuel Administrator to close down production for the next five days at the language of some of those in charge is not fit for publication. The effect of this order is to throw out of employment over 2000 men, women and children, most, if not all of whom will not be paid during this period of idleness.

All of the manufacturers state that they have enough fuel on hand to keep their plants running and some of them are engaged on government work. Newton Upper Falls is the hardest hit, over 700 hands in the Saco-Lowell plant, 350 in the Gamewell, and over 200 in the Newton Mills, while Nantam has 600 idle in the Saxony Worsted and 150 in the Silver Lake Cordage plant. The Martin Mfg. Co. of West Newton has 125 employees out and the Stanley Motor Carriage Co. has 350 idle.

Mr. Chas. F. Gettemy of the Mass. Bureau of Statistics has given out figures based on 1916 census returns showing that Newton has 2456 persons engaged in its manufacturing plants, with an annual wage of practically $1,600,000 and that the closing order of the government, including the Monday holidays will cost them $68,146.

There has been a general compliance with the early closing order of the State Fuel Administrator, and many storekeepers have cut down their window lights to the lowest possible point. The various business centres thruout the city now have a Sunday night effect all thru the week. There has been some complaint in regard to the order, especially where one class of stores sell products, which are also sold in stores which have another hour of closing, but as a rule there has been but little trouble.

OPEN COMMUNITY CENTRE

On the initiative of Rev. H. R. Chamberlin, pastor of Immanuel Baptist Church in Newton, the chapel and lower rooms of the church edifice on Church street will be open on Monday afternoons and evenings in the immediate future as a community centre. Everyone is invited to make these rooms a club house, and reading matter, games, and music will be provided.

The Newton Hospital has opened an Out Patient Department in a portable building in the rear of the domestic building. The clinic will be for Newton residents only, and will be open from 11 A. M. to 12.30 P. M., a small fee being charged for those able to pay. Only medical and surgical cases will be treated at first.

MEN AND GUNS ON THE FRENCH FRONT

Newton people will have an opportunity to hear a very fine illustrated lecture on "Men and Guns on the French Front" which will be given by Lieutenant Ambre Morize, on Monday evening, January 28th, at 8 o'clock, in Eliot Chapel, Newton.

Lieutenant Morize, who was with the French officers last spring, and is a most interesting speaker, well versed in his subject.

The lecture will be for the benefit of the French Relief Work which is carried on at Grace Church, and of which Rev. C. H. Patton is president. The work has been carried on for the past two years and goes directly to some small hospitals in France.

It is hoped that all will take advantage of an opportunity to hear this lecture, and at the same time assist in this good and noble work, as the French Relief is very fortunate in being able to secure him.

He was 26 years old, and a graduate of Chicopee High School. He graduated from Massachusetts Institute of Technology in 1914, and up to the time he left for France was a sanitary engineer with the Boston firm of Weston & Sampson. He is survived by his mother, a brother and two sisters. He is the first Newton boy to die in the military service in France.

HUNNEWELL CLUB

The bowling team missed an opportunity to come up with the leaders by losing two strings Wednesday night to B. A. A.

EDUCATIONAL OBLIGATIONS

Address by Dr. Payson Smith at Vocational High School

At the Newton Vocational School last week, Thursday, Dr. Payson Smith, Commissioner of Education for Massachusetts was the principal speaker and gave an interesting address on "Some Present Educational Obligations." Dr. Smith spoke as follows:—

I am concerned very deeply by some developments in education that I have noticed since we entered this war. I said at the beginning of the war that I hoped that Massachusetts at least would not make of this a children's war. I hoped that we should not make a sacrifice of the things which are so imperative for the democracy of the future. I am a little concerned by some of the things I have heard of. For example, I am told that 50,000 boys and girls between the ages of fourteen and sixteen are out of school, 15,000 more than the normal number. There is already a movement in some parts of the country to curtail the program with reference to the vital elements of our education. A school committee passing upon a certain request for special appropriations said, "This is not a time to increase appropriations for education." Others say that this is not the time to increase the salaries paid to our teachers. I want to say whenever I have an opportunity that there has never been a time when it has been so absolutely vital to make appropriations for education. I am finding that there is already a reduction of about 14 per cent in the number of young women who are attending State Normal Schools. This means that two years from now, 10,000 children will be under untrained teachers. My main interest is that Massachusetts shall keep her educational standards high and shall not permit her educational work to suffer. We ought to see what we can learn from the example of England. England did as we are attempting to do—make changes in the program and decrease appropriations. As a result, 500,000 boys were out of school. Juvenile crime increased. England today is considering and will doubtless carry through a program which will appropriate for education 30 per cent more than ever appropriated.

It seems to me as I go about in schools, shops, homes or factories, that more than ever before the key note of service is being struck. It does not make any difference whether or not we are in uniform. Everyone is called to serve, not only men and women but boys and girls in this room. What shall be the nature of service? The question concerns especially the boys and girls who are reaching the age of service in this democracy of ours. The soldier or sailor, my battle, our battle. He is ready to make the supreme sacrifice in order that our nation shall live. Is it not an obligation on our part to see what we can do in order that our nation shall live? How shall we serve?

There are some considerations that I want to place before you that may help you to answer this question. In the first place, I want to point out to you that this nation and world are in a different position from that of a few years ago. Pioneer days are gone and will not be recalled. There is not going to be built another railroad system as railroad systems were built a generation ago; new industries will not be built up as they have been in the past. In the past, a boy might get into industry and secure the persons who grew up in an industry could do that, but it is not possible for that sort of thing in any like degree now. I want you to disabuse your minds of the notion, if it is there, that you can be of service to this democracy of ours unless you get the kind of training that will fit you into this modern industrial scheme. It cannot be done in the same way as it was done a few years ago. It seems to me that this useful, efficient democracy of ours is going to suffer because the boys and girls who are leaving the elementary and high schools will not have received enough training. I should like to have every boy and girl understand that the finest service that he can render to our country, provided it is possible to arrange to stay in school, is to stay in school. It is this training that is going to make you an efficient member of the democracy a little later on.

I hope that no boy or girl is going to look at this primarily because it is the best for you, but say to yourself "I will stay here because it is the best for my country to stay here." I know there are going to be years of temptation, especially now when it is possible for boys to get two dollars a day. It is a temptation which must be withstood, however, if you are going to render this larger service.

I do not mean to say that men and women cannot start or initiate things, but those things which are to be initiated in the future are to be started in this generation. There will be a reorganization of industries within the industry themselves. Trades will be carried on more efficiently by men from the inside. What I think the world is going to need in the time to come is full grown men and women. Full grown education ought to make people full grown. I like to define education as development or growth. An educated person is one who is full grown physically, mentally and morally. If any one of you has it in his heart or mind to be of service to this democracy, which is not only worth giving for ourselves but for the world, you owe it to the democracy and to the world to make yourself a full grown man mentally, morally and physically. Every time the thought of leaving school comes into your mind, you are wronging yourself and preventing the service that we all ought to give.

I should like to speak especially of some of the things that may be of some help to you in preparing yourselves to be of service. Habit has a big place in the development of the full grown person. I venture to say that if I asked your instructors to name boys or girls in their classes who were likely to succeed, they would for a moment, they would name certain pupils whom they thought would succeed. If I asked them why they thought so and so was likely to be a success in life, I am very sure that the teacher would not say it was because the English work was well done. It is because that boy or girl has acquired certain habits of thinking directly, of going directly to the accomplishment of a task. The boy has the habit of controlling his mind, of concentrating himself upon the problem assigned to him. I should like to have boys and girls get into the habit of succeeding, of expecting themselves to succeed. I think one of the essentials to success is a swelled head. I know none of you have it, but you know some of your class mates who have. When I say swelled head, I do not want it to be too swelled. I want each individual to respect himself and his work.

I should like to impress upon you boys and girls also the obligation to the democracy which rests upon you in the way of straight thinking. There is an obligation upon the public school to teach ability to think straight. Do not be misled by persons who do not think straight. Whenever you have any proposition put before you, you apply to it all of your mental ability. Do not rely upon formula or upon your teachers, but do it for yourselves.

Illustration of the two laborers discussing an election, or rather voting on a constitutional amendment. "Automobile citizenship."

It rests upon you young men and women to get rid of this automobile citizenship. Do not lose interest because you do not vote next year or the year after. You are going to be called upon tomorrow to carry a little more responsibility for your own progress than you are today. Next year you will be called upon to carry more responsibility than you have carried this year. Unless you do that, you are not going to make good citizens. A citizen who is being carried along by other people is not a good citizen of a democracy.

It is a great satisfaction to me when I go around in Massachusetts and New England to see the opportunities that are being offered to boys and girls. The schools are the last word in twentieth century architecture, the teachers are well trained, tuition free, etc. Not long ago I was talking with a boy in a street car. He told me that he was graduated from the Everett High School and from a business college in Boston. I asked him where he worked harder, in high school or business college. He replied, "O, in business college, of course. I had to, it costs so much." So many boys and girls do not realize that it costs the city and state thousands of dollars for their education.

At this point, Dr. Smith told of visiting a crude little school in St. Francis, Maine, about sixteen miles north of Fort Kent, which is the most northern point indicated on the map. The school was in charge of an untrained teacher, but in the school was a boy who told him an interesting thing. He said he lived sixty-five miles beyond St. Francis and came to the school part of the way by canoe. Dr. Smith asked him why he did this. The boy replied, "I thought it was about time that I had my chance for some schooling."

Twenty million of our boys are attending schools like this one, and I wish that the words of this boy were on their lips and in their minds and hearts. I wish that you would think "This is my chance for some schooling." This school has not the power to give you an education. Your teachers have not the power; your parents cannot make any sacrifice big enough. If you are going to get it, you have to say, "This is my chance, and I am going to take it."

I would like to have you feel that this nation and this democracy of ours are going to call for your services and your work. If there ever was a time when you and I ought to be talking about work in larger terms, now is the time. The object of an education of the right sort is not to enable one to escape work, but is to help one to find his work and to do it in the best possible way after it has been found. Work is the greatest blessing that has come into the world and the happiest men in the world are those men who have found their work.

After this war is over, we are going into a new day and that day is going to be a bright one. Every man is going to be called upon to work opposite some man who is also working to carry on the democracy. President Wilson says, "A good American. I think, is the man who has learned how to co-operate in work."

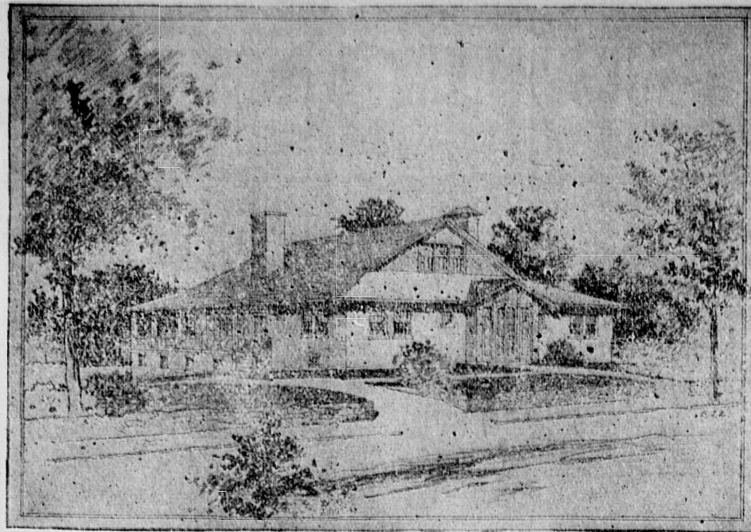

A new feature in this year's income tax return is that part which provides facilities so that the taxpayer can compute the tax due the "Commonwealth" and may, if he so elects, pay it when the return is filed. By so doing he will do his part towards making a great saving in the State's interest account.

COPLEY THEATRE—A special production of "Inside the Lines" the play of the present war which had a long run at the Longacre Theatre in New York, and is now in its second year in London, will be made at the Copley Theatre next Monday by the Henry Jewett Players. "Inside the Lines" is a drama of adventure, romance, intrigue, secret agents, and all the exciting episodes of war. Its action takes place at Gibraltar, out of the actual scene of the conflict, but near enough to give it a large amount of military sensation. The plot involves spies and American tourists, and its action deals especially with the experiences of a young American girl in Europe who is abroad with a trunkful of Paris models as a buyer for a great American firm. The time is the very month of the opening of the war, and all its events take place within the limits of a single week.

SHUBERT THEATRE—The new play by Augustus Thomas entitled "The Copperhead" which John D. Williams will present next week, beginning Monday night, January 21, at the Shubert Theatre is a dramatization of the Civil War. It is a dramatization of the Civil War. It is a dramatization of the Civil War.

The scene of "The Copperhead" is laid in a small Illinois town, and the characters are all humble farmer folk. Lionel Barrymore, who so recently created so great a sensation in the production of "Peter Ibbetson," will be seen as Milton Shanks in "The Copperhead." Others in the cast selected by John D. Williams are: Doris Rankin, Raymond Hackett, Thomas Carigan, Grace Reals, Hayden Stevenson, Ethelbert Hales, William Norton, Harry Hadfield, Gladys Burgette, Eugene Woodward, Albert Phillips, Evelyn Archer, Chester Morris.

AUCTION PARTIES

Leaders in social activities have entered with enthusiasm into "Benefits," to aid relieving the distress of the present time, and almost all the entertaining during the past season has been for some worthy object.

Newton society, ever ready to do its "bit," turned out in large numbers on Thursday evening and Friday afternoon of last week, when Mrs. Swan Hartwell of West Newton opened her beautiful residence on Temple street for two auction bridge parties.

The Friday afternoon affair was for the benefit of the Newton Circle, and 40 tables were arranged in the spacious sun-parlor. Attractive souvenirs were awarded those holding the highest scores.

In the dining-room, tea was served by the hostess and the ladies who assisted in pouring were Mrs. Sidney Harwood and Mrs. Harry B. Stebbins of Newton; Mrs. C. Peter Clark of Newton Centre and Mrs. William C. Hall of West Newton.

The amount realized at the afternoon game including donations of money was about $200.

There were about two hundred guests at Thursday evening's affair, and 50 tables were arranged. During the game cigars and candy were sold and the guests generously patronized the young ladies who had charge of the sale and $100 was realized.

There were four prizes awarded at the evening game. The first prize for ladies, which was an amount of wool, sufficient to knit a sweater was won by Mrs. Francis S. Snow of Fuller street. The second prize, a pair of knitting needles, was taken by Mrs. Cushman. Mr. Conway captured the first prize for gentlemen, which was a pair of imported gloves, and the second prize, a fine knitted cap, was awarded to Dr. Wells.

During the evening fruit-punch was served and the young ladies who successfully conducted the sale of cigars and candy assisted in serving.

The Misses Harriet Maguire, Ruth Nelson, Mary Palmer, Margaret Ring, Emily Clapp and Madeline Hartwell.

Both games were a great success both socially and financially and about $500 was netted.

Guests of social prominence were present from Boston, Brookline and the Newtons.

WANT LETTERS

January 14th, 1918
 Dear Sir:—

A clipping was forwarded to me here at Camp Greene relative to my letter printed in the Christian Register some time since. Will you favor me by inserting these facts:

People desiring the addresses of men in the army who really appreciate letters and news from refining influences by forwarding a request to me will be furnished very gladly with such addresses.

The average number of letters received numbers on the average of ten or twelve daily and it is imperative that writers include return postage as the army pay is too small to allow of answering this number of letters daily from my own private means.

Since Miss L. S. Pierce's idea had its beginning many of the enlisted men have been made very happy with letters written by women who really want to help and take this the greatest and best means of assisting the men to keep pure, good and wholesome.

Very truly yours,

JOHN RUSSELL, JR.

$3000 FOR TOBACCO FUND

The man who did his bit so valiantly "over there" is now more than doing his share for his fellow soldiers in France, "over here." The "man" is Sergeant Arthur Guy Empey, the author of "Over the Top," the novel of the great war which has created a sensation in this country, and the American soldier who was three times wounded while fighting the Germans during his two years of service in the European trenches. As part of his insistent effort to help swell the contributions now pouring in for "Our Boys in France Tobacco Fund," the organization which is supplying the American Soldier with the much craved "smoke" on the other side, Empey played the role of auctioneer at the Winter Garden Fete recently given in the Narragansett Hotel at Providence, Rhode Island, for the benefit of the fund. Stirring his auditors to a frenzy of enthusiasm and patriotism by a vivid recital of the part which tobacco plays in the lives of American soldiers now in France, the soldier-auctioneer raised more than three thousand dollars among the assembled guests.

The author of "Over the Top," outbid the bidders and fairly emptied the pockets of hundreds of diners and dancers. He first took the floor, at his own suggestion, offering an autographed copy of his message from the trenches for auction. Competition began spiritedly. But it did not satisfy Empey. "Here's your chance to show your patriotism," he urged. "They're fighting for you 'over there.' Give them this one comfort!"

Then the man who went and who knows what smokes mean in the trenches plunged into the bidding under his stimulus, and the example of his greater sacrifices, the bidding became instantly keener. It continued until at the climax of $1000 deafening applause and cheers drowned the soldier-auctioneer's "Sold."

A moment later, Empey seized a silk American flag. He held it high and silence fell. Thereupon he took advantage of the impressive moment by saying with emotion, "You can't buy that. No man can buy it!" Bidders at once offered for this prize. "You can't outbid me on that flag," Empey shouted. "I offer $1000." And a tumult of cheering and applause followed. Soldiers and sailors who attended the fete, rushed to the Sergeant, picked him up and carried him around while an orchestra played "The Star Spangled Banner."

Contributing his "bit" necessitated despatching a messenger to find a blank check which the impromptu auctioneer immediately filled out for the tobacco fund. "Believe me, I know what it means," he remarked. But not satisfied with this much, Empey insisted on outdoing all rival bidders on subsequent offerings until his audience resolved to outbid him at all costs, just to save the situation. "Don't let this man do it all," someone appealed. "He's done enough 'over there' and here."

Send your "bit" to the Newton Graphic Office for this Fund.

DEATH OF MR. BLACK

Funeral services for the late William Russell Black were held at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. F. Black, 32 Jefferson street, Newton, Thursday, January 10th, a large number of friends and relatives attending. The service was conducted by H. Grant Person of the Eliot Congregational Church, of which the deceased was a member. The bearers were Howard Carley, Gordon Pierce, Carl and Gordon Fowler, Frank Briggs, and Walter McArthur. Selections rendered by a mixed quartet from the Eliot Church, and included Mr. Morton, Miss Helen Morton, Miss Martha Boothby, and Mr. E. L. Bacon. A large number of relatives and friends accompanied the remains to the Newton Cemetery, where the body was placed in a tomb.

The death of Mr. Black came as a shock to his many friends, as he was in his usual good health Sunday, the day preceding his death, and the many and beautiful floral tributes testified to the high esteem in which he was held. The specialist who examined him shortly after he became ill said his heart had been strained in some unknown manner, and he only lived a few hours from that time.

Although less than twenty years of age he had led an active life, and probably had seen more of the world than the ordinary man sees in an average life time. He was much interested in wireless telegraphy and was on the "Gloucester" of the Merchants and Miners Line for six months, running between Baltimore and Boston. When this boat was laid up for repairs he was transferred to the large oil tanker "Norman Bridge," which ran to Tampico, Mexico. Later he was transferred to the "Sucroza" running between Cuba and New York, but he soon left the sea at his mother's request and came home, and at the time of his death was a telegraph operator for the Western Union Telegraph Co. at their main offices on Congress street, Boston. At the time of the Halifax disaster he rendered efficient aid, as he was the only one in the office at the time who understood the Continental Code, owing to his previous wireless experience, and for several hours operated the only direct wire to that city.

Mr. Black had been anxious to do his bit for his country, and several months ago tried to enlist in the Signal Corps, now in France, but he did not come up to the physical requirements and had to give up the idea. He was a young man of pleasing personality, good habits and sunny disposition, and although he will be sorely missed the world is the better for his coming.

He leaves a mother, father and one brother to mourn his loss, who have the sympathy of all in their bereavement.

UNITED STATES INCOME TAX

Residents of Newton, Mass., and surrounding towns, required by provisions of the War Income Tax Act, to make returns to the Internal Revenue Department of the income they received during the year 1917, will be afforded an opportunity to make and file such returns with the aid of deputy collectors delegated by John F. Malley, Collector of Internal Revenue for the District of Massachusetts to assist new tax payers in this section of the State.

These representatives of the Revenue Department who are prepared to dispense information relative to the requirements of the new law and make out returns of the taxpayers will be at City Hall, West Newton, from January 19th to 26th inclusive, from 10 A. M. to 10 P. M.

This law requires every unmarried individual whose income during 1917 was $1000 or more to make a sworn statement setting forth what his or her income amounted to during the twelve months ended December 31, 1917. It requires that married persons whose income in 1917 was $2000 or more shall file returns.

Policemen, firemen, public school teachers, and all other employees or officials of a city or a town or of the State or a county, who have no other income than the wages or salaries they receive from the State, county, city or town, are exempt from the provisions of the law and need not file returns.

Deputy Collectors who will come here are authorized to administer oath and they will execute the returns for taxpayers without charge. They are authorized also to receive money orders or checks, payable to John F. Malley, Collector, for the income tax due. These taxes are payable at the time returns are filed. Deputy Collectors are not permitted to accept cash in payment for any taxes. Remittances in the form of money orders or checks, payable to the Collector only will be accepted by the Deputies.

What It Would Be.

A teacher was endeavoring to explain the term "facsimile" to his class. "Now," he remarked to one sharp youth, "what is your father's trade or profession?"

"He's a lithographer," was the reply. "Very well. Supposing a man came to your father with a document which he wanted reproducing in every particular, your father agreed and the document was faithfully copied, what would it be?"

"Well," replied the boy thoughtfully, "it depends."

"On what?" asked the teacher.

"On the document."

"How so?"

"Well, if it was a ten dollar bill, for instance, the other would be a counterfeit. If the document was a check the copy would be a forgery."

"You don't understand what I mean."

"Oh, yes, I'm quite sure I do," went on the boy. "I'm just coming to it now. In either case I reckon it would be about ten years."

John Smith and Pocahontas.

About a mile below Richmond, in what is now the brickyard region, there used to stand the residence of the Mayo family, a place known as Powhatan. This place has long been pointed out as the scene of the saving of Smith by the Indian girl, but late research has proved that, though Smith did come up the James to the present site of Richmond, his capture by the Indians did not occur here, but in the vicinity of Jamestown. The Indians took him first to one of their villages on York river, near the present site of West Point, Va., and thence to a place on the same stream in the county of Gloucester, where the Powhatan, or tribal chief, resided. Here, on the west side of the river, some nine miles from Williamsburg, the scene of Smith's rescue by Pocahontas has been located.—Julian Street in Collier's.

"Overhang" Houses.

By the year 1670 wooden chimneys and log houses of the Plymouth and Bay colonies were replaced by more slightly houses of two stories, which were frequently built with the second story jutting out a foot or two over the first and sometimes with the attic story still further extending over the second story. This "overhang" is popularly supposed to have been built for the purpose of affording a convenient shooting place from which to repel the Indians. This is, however, a historic fable. The overhanging second story was a common form of building in England in the time of Queen Elizabeth, and the Massachusetts and Rhode Island settlers simply and naturally copied their old homes.

Wild Ducks.

Canvasback and redhead ducks, which are very quick of movement, after deep diving are capable of taking flight immediately upon coming to the surface of the water. They do not spring directly upward into the air, but fly at first at an angle until they reach the desired elevation. Surface feeding wild fowl, like the black duck, pintail and teal, fly directly upward from the surface of the water if the emergency demands it.

Truthful Excuse.

"The sheriff caught his young assistant writing love letters in business hours today."

"What did the young fellow say when he was taxed with doing so?"

"Said he was not shirking his duty, as they were all writs of attachment."

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.

Headache and Sick Stomach.
This condition results from imperfect digestion. Whether it has been caused by eating too much food, which has disturbed digestion, the treatment remains the same, and this is to empty the stomach. Drinking one tumblerful of water after another as rapidly as possible until six or eight glasses are taken is the quickest way of washing offending substances out of the stomach. If this is done in ten minutes one will have relief from the sick feeling and headache and be ready to go to sleep or to go about again in comfort. This method of treating a sick headache is also good for attacks of acute indigestion. Half an hour after the stomach has become comfortable it is well to take a sedative powder or a dose of citrate of magnesia. Either of these remedies will bring up the gas, sweeten the stomach and give one a clean, pleasant taste in the mouth.

EDITORIAL

The order of the Coal Administrator closing up factories for a period of five days and requiring the next Mondays to be observed practically as holidays, is a plain confession of incompetency in handling the coal situation. College professors are all right in their place as educators but as practical business men they are proving themselves colossal failures.

The Newton Savings Bank evidently believes in taking the busiest men for its work. Its new president, Judge William F. Bacon has a successful law practice in Boston, is Judge of the Newton district court, and is chairman of the Local Exemption Board. The trustees of the bank have chosen wisely and well.

We have heard of local tradesmen who are charging 25 cents a bag for 25 pounds of hard coal. This is a direct violation of the order of the Fuel Administrator, which fixes a price of 15 cents per bag of 25 pounds, not delivered. Profiteering even in this small manner should be promptly stopped.

The amendment to the national constitution on the matter of prohibition ought to be ratified at the present session of the Massachusetts Legislature and the attempt to delay it by submitting it to a referendum of the people next fall should be defeated. Get busy on our representatives and senators at once.

Waban is to be congratulated on the possession of a handsome and convenient Neighborhood Clubhouse. There is a fine spirit of neighborliness in that little village which ought to be followed in other parts of the city.

The truly patriotic citizen at times like the present will not ask his coal dealer for more coal than he actually needs, and will endeavor to make his present supply last as long as possible.

BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice E. Beardsley entertained a large party of friends on Wednesday at their home on Crescent street, Auburndale, the occasion being an informal celebration of Mrs. Beardsley's birthday. Her home always made bright by the sunshine of her smile, was made still brighter by the profusion of beautiful flowers, the gifts of her many friends, and Mrs. Beardsley always a most charming hostess, arranged a delightful musicale for the entertainment of her guests. Original poems were read by some of the friends present, which added much to the merriment of the occasion.

Luncheon was served at small tables decorated attractively in pink with pink carnations and begonias. Friends were present from Malden, Dorchester, Roxbury, Somerville, Allston and Auburndale, and all wished the hostess many happy returns of the day.

BRAE BURN CLUB

There will be a skating carnival this evening at Brae Burn ponds. Music will be furnished by the Cambridge City Band.

Mr. and Mrs. Glover S. Hastings, and Mr. and Mrs. Walton S. Redfield, who have been guests for two weeks at the Club have returned to their residence in West Newton.

REAL ESTATE

Edmonds and Byfield report the sale of the property No. 24 Vernon street, Newton, for the Cambridge Savings Bank to H. W. Heath, who buys for occupancy. Property consists of dwelling, stable and 18,000 square feet of land, all valued by the assessors at $9400.

WEST NEWTON DAY NURSERY

The eleventh annual meeting of the West Newton Day Nursery was held on Tuesday at the Nursery and Neighborhood House, Elm street, West Newton. It was one of the most interesting meetings the Nursery has ever held, and in spite of the weather there was an unusually large attendance. In the absence of the president Mrs. George A. Frost, Mrs. James Richard Carter, presided.

The reports were read by the officers; Mrs. Irving J. Fisher, the secretary, read an interesting report. Mrs. Sidney Thomas, the treasurer, read the annual report. Mrs. Hatch gave an account of the work of the House Committee (the entire expenses were less than last year owing to fewer repairs, it cost on an average of 2c a day more per child).

Mrs. C. E. Hatfield gave an account of the work of the Investigating Committee, and Mrs. W. A. Young read the report for the Visiting Committee. Mrs. Henry B. Day gave the report of the Committee on Ways and Means. Mrs. Harry L. Ayer, Mrs. Henry Talbot, Miss Dora Allen and Mr. Stone reported for the Club and Class Committee of the Neighborhood House.

Mrs. Talbot gave a report of the work done by the Committee; there were now clubs and classes for every afternoon and evening. Miss Dora Allen gave a most interesting talk on older boys, "The Elmwood Club" of Neighborhood House, seven of whom are now in France, and Mrs. Ayer read a number of letters from the boys, which were written to Miss Gifford, the head worker. All of the letters showed the boys' interest in the Neighborhood House, which was most gratifying.

Mr. Stone gave an interesting account of the boys' classes of which he has charge. Mrs. Grace Rice read a report of the Auxiliary Committee, and Mrs. Wellman gave an entertaining account of her work as Probation Officer.

A very interesting feature was the report by the treasurer, from Dr. Fisher, the House physician, in regard to the Baby Clinic, the first of its kind in Newton. This clinic was opened July 5, 1917, and has continued each Thursday since that date. A great many days they weighed, examined and gave feeding directions for from 12 to 18 babies.

Up to the present time cases have been drawn from West Newton, but in the very near future, this Baby Clinic may be one of a series that will cover the entire city, under the direction of a local committee appointed by the state in its efforts toward infant welfare and child conservation.

The meeting closed with a re-election of officers for the coming year. Mrs. Herbert Rogers was elected secretary of the Day nursery in place of Mrs. Fisher.

After the business meeting tea was served. The hostesses were Mrs. David M. Wells, Miss Ruth Eddy, Mrs. J. W. Estabrook and Mrs. Ellery Peabody. They were assisted in serving by Miss King, Miss Blodgett and several other young women.

WOMEN'S CLUBS

The Rev. Ernest W. Guthrie spoke to the members of the club on Monday at the first meeting of the Waban Woman's Club in the new Neighborhood Club house, which was opened last Saturday.

Mr. Guthrie resigned from his church and went to France first in the Canadian Army, then in the American Field Service, being attached to the headquarters in Paris, and later was sent to the front by the French War Office in the interest of propaganda to help secure and retain peace.

Mr. Guthrie described a day's trip thru the front line trenches thru the devastated region from Arras to Soissons and thru the Voghes mountain and Verdun on to the sector in Alsace that is being turned over to the United States troops to hold. The lecture was illustrated with stereopticon views that gave a splendid idea of the utter devastation and the absence of all animal and plant life.

He is firmly convinced that there is at least one great good to be gotten from the war and that is the general socialization of the world. The close intimacy of life in the trenches is a strong factor to that end.

The next meeting of the club will be held in the clubhouse on Monday evening, January 28th. Two short plays by Barrie will be presented by the members of the club as the entertainment for the Annual Gentlemen's night.

The Fortnightly Club of Newton Centre held an open meeting at the home of Mrs. P. Harold Greene in the form of a Musical which delighted a large audience.

Miss Rae Kilmer Harpist and Mrs. Ada Belle Child, Soprano were the soloists.

Mrs. Edith L. Bradford was piano accompanist and the program concluded with two numbers with both voice and harp.

LECTURE ON BELGIUM

A very helpful addition to the funds of the Allston and Brighton branch of the American Red Cross resulted from the lecture on "Historic and Artistic Belgium" given by Mr. Frederick Parsons of Waban on the evening of the 15th, at 161 Harvard avenue, Brookline. The collection of 100 photographic slides covered Antwerp, Brussels, Louvain, Bruges, Ostend and Ghent, with brief glances at other old cities of Belgium. Many of the photographs were taken by the lecturer in families and sojourns there before the world war. Very interesting were the views of Ypres in old days and the same spot—a mass of desolate ruins—after the expulsion of the Germans. The arts and history of old Flemish days made an interesting phase of the lecture and served to bring clearly before an appreciative audience how much Belgium deserves her freedom and her old prosperity.

NEWTONVILLE TO GET TOGETHER

Drive to Stand Back of Its War Workers to Begin with a Meeting January 29

War-time programs are apt to be upset at the last moment. Newtonville has found this to be true, for its plans for its "Get-together" drive for the Newtonville Red Cross and Special Aid war workers have had to be changed after being publicly announced. Originally there was to have been a meeting at the Central Congregational church Sunday evening, Jan. 22, and the constabulary was to have begun its canvass of the village on the following Tuesday. But the getting of a speaker direct from the war front for the Sunday meeting was impossible, so that the drive and the meeting both had to be postponed. Now the speaker has been secured, and the date of the meeting being set for Tuesday evening, January 29, at the Central Congregational church. The canvass of the village by the constabulary is to begin the next day. The speaker is to be Dr. Ernest Graham Guthrie, and there is also to be music by the Boston Quintet.

What those back of the "Get-together" drive are determined to do is to get Newtonville to stand back of its war workers to the extent of $1000 a month. Other villages in Newton are backing up their war workers, and Newtonville cannot afford to be behind them. The $1000 a month is to be raised on the "many mickles make a muckle" platform. Of course it would be possible to get a small number of men to guarantee the amount each month, but this is a war in which the man who has little has as much at stake as the man who has much, and perhaps a little more, for those who have much can tend for themselves better than those who have little. A hundred men guaranteeing $10 a month might be found, but a thousand giving a dollar a month apiece would give the same total and give just ten times as many a direct interest in the war work.

To give an idea of what the Newtonville war workers are doing and why Newtonville is asked to "get-together" and back them in their work, here is a report of what they did in December, 1917.

The Newtonville Auxiliary Red Cross and the Special Aid completed 1330 sewed articles which included:

- 8 handkerchiefs
- 6 comfort pillows
- 3 fracture pillows
- 57 pajamas
- 108 slings
- 72 handkerchiefs
- 60 surgical shirts
- 15 convalescent robes
- 19 shoe bags
- 53 soap bags
- 928 kit bags
- 1 hot water bottle cover

They made 453 knitted articles made up of:

- 1 afghan
- 4 bandages
- 98 mufflers
- 1 pr hospital socks
- 5 prs. mittens
- 50 prs. wristers
- 96 prs. socks
- 14 washcloths
- 10 nurses' mitts
- 7 trench caps
- 111 sweaters
- 26 helmets
- 1 afghan
- 23 bandages
- 6 eye bandages

Of surgical dressings, they made 15,543, of which the 12,225 Red Cross dressings included:

- 6944 compresses
- 60 sponges
- 4193 bandages
- 520 gauze strips
- 8 oakum pads
- 500 surgical pads

And the 3415 New England Surgical Dressings Committee dressings included:

- 145 bandages
- 3170 dressings
- 109 crinoline rolls

To the output of the Red Cross and the Special Aid there should also be added to Newtonville's credit, 78 pieces of sewing and 67 knitted articles from the Palestine Chapter of the Eastern Star and the Newton High School Auxiliary's 277 pieces of sewing, 18 knitted articles, 5600 compresses, 2020 weight bags and 2087 trench candles.

SUNDAY EVENING CLUB

The Sunday Evening Club held its annual meeting Sunday evening in Central church parlors, Newtonville. The reports of the year's work were read, and there was an election of officers, after which a very entertaining program was given, by Mrs. William Otis Hunt. It included "The Taper" by Hezekiah Butterworth; "Kapiolani" by John Oxenham, "Hullo" by Samuel Walter Foss, and "Polys Birthday," a short story. There was the usual half hour of music and singing, and refreshments were served.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Miss Marion Gordon; vice-president, Miss Elizabeth Leavens; secretary, Miss Alice Boyden, and treasurer, Henry Brewer.

This interesting organization is for the young people of Central church, and it meets every other Sunday evening at 6 o'clock in Central church parlors.

BENEFIT FOR THE NEWTON SPECIAL AID

Society is evincing great interest in the entertainment to be given on Saturday evening, January 26th, at the Hunnewell Club, for the benefit of the Newton Branch of the Special Aid. Judging from the demand for tickets, a crowded house will greet the musicians who are all members of the Naval Reserve at Bunkins Island.

The program will include selections by a male quartet, violin solos, baritone solos, banjo solos and a clever imitator will assist in the entertainment. A special feature will be some exhibition dancing by little seven year old Gertrude Lennon, a "star" pupil of Mrs. Lilla Viles Wyman.

Following the precedent of the Boston theatres and concerts the performance will open at 7.45.

—The interesting ceremony of the Festival of the Lights was carried out Sunday evening at Trinity church. Each member of the congregation had a taper. The rector, Edward T. Sullivan, took from the altar a large candle, symbolizing the light of the world, with which he lighted tapers carried by three persons, dressed to represent the three Wise Men. In turn they lighted tapers carried by members of the choir, who lighted the ones held by the persons in the end of each pew. The lights were then communicated from one to the other, until the entire auditorium was dotted with the flames. The custom comes down from the day when the church taught by symbol and illustration the people who did not read.

—At Trinity church next Sunday night, at 7.15, there will be a special service in honor of the men at the front—a service of calling the stars on the service flags by their names. Persons having friends in the armies of our Allies are especially invited, as well as those who have friends in the service of our country. Requests for prayers by name, or by rank and unit, will be welcome. The names of the men of the parish honor roll, now in service, will be called; and any other names that may be requested. Portions of a Solemn Service of Humble Supplication, used in the cathedrals and parish churches of England, will be said. Those who have family service flags are invited to come and call their stars by their names in the presence that will be kept for a space. The rector will make an address on "Keeping Step at Home." There will be music for organ and violin, Mrs. Allen Hubbard, violinist.

WOMEN'S CLUBS

MISS GRACE M. BURT, Editor.

This column went to press last week before the result of the vote on suffrage in the House of Representatives was announced. That it has really been passed after all these years of waiting seems hardly credible. Now for the Senate. Some of the leaders in this work appear to look for its passage there, while others expect it to be defeated. That the House of Lords in England has seen fit to vote for it should have its effect upon our Senate. Let us hope that it will. If it should not come this time, it is surely going to in the near future and for those who are opposed, may they see that it is fruitless to try to stay its course, as fruitless as to beat one's head against a stone wall in hopes of knocking it down. What the passage of this vote means to one who has watched the growth of the idea from early childhood cannot be realized by those who have only recently espoused the cause. To be a suffragist today is quite another matter from having been one twenty-five or thirty years ago. Yet those who have worked for it the longest seem to be the ones who have taken this victory the quietest. All honor to those who have helped to bring about this vote.

No Woman's Club column is complete this week without some mention of the passing of May Alden Ward, which occurred in such a tragic manner on Monday of this week. Few women for so long a period of years have done more to further the cause of women's clubs than Mrs. Ward. She was the founder of the Alden Club, named in her honor, of Franklin, Mass., an early president of Cambridge Club of Cambridge, president at two different times of the Massachusetts State Federation of Women's Clubs. For many years after Julia Ward Howe became too feeble to carry on the work of the New England Woman's Club, Mrs. Ward as first vice-president, acted in her stead, and after her death became president for a term of years. Since that time she has been known for her talk upon current events, having conducted a course in Newton for several successive winters. In recent years she has declined to take classes outside of the city, but has been heard with great pleasure by large numbers of women in Boston. Her wide grasp of the situation on all sides affecting the war has helped to make her hearers to understand better than any superficial reading could do what is ahead of our own country in these terrible days. She was returning from one of these talks in Cambridge when she met her death. To go in such a way is distressing, yet to those who knew her best, it does not seem more so than would have been years of helpless invalidism after a life of great activity.

Local Happenings

At the regular meeting of the West Newton Women's Educational Club on Friday, January 11, the work of the Morgan Memorial, Boston, was described by Mrs. E. S. Atwood. All its activities, from the Day Nursery to the Men's Settlement House, were described, and the many questions asked the speaker proved that her hearers were all deeply interested. The usual collection for Community Red Cross work was taken up.

Announcement was made that the "Electa Walter Scholarship Fund" was being utilized this year to give a bright, ambitious girl an opportunity for higher education. The committee is to be congratulated on being able to place this fund to such good use.

On Monday afternoon, Mrs. Hayden and Mrs. Dickerson were the hostesses for the Travel Class. The story of the Russian revolution right up to the very latest reliable information to be obtained was given by Mrs. J. R. McLean, and Mrs. G. U. St. Amant brought an interesting paper on "The Art of Russia," with many cuts and plates illustrating her subject.

The members of the Newton Highlands Club, S. C. W. C. T. C. were the guests of Mrs. W. S. Richards at the meeting on Monday last. Mrs. Richards, who had charge of the afternoon's work, gave an interesting paper on "Representative Women of Modern America." She spoke of Mary Lyon, the founder of Mt. Holyoke College, Elizabeth Cady Stanton, Harriet Beecher Stowe, Clara Barton, Julia Ward Howe, Frances Willard, Jane Addams, classifying them as the famous representative women of modern America, and gave unusually interesting facts concerning them.

At the meeting of the Newtonville Woman's Guild on Tuesday afternoon, Mrs. Gertrude Mathews Shelby gave a most entertaining and informing talk on her experiences "In Dutch Guiana." Samples of the costumes worn by the negro women, the Javanese, the East Indian, as well as examples of their handicraft were shown.

Tuesday's meeting of the Auburndale Woman's club was in charge of the Home Economics Committee, Mrs. H. A. Wiley, chairman. Subject of afternoon was an informal talk on "Art and Efficiency in Dress" by Mrs. Ruth Stover Reed, demonstrated by two club members acting as living models. Mrs. Reed said simplicity is the secret of all good taste. Money is not the all essential thing, but individuality, good lines, good materials and color are what make the well-dressed woman. The subject of clothing should be met intelligently to avoid waste. A group of songs was sung by Mrs. Edward Legge, Mrs. Lyman Gore and Mrs. W. A. Spaulding. Mrs. L. D. MacNutt at the piano. After the meeting a sale of war breads, cake and candy was held.

Mrs. Gertrude Mathews Shelby of New York and Washington, spoke before the Social Science Club on Wednesday morning, repeating the lecture "In Dutch Guiana," which she gave at the Newtonville Club on Tuesday afternoon. In introducing her subject, Mrs. Shelby said we must remember that South America is a very diverse place, and that colonial South America is not Latin America.

Mrs. Shelby took this trip in search of "material" for a book, which was published last spring. On the journey down she joined a naturalist expedition from which she separated at Trinidad, and from which she received two commissions: one, the bearing of a letter to a monk in a monastery in Paramaribo from a girl in New York, which had been entrusted to a member of the expedition; and the other, to find a leper scientist, all trace of whom had been lost. These two were in a measure successfully carried out and the recital of the experiences attending them were full of interest and unusual incidents.

Her description of the native peoples and their costumes, full of color and very diverse, as to whether they were the town negro, the bush negro, the Javanese, or the East Indian, were fascinating. The whole inhabitants of the colony number hardly more than 10,000, of whom only one per cent. are whites, these comprising for the most part merely the government officials. These island colonies of Holland have been all their lives "spoon-fed" from Europe, but Mrs. Shelby could see remarkable possibilities for their development in the future, for their resources are boundless, every sort of resource save human resource. These negroes and East Indians have been brought over on indenture, and there exists much injustice. She feels that we are likely to see a free West Indies after the war is over. Fear of losing this colony and Java are two reasons for Holland's having remained neutral.

Many specimens of costumes and of the handicraft of the "bush" negroes were shown, much work that is really good, though a crude sort of art. Her trip into the interior, where she might see the bush negro in its primitive condition, was thrillingly interesting. These people, she said, have an enormous amount to be taught and also they can teach us an enormous amount.

The country itself is full of charm, the tropical beauty with its wealth of vegetation and wealth of wild life. It appears to be able to be made habitable, for there are no diseases which cannot be controlled by science, as has been accomplished in the Canal Zone.

NEWTON HIGH SCHOOL

The Classical High School has coal enough to last a little more than a week under ordinary conditions. It is expected that more will be obtained soon, however. Anywhere from 5 to 7 tons are burned in a day in very cold weather, and about 4 tons in weather such as the past week.

The dance in the gymnasium last week for the benefit of the girls' athletics was very successful and well attended. Henry Garrity auctioned off the posters advertising the dance. It was also announced that Dorothy Stebbins, '19, had been elected captain, and Elinor Lyon, '19, manager of the 1918 girls' hockey team.

So as not to interfere with several hockey games on Fridays, track practice will be held Saturday mornings at 10.30, instead of Friday afternoon. Newton High students are entering into the spirit of saving by buying thrift cards and stamps as they enter into everything else—wholeheartedly. A boy has been appointed in each room to care for the sale of the stamps, and each expects to sell a large number.

Wednesday morning the boys were addressed by Mr. Richmond of the Science department, who said that for the present no more trench candles would be made, owing to the impossibility of sending them to Europe because of lack of shipping. He also said that in three months an average of 40 boys working two afternoons a week have made about 10,000 candles. The boys will not be without work, however, for they can sign up to pick over absorbent moss used in dressing wounds. This work is directed by Mr. Kidger of the Technical High School. Mrs. Starkweather showed some of the bandages made by the Red Cross, and Miss Rogers, of the Mathematics department, told of some of the work done by high school girls, saying that they had made in spare time nearly 9000 surgical dressings.

At a meeting of the senior class, Barry, Crampton and Vaughn were nominated for editors, and Macomber and Rice for business managers of the Newtonian.

PM ONLY A VOLUNTEER

Why didn't I wait to be drafted. And be led to the train by a band. Or out on a claim of exemption. Oh why did I hold up my hand? Why didn't I wait for the banquet. Why didn't I wait to be cheered? For the drafted men got all the credit. While I'm merely a volunteer.

Nobody gave a banquet. Nobody said a kind word. The puffs of the engine, the grind of the wheels. Was all the good-bye that I heard. Then hustled away to a training camp. To be drilled for next half year. And all in the shuffle, forgotten, For I'm only a volunteer.

And perhaps some day in the future. When a little child sits on my knee, Asks what I did in the Great War, As his little eyes look up at me, I shall have to look back in those eyes.

AN INVITATION

The gentlemen of West Newton are cordially invited to visit the work rooms of the Soldiers' Aid in the Congregational Church, Margin street entrance, next Wednesday afternoon, Jan. 23, from four to six o'clock. All departments of the Surgical Dressings, Sewing and the French Candle Making will be open for inspection.

So much interest has been shown in the past in the efficient handling of the volume of work turned out each month by the Society, that the committee in charge have decided to grant the request for a public demonstration to the gentlemen of West Newton who care to avail themselves of the privilege of seeing the rooms in operation.

THE STATE GUARD

Co. A, 11th Regiment, of the State Guard, the Newton Company, stands first in the last report made of the attendance of officers and men in the entire state, with an average of 90 per cent.

There was considerable interest taken in the competitive squad drill held last Tuesday night at the State Armory, West Newton, as the winner in this competition were to have the first opportunity for machine gun training. The drill included the manual of arms, open and close order marching, and loading and firing. The judges were Gen. James G. White and Major John C. DeMille, who inspected the company before the competition began. Squad 1, Corporal Edwards, was winner of first place, squad 4, Corporal Hallowell, the second, and squad 7, Corporal Palmer, the third.

The regular drill is held each Tuesday night, and there is also a large attendance at the non-com drill on Friday evenings.

MAJESTIC THEATRE—Large and enthusiastic audiences greeted "Mother Carey's Chickens," the comedy of love, pathos and laughter at the Majestic Theatre the past two weeks. This three act play is a dramatization of Kate Douglas Wiggin's book of the same title. "Mother Carey's Chickens" enters upon its third and last week next Monday evening, January 21st, and all indications point to capacity audiences. The critics of the Boston papers have unanimously praised the play and have likened it to that other great success of Mrs. Wiggin, "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm" which obtained great vogue here some seasons ago. John Cort, the producer of this charming play, has provided an exceptionally clever cast for this story of New England home life. Seldom has there been such a sympathizing, understanding and intelligent body of men and women, whose acting is unaffected, natural and thoroughly in keeping with the atmosphere of the play been gathered together.

SPLENDID WORK

Done by War Workers in Newton in Surgical Dressings

The war workers of Newton were just 166 short of an even hundred thousand in the number of surgical dressings turned out during December. Their record was a splendid one, but if all the volunteers who could be accommodated at the different workrooms had turned in and helped, the number of dressings would have been far above a hundred thousand. The total made is eloquent testimony to the faithful and unselfish work of the women who made it, but it is also a call to many more women to join the workers and do their part in looking out for the comfort and lives of those who are fighting at the front.

CHILD CONSERVATION

In accordance with the national movement for child conservation, a local committee has been appointed by the state to carry on the work in Newton. At an early date infants welfare combined with prenatal clinics will be started in different sections of the city, distributed as follows:—West Newton, where well babies have already been under supervision since July; Nonantum; Newton Centre; Newton Upper Falls; and at the Newton Hospital. The infant welfare clinics are primarily for the prevention of illness in well babies and for the instruction of the mothers in their proper care and feeding. The prenatal clinics will offer prospective mothers an opportunity for medical observation and advice. These clinics will be in charge of the physicians of Newton, aided by volunteer workers in the several districts. The Newton Hospital and the Newton District Nursing Association are planning to supply nurses to aid in carrying out the work efficiently. We hope for the hearty co-operation of everyone in the city to assist in the carrying on of this work.

The committee consists of: Mrs. Charles S. Cook, Irving F. Fisher, M. D., Francis G. Curtis, M. D., George E. May, M. D., George L. West, M. D., Miss Mary M. TENTH ANNIVERSARY

nique adequate to express, not merely to overcome, the most complex utterances of the composer. Her audience always feels that underlying sense of security which is necessary to the complete enjoyment of musical speech. Her announced numbers were by Saint-Saens, Chopin and Liszt, to which she added as encores the bewitching Gavotte by Gebhard and MacDowell's Rigaudon. The crispness with which this was rendered we have never heard surpassed by any other artist. In her New York recital it was redemanded by her audience.

It is unfortunate that the acoustics of the hall are not good. The re-echo is very bad and persistent, serving to confuse that clear enunciation which is so essential to the piano. Attempts have been made to remedy this defect by straining wires over the auditorium, but the shadow of a proportion of the hall obstinately refuse to yield to treatment. The same defect has marred the accompaniment to vocal pieces, but is particularly annoying when the attention of the audience is concentrated on the piano itself rather than on the voice.

RED CROSS AND SPECIAL AID

There was a largely attended meeting of the Advisory Board of the Special Aid and Red Cross in Newtonville on Wednesday morning, January 16, at the Talbot House, with the president, Mrs. Wallace C. Boyden, presiding.

Mrs. William H. Lucas, chairman of the clothing department, reported 1401 garments completed and sent in various directions; Mrs. William H. Allen, chairman of the surgical dressings, reported 7658 finished since December 1; and Mrs. George F. Malcom, chairman of knitting supplies, reported 2416 knitted articles sent in since the last meeting. All women were asked to knit trigger mittens, for they cannot be bought in shops and the Red Cross cannot supply them, so all Special Aid members are asked to knit these mittens as fast as possible and deliver them quickly.

The attendance for sewing on Monday and Tuesday does not compare favorably with other days in the week, and it is hoped members will try to bring the average up on these days.

Any person desiring to purchase interesting and instructive war books may find a supply at the desk in the Talbot House, and it is hoped people will avail themselves of this opportunity to buy them.

A party of lads from Bunkin's Island are to be entertained on Saturday afternoon, and in the evening will enjoy billiards and dancing at the Newton Club.

All who are desirous of taking a course in making surgical dressings may apply at the Talbot House where information can be given about classes to be formed.

A whist party for the benefit of the Red Cross and Special Aid work will be given at the Newton Club on Wednesday afternoon, January 23, at 2 o'clock.

On Friday evening, January 25, a lecture will be given at 10.30 in Library Hall, Newton, called "War in the Kitchen, or Conscience versus Custom." The lecturer will be Mrs. Harry Grigor, a college woman and social worker who is giving her whole time to this work.

All who attend are asked to bring notebooks and pencils. This is an important meeting and everyone should go who can possibly do so. Food Will Win the War.

DEBATE SMALL MATTERS

Alldermen Wrestle With Legal Technicalities and Customs

Alderman Harriman characterized the discussion last Monday evening at the meeting of the board of aldermen as "Much Ado about Nothing," and it was an apt description of the business of the entire evening.

Aldermen Clark, Kendrick and Tuttle were absent, and President Early was in the chair.

There was a hearing on petition of E. H. Ellison to keep gasoline at his garage on Sargent street, and the proclamations of Governor McCall in regard to the recently adopted amendments to the Constitution were placed on file.

Mayor Childs sent in requests for $4700 to buy a new steam road roller for the Street department, a request that $1000 be given the Forest Commissioner to get out cordwood from private property for public sale, and relative to an acceptance of a gift of land for City Hall in West Newton.

His recommendation that $500 be authorized for a second-hand motor chassis for the Fire department was granted.

Petitions of W. C. Hatch for an auctioneer's license, of Hans L. Tange for a private garage on Carver road, and the appointment of various terms assessments on Playstead road were granted. There were other petitions from J. Q. A. Whittemore for abatement of assessments on Playstead road, for a sewer in Beacon street, Waban, and from Abbie Freeman on account of personal injuries.

On recommendations of committees licenses were granted to George F. James, auctioneer, Harry Yanco, transfer of junk license, Carl P. Walldinger for private garage on Dudley road, and a transfer of pool tables of Farina & Esposito across Adams street. Leave to withdraw was granted to the covering of part of Cheesecake brook, for sewer in Pilgrim road, and Waban avenue, and to F. J. Stark for abatement of betterments on Avalon road. No action necessary was reported on $300 for plans for enlarging City Hall, and relative to wiring for electric light in schoolhouses, and relative to transfer of interest account from 1917 to 1918.

The same action was taken on the matter of $3000 for overcoats for the Newton Constabulary after Alderman Whidden had called attention to what the Constabulary stands for in the community—a symbol of service and civic welfare.

On recommendation of committees, hearings were assigned for February 4 on laying out of Kent road under the betterment act and for drainage through Hereford road, betterments were levied on Bonad, Colbert and Howland roads, and for curbing and sidewalk on River road, West street and California street, and the Telephone company was granted permit to remove poles from Walnut street.

Alderman Hollis objected to a "no action necessary" report on the matter of plans for a new fire house at Auburndale, saying that if it was the duty of the city to consider any matters of this nature this year he would not press the matter, but the need was urgent, as the building is hopelessly out of date, the flooring being shored up, and the heating apparatus a misfit. The matter was then recommitted.

There was also a long and useless debate on the matter of authorizing the mayor and city solicitor to represent the city at legislative hearings. Alderman Nichols, who has a wide knowledge of legislative work, objected to such broad powers being granted, and there were all kinds of amendments offered, and the city solicitor was called upon for an explanation. The order was finally passed.

Alderman Price had an order passed calling upon the Mayor to discontinue such street lights as were of the least consequence, and to take other measures to conserve the fuel supply as he deemed necessary.

There was also a long debate over the order accepting for the second time the gift made last summer of the old church property for a new city hall. There was objection made to the condition requiring a new city hall to be erected on the land so conveyed as it was thought possible that the future city government might want to locate it in the center of all the land the city owns in this locality. The city solicitor was called in again, and the matter was finally laid on the table to allow him to consult with the donors of the land.

The board adjourned at 9.21.

DISCUSS ROAD OIL

About 75 members of the North Shore Club of the Mass. Highway Association and many other highway commissioners from around Newton were guests last Friday afternoon and evening of Street Commissioner Geo. E. Stuart of this city. The meeting and dinner were held at the Elks Home on Centre street and was for the purpose of urging upon the authorities that road materials such as oils and gravel be shipped in the proper time through adequate railroad transportation, owing to the serious condition caused by the war.

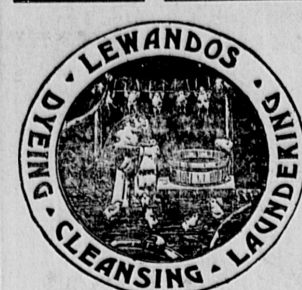

Commissioner Stuart presided and those who spoke were Mayor Edwin O. Childs, George Fred Robinson, chairman of the Watertown selectmen, John Williams, president of the Highway association, John M. McCarthy, secretary and chief clerk of the association, and Mr. Richardson, superintendent of streets of Brookline.

$12,000 WANTED

Newtonville to Make a Big Drive Next Week For War Workers

No one in America would for one minute have a wounded soldier at the front suffer, and perhaps lose his life, for lack of surgical dressings. Nor would anyone have our soldiers and sailors go without such woolen comforts as sweaters, helmets, socks and wristers. If the wounded are not to suffer and the fighters not to go cold someone must supply the money with which to buy the gauze of which surgical dressings are made and the wool to be knit into woolen comforts.

Gauze such as is used in the making of dressings costs at present about $5 a hundred yards. Fortunately the Newton Branch of the Red Cross contracted at a favorable time for two hundred thousand yards of it at about $4 a hundred yards. Fifty thousand yards of this has already gone out to the war societies of the city. Just how much gauze it takes for a dressing it is impossible to say because dressings are of all sizes but there were a good many hundreds of yards used in making the nearly one hundred thousand dressings made in Newton in December. Of these the Newtonville Auxiliary to the Red Cross and the Special Aid made 21,243.

Wool costs $2.30 cents a pound. From one pound of wool one sweater or three pairs of socks may be made. In December Newton turned out 3044 knitted articles including 610 sweaters and 470 pairs of socks and 100 pairs of hospital socks. The Newtonville Auxiliary to the Red Cross and the Special Aid turned out 453 knitted articles among which were 111 sweaters, 96 pairs of socks and one pair of hospital socks; and also 1685 sewed articles, as pajamas, convalescent robes, slings, cases for surgical dressings, handkerchiefs, etc.

In the next twelve months the demand for surgical dressings and for knitted articles is going to be greater than it has been. It will be our own boys who will be in need of the dressings, our own boys who will be in need of the woolen comforts. The women are ready to do their part.

DEATH OF WILLIAM CAPSTICK

Mr. William Capstick, a well known florist and highly esteemed resident of Auburndale, passed away Sunday, January 19th, after a short illness. Mr. Capstick was born in England and was 69 years of age.

He is survived by his widow, one son, Mr. Richard B. Capstick and two daughters, Miss Catherine F. Capstick and Miss Laura J. Capstick of Auburndale. The funeral was held Wednesday afternoon at the family residence on Aspen avenue. The service which was very beautiful and impressive was conducted at half-past two by Rev. John Matteson of Whitman, formerly rector of the Church of the Messiah, assisted by Rev. Percival M. Wood, the present rector.

The sacred selections, "Lead Kindly Light," "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere," and "Blessed Be the Tie that Binds" were feelingly rendered by Miss Marie Sladen, contralto of the Newtonville Universalist Church Quartet. There was a profusion of beautiful floral tributes and the service was attended by a large company including relatives and business friends of the deceased.

The interment was in the Newton Cemetery.

They will continue to do so as they have done and work at dressing making, knitting and sewing. But they can not work unless they have the raw material with which to work and the men, the men who are at home while their brother Americans are at the front fighting for them, must supply the money with which to buy the material. Every cent the men contribute will go to the purchase of raw materials. Not one cent will go for making them into the articles the soldiers and sailors need for the women will give the work freely and willingly and that what they give is no small thing. The labor cost would be on all that Newton women are doing.

In Newtonville there is to be a drive the coming week to secure a guaranteed sum of $12,000 with which to buy raw material for one year for the war workers of Newtonville. Every man in Newtonville is to be asked to help raise this amount and every cent raised is to be spent by Newtonville workers for materials used in Newtonville. Men may give as they will, either in one lump sum or in regular monthly or quarterly payments. It is expected and believed that every man in Newtonville will give something. It is a call to the stay-at-homes to rally to the support of the men at the front, to contribute of their money as the women are contributing of their time and work.

Tuesday evening next, at 7.45, at the Central Congregational Church on Walnut street, there is to be a mass meeting at which those who attend will be told something about Red Cross work at the front and the need there is for those at home to support it. Mr. George Royal Pulsifer of the Newton Branch of the Red Cross is to preside and the Rev. Brewer Eddy and Rev. Ernest Graham Guthrie are to make addresses. What Mr. Guthrie has to say will be illustrated by lantern slides. It is recently back from six months at the French front. There is to be music by the Boston Quintet.

DEATH OF MR. HOWARD

Mr. Joseph Willett Howard, for thirty years a well-known resident of Newton, died last Monday at his home on Fairmont avenue after an illness of a few days with pneumonia. Mr. Howard was born in Boston and was 74 years of age. For many years he has been associated with the banking house of Kidder, Peabody & Co. of Boston. He is survived by a widow, four sons and two daughters, Messrs. Robert G. Howard, J. Dwight Howard, Willett Howard, Kenneth Howard, and the Misses Margaret W. and Catherine Howard, all of Newton.

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon from his late home on Fairmont avenue and there was a large attendance of friends and business associates.

Rev. Harry Lutz, pastor of the Channing Church, where Mr. Howard had been an attendant for many years, officiated and the burial was in the Newton Cemetery.

WHO'S GOT A MIMEOGRAPH?

Is there in Newton a business man who has an unused mimeograph he will give to the Newton Red Cross for the duration of the war? Or is there one who would like to give the Red Cross a new one?

FIRELESS COOKER

Newton Food Facts Centre Advises Their Use

It is the duty of every American housewife to consider more carefully the conservation of fuel. She is one of the largest consumers of coal in the country today and it is only by appealing to her patriotism that we can hope to get her to buy wisely and conserve what she has. She has cheerfully gone about the task of conserving food and giving intelligent attention to food substitutes. She is wearing last year's suit and "making over" for the children. But now is the time of imperative need for conserving coal and it is the privilege of every American housewife to do her utmost in the present crisis.

She who honestly wants to economize in fuel, whether in her own range, or in the power plant of the gas house, should use a fireless cooker. It sounds like a fairy tale to say that you can bring food to the boiling point, put it into a box of hay and leave it for a few hours, returning to find it cooked, and often better cooked than in any other way. Yet it is true. During ordinary cooking there is a great loss of heat, due to radiation from the cooking utensil and escaping steam. If, however, this heat could be retained, the food would continue to cook in the absence of fire. This is what occurs in the hay box. Hay, being a poor conductor of heat, will, if closely packed around a kettle of boiling food, maintain for a number of hours a sufficiently high temperature to continue the cooking process.

The special advantages of the fireless cooker are its economy, not only of fuel and of space on the stove, but of effort, of utensils and also of food materials and flavors. It has been stated that ninety per cent. of the fuel used in ordinary cooking will be saved by the hay box. Think what it is to have a method of cooking involving no necessity for remaining in the kitchen to keep up a fire or watch the food, which may be left in the cooker for hours without injury. Long cooking makes many cheaper foods palatable and more easily digested. The absence of heat and odors in the kitchen, especially in hot summer weather, is another advantage of this cooker. And last but not least, the cooker may be turned into a miniature icebox or freezer as heat cannot penetrate the inner pall from the outside.

Food may be roasted, baked, steamed, stewed and boiled in these insulated vessels. With regard to meats cooked in water in the cooker, experience has shown that they become well done and are more tender than when boiled on the stove, showing that the temperatures necessary to reach that degree of cooking are obtained even in the centre of a large piece of meat without toughening or hardening the outside of the meat, as is done when more intense heat is applied. Cereal proteins, like animal proteins, are more easily digested if cooked at a low temperature, such as that of the fireless cooker, than at the temperature of boiling water.

A simple hay box cooker may be seen at the Food Facts Bureau. A more permanent and sanitary cooker at very little cost is explained by the accompanying diagram. For this obtain a fifty-pound wooden firkin or large butter tub or box, a ten-quart agate-ware pan with an agate-ware plate for a cover, a quart of plaster of paris, and some insulating material, such as builders' felt, an old suit of clothes, cotton or hay (wool is the best insulator). In the bottom of the firkin put three inches of the insulating material, place upon this the pall, and pack about with the same material within a half inch of the top of the pall. Mix the plaster

COSTUME PARTY

Brilliant Affair Held Saturday at Fessenden School

The costume party on Saturday evening at the Fessenden School was a gay and brilliant affair, and there was a large attendance, including the parents and friends of the young people.

This party was given by Mr. and Mrs. Fessenden for the pupils and members of Miss Harrington's dancing class, and is an annual event at the school, which is prepared for by the boys in happy anticipation, selecting their costumes, and reaching the decision of what they would represent after much deliberation.

The spacious gymnasium, where the merry revelers danced, was made attractive for the occasion and promptly at 7.30 Russell's Orchestra struck up a popular selection, and a gorgeous array of young disciples of the Terpsichorean art filed in, and the evening's festivities began.

The costumes worn by the girls were exceedingly beautiful; there was such a profusion of colors, and the artistic blending of all the rainbow hues was truly delightful. There were a number of Pierrot representatives in all the combinations of the black and white. Among the many graceful dancers appearing in costume was dainty Betty Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albion Clark Brown of Newtonville, who was adorable in an exquisite costume of pink and green and represented a "Pink Rose," wearing as a cap an inverted rose.

Miss Hortense Marshall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Marshall of West Newton, represented "Victory," and was wonderfully attractive in an exquisite creation of red and white satin dotted with silver stars and cape lined with blue satin. On her head she wore a five-pointed star.

Beatrice Smyth, the attractive little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Winfield Scott Smyth of Newtonville, represented a "Gypsy" and wore a fetching costume of red and black satin with gold trimmings, and carried a tambourine, and her sister, Virginia, was charming in the role of a "Peasant Girl," wearing a short white skirt with black velvet bodice and a little red cape.

Miss Josephine Hurst, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Hurst of Newtonville, was very lovely in a Kate Greenaway costume of rose-colored satin, with short skirt trimmed with green and rose-colored ribbons, and lace pantalettes, and wore a poke bonnet with pink roses and green ribbons and a string of green and rose colored Oriental beads.

Martine Carter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert P. Carter, and Emily Kent represented Dutch Girls appearing very daintily and sweet in simple frocks of dark blue with little white caps and aprons and big red shoes.

Marjorie Tucker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Tucker, was very bewitching as "Little Bo-Peep," dressed in pink and carrying a shepherd's crook. Among the other attractive costumes were Miss Marion Jewett of Newton Centre, as "Queen of Hearts," who wore black tarleton adorned with red hearts; Susan Dearborn, as "Black-Eyed Susan," in an effective costume of black and yellow; Olive Webster of West Newton, who appeared as an "Old Fashioned Girl"; Edith Frost of Auburndale, a "Spanish Girl"; Anna Albree, fancy costume; Madeline Bartlett, of Newton Centre, a "Rose"; and Frances Hatch, as a "Baby Girl."

The following Fessenden School representatives graced the festive occasion in costume: Mr. Anderson enjoyed the dance in the role of a "bear," Mr. Baker, Chinaman; Mr. J. Ballantine, an "Indian Girl"; R. Ballantine, a "Japanese Woman"; Mr. Blossom, a "Show Girl"; Mr. Brown, as a "soldier" was in gay uniform; Mr. Burnett appeared as a "Bum Coon"; Mr.

STRONG HOCKEY TEAM

Two weeks from next Friday night—Feb. 8—has been set as the date for the Newton-Medford hockey playoff, which should decide where the Inter-scholastic League title will rest during 1918. Newton's reverse at Milton Academy Wednesday served to arouse the players for the league match with Cambridge Latin and the latter team was outclassed Friday at the Arena, 5 goals to 1. For a greater part of the first period Cambridge fought off every effort that Newton made in the scoring line, but a triple pass among the forwards finally put Thomas into position to tally. Early in the second half the Newton centre-ice players—Captain Eaton and Scott—began to sift through the Cambridge defence and tallied three times within five minutes. Thereafter Newton's attack was less spirited, but Thomas caged a goal from scrimmage to complete the total. Towards the end of the contest the Cambridge point was registered by Foley on a long shot.

The reason for listing another Newton-Medford game at such a comparatively early date is because Newton's list is crowded right through the remainder of the season, and on Feb. 8 offers the best opening for both schools. Newton played no better yesterday than it did in the game against Medford, but the Orange and Black players seemed to be far stronger because they outplayed and skated rings around their Cantab opponents. Even in triumph Newton gave further proof that the team is not strong in all points, for the goal-tend remains untied, and the only shot directed at him Friday should have been swept aside. Holmes is unlikely to get many opportunities to stand up under a fusillade of shots because Newton's forward line and outer defense possess enough speed to check all comers, if they retain ambition to do so. Consequently, the presence of an inexperienced goal-tend may not prove fatal to Newton's hopes of retaining championship honors.

Naturally the Newton boys are aware of their ability to skate and dribble and on this account feel their Milton Academy defeat keenly. Captain Eaton feels that the Newton team could defeat the Academy players with what he calls a "neutral" referee. The writer witnessed the contest and thought that the official tried to detect every illegal play and to check all roughness. The colors of the Newton-Milton players, the former's Orange and Blue and the latter's Orange and Black, were opportunity to watch the individuals, but "Newton Boys" point out that five penalties were dealt out to Newton players and none to Milton boys. However, Milton figured in the only scoring play and Newton probably will have to wait until next year for another game. Medford is another school team that is eager to book a date with Milton Academy. The Medford team defeated Milton last year, 3 to 1, but was unable to arrange a game for this winter. If Medford takes Newton's measure and wins the league title there will be a possibility of a Milton-Medford game, provided State scholastic honors are at stake. Captain Eaton, Owen, Holmes, Hughes and Pinkham are all in the junior class at Newton and will be available next winter, in all probability. But Davidson, Garrity, Scott and Thomas will be lost through graduation. Davidson is preparing for Amherst, Garrity for Princeton and Scott for Dartmouth. Newton has a week-end game with Middlesex, which the league team should win, unless some of the players miss the train, as so frequently is the case among school-boys. After today's game should develop into a fine contest Wednesday's contest against the Harvard freshmen at the Charlesbank rink. This game should develop into a fine contest worthy of an Arena setting, and the present crop of Newton boys will endeavor to check the speedy rushes of "Ned" Bigelow, last year's St. Mark's captain, and Roger Buntin, star of the year's Newton team, who are playing centre-ice positions for the yearlings—C. VANDERGRIT-THOMPSON DIALOGUE DEBATE

The famous debate given in so many of the leading churches of Massachusetts under the title, "Vandergrit-Thompson Debate: Wet or Dry" will be given in Eliot Chapel Sunday evening at seven-thirty to an audience of men and women from the combined churches of Newton. Anyone who has an interest in the ratification of the National action on an amendment to the Constitution for National Prohibition by Massachusetts will want to be present Sunday night. The debate is said to be dramatic, convincing and humorous.

SONS OF THE REVOLUTION

The above named Society held their Annual meeting on Thursday evening, January 17th, at the Boston Art Club, followed by a buffet lunch.

Officers were elected and Major Fred P. Barnes of West Newton and Mr. Lincoln Righter of Newtonville were chosen on the Board of Managers.

The Society had as guests for the evening, Hon. Samuel L. Powers, Capt. Blue, commanding U. S. Battleship Texas, Capt. Rush, Commandant, Charlestown Navy Yard, and several other officers of the Navy.

Appropriate remarks were made by the retiring President, and by the newly elected President, who strongly urged those present to bring in new members.

Adjutant General Stevens, a member of the Society, presented the "Knox Trophy" to Capt. Blue for the Battleship Texas, that vessel having made the highest record in gunnery of any ship in the navy, to which the captain in his speech of acceptance, gave an immensely interesting account in detail, of what the ships of our navy have to do in gunnery practice during the summer and fall, with 14-inch guns for long distance firing at targets over 11 miles away on the water, while the ship is making 19 knots an hour, as well as torpedo practice.

Mr. Powers chose for his remarks the life of Benjamin Franklin, (the date of the Annual meeting being Franklin's birthday), from his birth to his death, giving many anecdotes and facts, which few if any of those present had ever heard of, and stated that he considered him the most wonderful man that the country had ever produced. His remarks were equally interesting.

Citizens of Newton who are eligible for membership and desire to join the Society, can receive application blanks and all necessary information, by applying to Major Fred P. Barnes, 351 Otis street, West Newton.

AN ILL-ADVISED ORDER

At the Sunday meeting of the Concord Forum this week, Senator John W. Weeks used some emphatic language in commenting upon the coal order of the past week. He said in part:

"While I am talking about coal, I might as well say that I have not come here to criticize anyone in particular. I wish to avoid especially in speaking before such a body as this, the suspicion of being partisan or disloyal. I am neither. In this war, I might say to you, there is very little political partisanship displayed in Washington. Men are working together down there, forgetting, as far as possible—almost entirely, in most cases—any question of party politics. What we are doing is to try to win the war; and that is what we are endeavoring to do in the investigation that is being made."

"But I do want to say that, in my judgment, there has never been a more illtimed and a more ill-adviced order than that which will go into effect tomorrow closing down our industrial and other establishments. It does not produce an additional pound of coal. It gives encouragement to the enemy. It lessens the morals of our own people. It will have a material effect on the sales of the next Liberty Loan."

"There are some men in this country who have not discovered that you cannot affect a great industrial nation, that you cannot change it in the slightest degree, without, at the same time, influencing and affecting very materially a great many other things and persons. They see something, some one thing, directly in front of them. They do not see the whole landscape. They go to work to accomplish that one thing; and nine times out of ten, it does more harm than good."

"I say that, and this coal order accomplishes all that its most ardent advocates believe it will accomplish—even admitting for the moment that it will do so—it will, in my judgment, do ten times as much harm as it will do good."

THE MAN AND THE HOUR

'Tis said, that those who other men Most strongly criticize, Might find, if in themselves they look, The same fault, underlies. And if one claims another lacks In patriotic fire, Not love of truth, nor loyalty Stir his uncalled for ire.

Are they afraid in Washington To give a Man a chance, Whose soul they know is America's, His heart, "somewhere in France?" We know "he kept us out of war," A war with Kaiser Bill, When Wilhelm turned his back and fled, Though 'twas a bitter pill.

We know the one man in the world, That Kaiser Wilhelm fears, Is he whose proffered aid is met With only scoffs and sneers. Across the sea, when they find a man Too small to fill his place, They drop him, e'er he makes their name A "hissing and disgrace."

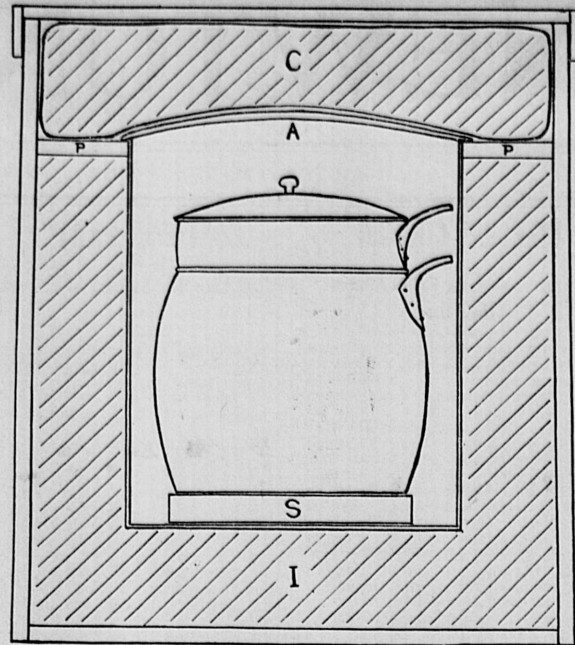

We want a man whose word is "Now," Not "The sweet bye and bye," We will wait for fleets and guns Perhaps till next July, If he hasn't the best of guns, he'll say The next best one must do. No matter, if bullets hit the mark, And the gunner's aim is true.

Our fathers fought with scythes and staves, When guns were all too few; They fought to win a righteous cause, And won the battle, too. We've given billions! Americans! Have we no right to say, We want a Man! Ye Loiterers! Give him the Right of Way.

MARIA D. WISWELL.

TRINITY CHURCH SERVICE

Lieut.-Gov. Coolidge will make an address at Evening Service at Trinity Church, Newton Centre, Sunday, January 27. A special song service will begin at 7.15 P.M. Trinity Church is on Centre street, just south of Commonwealth avenue.

of paris with enough water to make a paste and put on top of the insulator until flush with the top of the pail. This will keep all moisture from the insulator, which will remain dry, hygienic and therefore permanent. There should be left at least two inches above the top of the pail for a cushion (or wool) filled circular cushion to be placed between the cover of the pail and that of the firkin. The plumber probably will be able to supply a piece of soapstone about six inches square (a fragment from an old sink) which can be used as the radiator. Cost: Tub or firkin, $1.00 to $1.75; pail, $4.95; plate, $2.25; soapstone, $1.00; plaster of paris, $1.10. When in use, for example, in the cooking of a cereal, the soapstone radiator is heated while the cereal is being brought to the boiling point in the double boiler. Then the hot soapstone and double boiler with the food are put into the pail, covered, the cushion put on and the cover of the firkin tightly closed. Since these hot objects are surrounded by a poor conductor of heat, they will remain hot for several hours, and as long as they are hot the cooking process will continue. Soapstone is used because it retains heat. An aluminum or agate-ware double boiler, the handles of which have been cut down to two inches with a hack saw, should be used because it will not rust and the water in the lower vessel remains hot.

Such a fireless cooker has been in constant use for the last fourteen years, giving most satisfactory results.

Further information concerning fireless cooking and recipes may be obtained at the Food Facts Centre, 291 Washington street, Newton.

NEWTON HIGH SCHOOL

John Barry has been elected editor-in-chief, and Clarke Macomber business manager of the 1918 Newtonian. This evening at 7.30 the interclass track meet will be held in the gym. This is the official starter of the track season, and usually determines those who will make the team. There are 21 events and there will be a lot of fine competition for the boys have been practising hard and faithfully. A feature of the meet will be the relay race between Newton and the Allen school of West Newton, in which William Kenyon, the former Manchester, N. H., High football player will run for Allen school.

The annual triangular league debate will not be held this year. The students of Somerville and Brookline High Schools, which are in the league, have lost so much time from school that the officials of these schools have cancelled the debate.

Mr. Adams recently received a letter from John Cutler of Newtonville thanking the Junior Red Cross for the exhibit of material at the Red Cross Poster show, and also congratulating the unit on being the best, largest and most efficient organization of its kind in New England.

A short meeting of the English Club was held Monday at which the members were urged to pay the annual dues of 50 cents. It was also announced that a meeting would be held this afternoon at which Mrs. Cannon of Cambridge would read letters written from French hospitals by her husband, Dr. Walter Cannon, professor in Harvard Medical College.

A canvass taken of the students of the Classical High School showed that over 350 had bought thrift cards, either at school or elsewhere.

The hockey team is now going at its best, as the two victories over Middlesex, 1 to 0, and Boston College High, 5 to 1 show. Wednesday Newton defeated the Harvard freshmen, considered one of the best school teams in the state, 2 to 1. Captain Eaton and George Scott played well for Newton, while Roger Buntin, a former Newton man, scored the only goal for the freshmen.

WINS PRACTICE MEET

Newton High School's track and field athletes won a practice meet from Noble & Greenough, at Newtonville last Saturday, 39 1-3 to 28 2-3. The events were well contested, each team winning four firsts. Capt. Merrill Nutting of the Newton team won the 100 yard dash, the 200 yard dash, the 400 yard dash, the 800 yard dash, the 1600 yard dash, the 3200 yard dash, the 6400 yard dash, the 12800 yard dash, the EDITORIAL

Residents of this city generally complied with the order of the Fuel Administrator, and business was practically at a standstill on Monday. Several facts were noticeable, however, in the practical operation of the order. The first to be mentioned was the utter failure of the railroad and street railway service between here and Boston to accommodate the public. It is true, of course, that with no experience to guide them, the officials in charge of our transportation might make a mistake, but the B. & A. officials who ever dreamed that one train to Boston during the entire morning, or even a holiday would meet the need of this city ought to wake up. On account of the Sunday schedule of trains, the Elevated service was overwhelmed, and travel to and from Boston was a tedious affair. This condition ought not to be repeated next Monday. The second fact drawn from the observation of the day was that the people who are without employment must find something to do, and the general tendency was towards the theatres and moving picture houses. With the national government emphasizing in every way the absolute necessity of exercising thrift in every direction, one of the results of a "Garfieldized" Monday is a tendency towards extravagance and pleasure.

A third conclusion to be drawn is that the great American people must learn that they cannot have what they want when they want it, even if they have the price and the inclination. They have begun to realize that they are under a government that has the right to compel them to live and move and act as the powers that be may dictate. We can only hope that the administration will act with the best interests of the whole people at heart.

Subscribers of the Graphic are justly indignant at the postal service which is now being given to this city. Graphics delivered at the Newton station before 5 P. M. Friday are not delivered in Upper Falls, only four miles away, until late Monday afternoon. The mail service in this district is absolutely the worst we have yet experienced, and is largely due to the cheese paring policy of the Post Office Department in order to make a good financial statement to Congress. With the departure of hundreds of postal employees into the army and navy, it would seem that the present was the time to spend money to obtain service, and not to impair it by attempting to do the work with insufficient or inefficient help.

Among all the calls for money for this, that and the other purpose, let us hope the good people of Newton will not forget the pleasure and satisfaction the Boys in France Tobacco Fund is doing for the men actually near the firing line. Over 350,000 packages of tobacco have been distributed through the Red Cross headquarters in Paris, and an efficient organization has been effected for this work. Contributions in 25-cent units can be made through the Graphic office.

The old, old controversy over the matter of bathing in Crystal lake will be thrashed out again at a public hearing before the aldermen on February 11. The real solution of this problem is the erection of a swimming pool on the Newton Centre playground.

Newton men are taking a prominent part in the vital question of co-operation between the public and the railroads, now under government control.

LETTER FROM THE FRONT

Newton Boy Describes Trip Across and Experiences Abroad

Dear Sister: The rules about writing mail have changed so I am going to write a little story of my experiences as a soldier. There is no doubt but my friends in Newton would like to hear about them so I want you to pass this letter around to all of them. Send it up to the Engine House and if you think it is worth while have it printed in the paper, but do not forget to pass it around for it is impossible for me to write one like it to all I know.

I will begin my story in Boxford, as follows: "Well boys," said one of the Corporals, "I guess France will see us soon." "What are you talking about," answered one of the boys. "We are going South for training and by the time we are trained the War will be over." The next day boxes were sent coming into our camp and they were all marked with "X" and passed around to the different batteries; then we began packing our harness and equipment. "Yes I guess we'll be over soon" was the talk of the boys. Then one day we packed all our belongings and that night loaded our stores on the train. We worked like dogs until 3 o'clock in the morning, and then we were thinking about having a sound sleep we were told not to unroll our blankets, which we had rolled up during the afternoon. We all laid down with our clothes on and put our overcoats over us, but it was too cold to sleep so we started a fire and all gathered around it.

At seven the next morning we were told to strike tents and get ready to move; at 10 we were ready to go, but on account of getting our pay we did not pull out until not yet when we were trained and were off to where no one could tell.

The next morning we arrived at 5 o'clock and after being awake all night we unloaded our baggage and boarded a boat after having some cold beans and crackers for breakfast, we pulled off and steamed down stream for an hour or so until we found ourselves alongside a great big liner. This was the first time that we felt pretty sure that France would be our destination.

Here again we transferred baggage and changed lodging places. We were on this large boat for 22 days. After the boat was loaded with its cargo we pulled out and began our long journey. The first day out, and in fact all the days, were about the same.

Our days on the water were spent as a millionaire spends a winter at Palm Beach. We would get up at six, have breakfast at 6:30 and then go up on deck and enjoy the sea air. At nine o'clock we would have a roll-call, and calisthenics after which the band would play for us and we would enjoy dancing.

At 11 o'clock we would have dinner and then have a nap until 4, when we would have another roll-call, and at five we would have supper. Our quarters were very close, away down at the bottom, so most of us slept up on deck.

Our boat was not alone, we had a few others with us and most of the time we were so close together, that we could see the moves men made on the other ships. The ships made some very funny moves, and it was the same why all the time. All lights were out above decks and we could not smoke on deck after dark, and even had to hide our watches to keep the boat in perfect darkness.

At night we enjoyed songs and different games and most of all Al Smith's playing on the piano. At 10 o'clock taps would blow and all noise would have to stop. On the tenth day out, about 7 at night a great sight was noticeable; at first they were thought to be "subs" but they moved so fast that it was not long before we could see that they were the dread enemies of the "Subs," and our most welcome friends, namely, the Destroyers.

The next few days were very interesting; we were all watching for land and after looking for two days we settled down as before. Early one morning a great cheer went up when in the distance we saw land. We had come across the ocean thru all kinds of danger and now in a few hours we would be safe on land. That was the opinion of all on board, but we stayed on all day long and that land we saw was nothing but an island. The next morning we found ourselves anchored just outside of a large city. We pulled up stream and at 9 o'clock anchored at the wharf at —

We disembarked with our rolls over our shoulders and our barrack bags on our backs, and stepped aboard a train. At 10 o'clock the train pulled out and we saw for the first time a foreign city.

We rode for miles thru city and country and at 8 o'clock that night we stopped at S. and after some time began a march which none of us knew where it would end.

We left the freight shed and entered the city of S., which was in darkness and after walking for three miles found ourselves in what we afterwards found out to be a soldiers' rest camp.

We were packed into small tents, twelve men to a tent and fell asleep about two in the morning.

At five o'clock we were called out and had roll-call. We were given orders not to roam around for we were going to move at any minute. We had breakfast after which we all took a hot and cold water bath. At twelve o'clock we assembled and at two started our march back to the depot. The funny part of the whole trip was that we did not know where we were, or where we were going. This time we saw the city, altho the streets were packed, the people didn't even wish us good luck, but just watched us and some would tell us to "cheer-up" and wanted to know why we didn't give them a smile, etc. This time, instead of getting on a train, as we all thought, we went on board a small boat something like the Kipling, the fishing boat in Boston, only it had much more speed.

The boys were so tired that we were all soon asleep and did not wake up until morning when we found ourselves at H. Here again we disembarked and walked another three miles to a rest camp.

At this point we saw the first sign of war, the Red Cross Ambulances, passing by the hundreds and all full of men who had done their "bit." We also got the first sight of what our enemy looked like. We stayed at this camp until six at night when again we started off in heavy marching order, and stopped at a large freight yard where we were put on small box cars, thirty-six men to a car. At 8 o'clock we pulled out and started on our last lap of the journey. We travelled all that night and the next day up to ten o'clock when we landed at G. Here we were put on big motor trucks which took us to our camp and after being assigned to quarters fell asleep about 3 in the morning. The next day we slept as long as we liked, but the following day our work began in earnest.

As the week went by we were the only American soldiers at this camp, but soon more and more began to arrive and the Frenchmen left and now there are about — men in the camp, all U. S. soldiers.

The feeling amongst us is great and we are all happy for the most part and well.

We have to get up at 6 in the morning, have breakfast at 6:30, but before that, we have to feed our horses. Stable call comes at 7, which means that all drivers must go to the stables to clean their horses and drill call at 7:20. Dinner at twelve and drill call again at 1:50. Retreat at 5 and supper at 5:30. Call to quarters at 8:30, and last of all taps at 10:30, when all the lights go out and we begin our dreams of home.

This is an example of how we act during the day. "All up, there goes first call," yells some early bird who gets up before breakfast.

"D— that bugle, why can't, why can't he turn his watch back" yells some lazy "bum." Then the band begins to play while we are dressing and then in comes the Sergeant and tells us to hurry up, when some funny guy will pull out, "Well you poor nut, do you think we are machinery? Give us about an hour to make up will you?" Then we fall in for roll-call, and the drivers march down to the stables and the rest go back and make their beds. Mess call blows and there is a line for the kitchen, when we form our line and get our little bit to eat, then the drill and so on until after supper when we either go down to the Y. M. C. A., where we always find Al Smith at the piano, or stay in our barracks and play kiddish games.

We have a new way of undressing for bed and that is by playing strip poker; every time you lose you have got to take some more clothes off. Then comes call to quarters when in will come those who like their wine and we have a jolly good time until taps. The lights go out but nine times out of ten the noise does not stop, but usually we have a show in the darkness.

This ends the story; there is a lot more but it is hard for me to write it. I can only say that we are all happy and instead of being in want, as most of our folks think, we are enjoying ourselves and all like this part of our duty.

Of course we do not know what is ahead of us, but we are ready to do our "bit," and if nothing happens, we will be back, a good deal stronger and healthier looking "bunch" than when we left. We are over here for our country and are mighty proud that we volunteered our services for it.

Well, sister, this is the longest letter I have ever written in my life and I do I want to hear from you telling me that you received it. When you answer give me the date of the letters you are receiving. I am well and feel fine. Give my regards to all. Wishing everybody at home "good luck." I will close with love to all, FRED AVANTAGGIO.

OUR NEAR-SIGHTED PATRIOTISM

We hear the continual cry "Hooverize" but we are slow to see the many opportunities for carrying out this important factor of war winning.

Newton stands always ready to respond willingly to all demands and appeals but somehow we have shown "asleep on the switch" spirit regarding one important step that might have been taken some weeks ago and can be done now.

Our club members generally speaking are also home folk, with few exceptions why cannot our five or six club houses be closed for the next three months and if there is coal in the coal bins give to the Newton Hospital, Home for Aged People, and other institutions which must be provided for; if a resident tries to get coal, their dealer says "so much has to go to the hospital and the clubs that we can only give a small quantity to the individual."

These members have their fires and lights at home and are asking to have these same necessities duplicated at the club for them.

Why not make the home the club with "the latch string out" of their homes to fellow members who might desire to spend an evening with them?

Then again the churches in the era of civilization cannot they find enough subjects to discourse upon that union services could be held, thereby closing three-fourths of the churches and in each church can be found members who are in need of coal and distribute or dispose of the coal among their own parishioners or hold the services in a different church each Sunday thereby equally distributing the expense of heat and light.

Other cities and towns have done so why is Newton in the back-ground?

The opening and closing exercises of the Sunday School and the session of the Adult Class, will be held in the Church until further notice. WILBUR THEATRE.—William A. Brady's tremendous success, "The Man Who Came Back," is climbing toward its one hundredth performance in America at the Wilbur Theatre in Boston, with every indication that the prosperity of the play, which was evidenced by the run of fourteen consecutive weeks at the Playhouse in New York, is to be repeated in Boston. The running of the fuel commissioner that the curtain of all first acts must raise at fifteen minutes to eight o'clock is of great advantage to theatre patrons in the outlying cities of Boston, making it possible for them to leave the theatre on their way home not later than ten in the evening. By the order of the commissioner there will be no performance on Tuesday evenings, but seats are now on sale for every other evening and for the matinees on Wednesday and Saturday afternoons up through the week of the holiday on Washington's birthday.

Asbestos.

Most of us know little more of asbestos, the strange rock fiber that is almost as soft and pliable as cotton or woolen fabric, than that it is used in making fireproof theater curtains. In other ways it is fast coming into use as a "safety first" building material. Not only does it protect against fire, but it is also a nonconductor of heat, and is therefore useful in preserving an even temperature. Most of what we use in this country comes from Canada, but Arizona is now beginning to produce asbestos of excellent quality.—Youth's Companion.

est to women. Mrs. C. F. Bates, State chairman of legislative matters, will speak briefly. There will be a short pianoforte recital by Clair T. Leonard, and tea will be served by the Social committee.

State Federation Day is the announcement of the Social Science Club for Wednesday next, when Mrs. Herbert J. Gurney, the president, will be the guest of the club and make an address. As opportunity to meet Mrs. Gurney will be given at the beginning of the meeting, members are urged to come a little early. There will be attractive music. Guests may be invited.

Children's Day will be observed by the Auburndale Woman's Club next Tuesday afternoon at the Methodist Parish house. There will be moving pictures, refreshments and music.

Local Happenings

Mrs. F. S. Keith was hostess on Saturday last for the meeting of the Newton Highlands Shakespeare Club. Miss Mary L. Sweeney, the president, presided over the annual Historical Day, when the royal house of Austria was considered. A small food sale afterward helped to increase the fund for the Liberty Bond.

On account of the coal situation there was no meeting of the Bright-helmstone Club on January 21. The meetings will be held regularly, however, on the coming Mondays.

At the meeting of the Christian Era Study Club on Monday afternoon papers written by Mrs. Winberg on St. Thomas More, by Mrs. Dennett on Henry the Eighth, and by Mrs. Coffin, on France in 1500 A. D., were read.

The regular meeting of the Newton Highlands Monday Club was held January 21, at the home of Mrs. Frank Frost. The subject of "Colonial Customs and Manners" was considered by Mrs. Charles Fowkes, and Mrs. C. T. Bartlett, with many interesting fragments from the early life in the colonies.

Mrs. F. S. Fairchild, and Mrs. M. S. Wallace sang a metrical version of the Twenty-third Psalm written in 1640, many among whom were our present visitors, but was often sung by the Pilgrims.

The Auburndale Review Club held its regular meeting on Tuesday at the home of Mrs. H. H. Longfellow. Mrs. Almy, the chairman of the morning, read a very interesting paper on cathedrals in which she described the special features of several of the great European cathedrals, as well as those of our own country, including our only great cathedral, St. John the Divine, than which there are few larger in Europe.

Mrs. Gilpatrick's paper was a clear and entertaining account of the development of the cathedral service from the Mass, the most solemn music of the Catholic church, of the music of the Elizabethan time, and that of the Restoration.

Mrs. Knapp spoke briefly of the anthem and much of hymns and hymn-writers, and gave short stories of the lives of many, among whom were Martin Luther, who was really the first hymn-writer; the Wesleys, John and Charles; Watts, the father of English hymnology; Heber, whose "Holy, Holy, Holy" is the greatest hymn on the Trinity ever written; Sarah Brown Adams, Charlotte Elliott, Cardinal Newman, and George Matheson, and Julia Ward Howe. In connection with this paper Mrs. Spaulding sang beautifully the two hymns "Lead, Kindly Light" and "O Love that Wilt not Let Me Go."

Charles Wellington Furlong was the lecturer at this week's meeting of the Woman's Club of Newton Highlands in Lincoln hall. A large audience enjoyed his views on the screen of Fertile Argentina and the Patagonian Pampas, and the story of his travels and experiences in our sister country.

Mr. Furlong was to have spoken in March at an evening lecture, but a tour to Mexico, and duties later in Washington as Q. M. R. C., caused the change in program.

A report from the City Federation Board meeting was given by Mrs. F. G. Sandford.

Mrs. Schroeder's First Aid class has opened, and two meetings already held.

Fourth in the series on South America, Primitive People and those who followed, was the subject of the paper presented by Mrs. Everett E. Kent at the meeting of the Social Science Club on Wednesday morning. Mrs. Kent asked her audience to think in terms of a hemisphere, and pointed out the similarities and contrasts in the world of climatic conditions and of the existence of the primitive peoples upon the two continents, North and South America. On the east were the tribes of wild men, while on the west of both there remain evidences of a much higher sort of civilization, the Aztecs in the North and the Incas in the South. She referred to the two theories as to the origin of people upon the globe, namely, one, that man originated in Mesopotamia and migrating, crossed Behring Strait and travelled downward through the country; and second, that man developed simultaneously in several parts of the world at the same time.

Her account of the Kingdom of the Incas and their remarkable state of civilization was full of interest, as was also the coming of the Spanish and Portuguese adventurers, who became their conquerors. The treatment accorded the savages of South America was in sharp contrast to that of the English, French and Dutch in North America, to the shame of the latter. While the North American Indian is gradually becoming extinct and has played no considerable part in peopling this continent, in South America the Indian has survived and played an essential part in peopling that continent.

Newton Federation Board Meeting

At the quarterly meeting of the Federation executive board it was announced that the president of the Federation has been made a member of the Public Safety Committee of Newton. Mrs. G. W. St. Amant, chairman of the Education committee, reported that the sub-committee on moving pictures had acted on the censorship committee, that the sub-committee on schools has been considering the equipment of the luncheon kitchen and has asked for an appropriation for modern and adequate equipment. Some mothers have asked for extension of the recess five minutes for the luncheon hour. The school authorities are ready to grant it, if there is sufficient demand on the part of the parents, but it would mean an equal extension of time at the end of the session and a change in the car schedule. The sub-committee on Americanization assisted with the open meeting in November and will again in February. The chairman and the president have been attending the meeting of Home Guards in Boston, and helped with the distribution of coal at the North End Mission recently.

The chairman of the Nominating committee, Mrs. C. G. Wetherbee, called attention to those members of the present officers who are not eligible to serve further, and stated that Miss Ryder, the treasurer, desires to be relieved after her long and faithful term of service. Attention was called to the fact that nominations from the clubs must be received before the 10th of February in order to be considered by the committee in making up the ballot.

Mrs. E. Taylor of the Social Service committee, referred to the fact that the Dental Clinic is now supported by the City. Two matters have been considered by the committee. First, the change of name to make it conform more nearly to those of the State Federation, and the recommendation is Civics and Social Service, which was adopted. The other was the giving to this committee the investigation of the conditions of existing social agencies, this having been assigned to her committee by the Newton Unit of the Council of National Defense. Recognizing the need for maintaining existing social work, the sub-committee has made one of its departments. The result of the investigation shows a falling off of about 33 1-3 per cent. in the income of our various agencies owing to the war.

Mrs. Wellman, the new probation officer, spoke of her work, and Miss Rich of the Welfare Bureau announced the opening of the new Out-Patient department at the Newton Hospital from 11 to 12.30 every day in the week.

It was voted to make the Patriotic Fete an annual affair. The gift from the Newton clubs for the State Federation Endowment Fund amounted to $490.75, and the contribution of the clubs for the Y. M. C. A. Red Triangle Drive was $365.

It was decided to defer the publication of the Federation History, which was presented by Mrs. Taylor at the annual meeting, and she was made permanent historian to continue her work and have it published at the end of 1918.

Stanton H. King, superintendent of the Sailor's Haven at Charlestown, told of the work being done there, and asked the club women to arrange a date to come there and help entertain the boys. The present need is for Saturday nights. No lady is allowed to be a sailor or by the superintendent. Help was also asked for concerts on Thursday nights next year, everything being arranged for this season.

SURGICAL DRESSING CLASSES

A Growing Need of Women Competent to Act as Inspectors and Monitors—Classes in Home Nursing and First Aid

As the war goes on there is more and more need of women who can act as inspectors and monitors of groups making surgical dressings. There are many workers, but not enough women who have a knowledge of the way in which the many different kinds of dressings should be made. To meet the demand classes for the instruction of women in the making of the standard dressings of the Metropolitan Chapter of the Red Cross are being organized. The course of instruction is made up of seven lessons, and to meet the actual expense a charge of $3 a pupil is made for the course. There is now a class in Newtonville meeting Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, and one in West Newton on the same days. It is hoped that similar classes will be organized in other parts of Newton and that there will be applicants for classes to follow those now under instruction. Information in regard to them may be had from the Assistant Secretary of the Newton Branch of the Red Cross, Talbot House, Newtonville, or of the chairman of the Education Committee at the same address. Also there may be had from the same sources information in regard to the organization of classes in Home Nursing and First Aid, both of their matters of vital importance at the present time.

STEARNS SCHOOL CENTRE

The annual meeting of the Stearns School Centre was held on Tuesday of this week, at the residence of Mrs. S. W. Bridges, 36 Fairmont avenue, Newton. In spite of the inclement weather there was a large attendance. Many interesting reports were read, showing steady progress in the work during the past year.

Dr. Irving Fisher of West Newton made a very interesting and comprehensive address on the subject of "Child Culture," preparatory to the establishment of a baby clinic in Nantum, which will be conducted under the auspices of this organization. Tea was served during a social hour following the meeting.

"THE FARMERETTE"

"The Farmerette," a farce in three acts, which was given by the Newtonville Woman's Guild, will be repeated January 30, at 8 P. M. for the benefit of the Woman's Association of Central Congregational Church. The cast includes Mrs. Fred E. Mann, Miss Marion Bassett, Miss Louise Sherman, Mrs. Pitt F. Drew, Mrs. E. E. Wakefield, Jr., Mrs. William Burr, Miss Dorothy Eaves. The ladies in charge of the affair are Mrs. Wallace C. Boyden, Mrs. W. L. Vosburgh, Mrs. Walter T. Kelley, Mrs. E. W. Chamberlain.

DEATH OF MRS. THORNDIKE

Friends of Mrs. Mary A. Thorndike, the widow of the late Henry A. Thorndike of Auburndale, were shocked last Friday to hear of her death by hanging in her home on Islington road. Mrs. Thorndike had suffered from insomnia for the past few months and had just resigned, on advice of her physician, from very severe labors as chairman of the Alumni War Relief work for Wellesley College, of which she was a graduate. She has been living in Boston for the winter, and called last Friday noon at a neighbor's house for the key to her own residence, and when it was not returned, an investigation followed, and the body found.

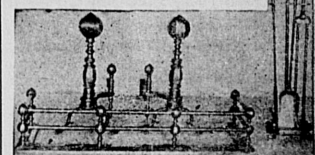

As she had planned for an immediate and complete rest, her act was evidently due to a temporary mental disarrangement.

Mrs. Thorndike was a woman of rare charm, had traveled extensively in Europe and the United States, and had a wide circle of friends. She married Mr. Thorndike in 1901. One brother survives.

Funeral services were held Monday morning at Mt. Auburn chapel, Rev. Julian C. Jaynes of the West Newton Unitarian church officiating.

SUCCESSFUL BENEFIT AT NEWTON CLUB

A very successful benefit was given on Wednesday afternoon by the Newton Club for the benefit of the Newtonville Red Cross Special Aid Workrooms.

Seventy tables were arranged in the Concert Hall and the game was auction bridge. A large number of Newtonville ladies interested in things charitable as well as social assembled at the Club, about 450 tickets being sold for the affair.

Those who did not care for cards, passed the time knitting in the Reception room, where a very pleasing program was arranged for their entertainment. It included exhibition dancing by a clever little girl, Elizabeth Tibbets of West Somerville, who gave a "Daisy Dance," which was exceedingly pretty and graceful; a "Patriotic Dance" attired in a costume of our National colors, red, white and blue; and a "Skaters' Dance," wearing a Charlotte costume.

After the dancing an effective little tableau was presented by the dancer, assisted by a little girl in Red Cross Nurse's costume and a little Boy Scout. They carried an American Flag and joined in singing "The Star Spangled Banner," and were applauded most enthusiastically by the audience.

Mrs. Marcus Morton announced that there would be no card prizes awarded; everything was donated for the occasion, the flowers which were used for decorating the tickets, place-cards and the refreshments, and the gratifying success of the party was due to the combined efforts of the ladies serving on the committee, all of whom are young mothers who work for the Red Cross on Monday evenings, being unable to attend the meetings at other times.

The committee was under the chairmanship of Mrs. Lloyd W. Allen, and included Mrs. John Alden, Mrs. Le Sueur T. Collins, Mrs. S. A. Fritz Ely, Mrs. Harold Hunt, Mrs. Lester B. Hunter, Mrs. Kenneth Holbrook, Mrs. Edgar W. Greene, Mrs. Carl S. Wells, and Mrs. Frederick G. Schipper.

The ladies on the committee were all attired in Red Cross uniforms.

Refreshments were served under the direction of Mrs. William Harmon Allen and Mrs. W. G. Starkweather. Mrs. Wallace C. Boyden, gave a short interesting address and called to mind the fact that the Red Cross and Special Aid Societies of Newtonville were working together and doing splendid work, as is shown by the fact that in December they sent in to headquarters nearly 1700 sewed articles, over 500 knitted articles, and over 21,000 surgical dressings.

In order to carry on this work, money is needed and there is a plan on foot to have a "Drive" for Newtonville in order to raise money for this purpose.

In preparation for this "drive" a Grand Patriotic Meeting will be held on Tuesday evening, January 29th, at 7.45, in Central Congregational Church, Walnut street, Newtonville.

The speakers will be Rev. D. Brewer Edley, Associate Secretary of the American Board of Commission on Foreign Missions, and Rev. Ernest Graham Guthrie, pastor of the Union Congregational Church in Boston. Dr. Guthrie has recently spent six months at the front in France, and will tell of his experiences and impressions.

The Boston Quintette will furnish music and the Constabulary and Boy Scouts will be present. No admission fee will be charged and no collection will be taken. Everyone is urged to attend and be ready to help when Newtonville's opportunity is offered.

WHY IS MILK ESSENTIAL TO THE GROWING CHILD

Answered by Charles H. Kilbourne of the New York City Health Dept.

It is a recognized fact that as civilization advances, the ability of mothers to supply their offspring with milk from the breast diminishes. Also the demands of modern industrial life are such that the natural feeding of infants becomes inconvenient and it interferes with the duties and pleasures of the modern woman. These facts being recognized, it becomes the duty of the artificial life, which has produced this abnormal condition between infant demand and maternal supply to provide by art an artificial supply. It becomes necessary to provide as a substitute a food which as nearly as possible resembles the Mother's milk.

The ideal milk is that which in its constituents varies the least from the human milk. Cows' milk most nearly approaches mother's milk in this respect, and since it is the most plentiful supply which is obtainable, we find it to be that which is most universally used.

Before it can be safely used for young children, however, art and invention must still further be brought into play. Cow's milk has far too much casein in it to be like the human milk, so it is necessary to add water to obtain the right proportion. When this is done the proportion of fat is brought down too low, so we add more cream. The milk sugar is lower in natural cow's milk than in human milk and when it is still further reduced by the water which makes the casein all right, the sugar is way down below normal, so we add more sugar. Then again when natural milk flows from its source directly to the young which consumes it, there are no chances for harmful bacteria to get into it, but when it is drawn by human hands into pails all sorts of germs may make their homes in it. No landlord can evict these tenants.

Timidity Bids Talent.

A great deal of talent is lost to the world for the want of a little courage. Every day sends to their graves a number of obscure men who have only remained obscure because their timidity has prevented them from making a first effort; and who, if they could only have been induced to begin, would in all probability have gone great lengths in the career of fame. The fact is, that in order to do anything in this world worth doing, we must not stand shivering on the bank, and thinking of the cold and the danger, but jump in and scramble through as well as we can.—Sidney Smith.

Economy in Gas.

When I have a couple of hours ironing to do, or I have meat or vegetable to cook which require two or more hours' time, I put a teakettle of water on the unlighted burner next to the one I am using, so that when my ironing or cooking is done I have a teakettle of almost boiling water without turning any gas for that purpose.—F. nge.
